His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following awards to the undermentioned Officers, in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the field. Awarded a Second Bar to the Distinguished Service Order."

BOYALL, ALFRED MOREY, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel, 1st Battn. West Yorkshire Regt. On 21 March, 1918, when the whole of the front line had gone and the reserve to the right of the battalion had been taken by the enemy, he continued to control the situation with the greatest coolness and gallantry, and by his fine example inspired the remaining garrison of the front-line trenches to hold out till dusk. This resistance in the front-line system was most valuable in delaying the enemy's advance on the corps front.

(D.S.O. gazetted 27 Sept. 1901.)

(First Bar gazetted 4 Feb. 1918.)

Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

BUZZARD, FRANK ANSTIE, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, Royal Artillery (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during operations at Sherqat 24-30 Oct. 1918. On 21 March, 1918, and again on night of 29-30 Oct. 1918, he got his brigade on the move and into action with the greatest celerity after a march, on the latter occasion, of 26 miles in 7 hours. It was largely due to his promptness of action that the operation, which resulted in the capture of large numbers of prisoners, was entirely successful.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

DEACON, HENRY ROBERT GORDON, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, Connaught Rangers, attached Highland Light Infantry (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during operations at Sherqat 24-30 Oct. 1918. On the 24th Oct. 1918, his battalion, during a night advance, suddenly came under heavy fire at close range from a wired redoubt, which he rushed and captured. It was mainly due to his coolness and the discipline which he had instilled into his battalion that he was able to keep his men together at this critical moment. On the 29th Oct. 1918, he also displayed initiative and gallant leadership.

(D.S.O. gazetted 14 Jan. 1916.)

HAWES, CHARLES HOWARD, D.S.O., M.V.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 23rd Cavalry, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and ability to command during operations at Sherqat 24-30 Oct. 1918. He handled his regiment both in attack and defence against vastly superior numbers of the enemy most efficiently, and the success gained was largely due to his gallant example and bold leadership.

(D.S.O. gazetted 22 Dec. 1916.)

McVEAN, DONALD ARCHIBALD DUGALD, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 45th Sikhs, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty and ability as a battalion commander during operations at Sherqat 24-30 Oct. 1918. He led his regiment into action after a series of most trying and arduous marches over difficult country, covering over 60 miles in 70 hours, and in the end through a heavy artillery and machine-gun barrage. He displayed courage, determination and leadership of a high order.

(D.S.O. gazetted 2 Sept. 1902.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

BODKIN, LEO FRANCOIS, Major, 1st Battn. 112th Infantry, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attack at Sherqat on 29-30 Oct. 1918. Although wounded in the knee, he made light of the pain and gallantly carried on with great determination and initiative all night, till the enemy surrendered at dawn. He was then unable to move and was evacuated to hospital. His fine example had an inspiring effect on his men.

COLE-HAMILTON, HUGH ARTHUR WILLOUGHBY, Capt. (Acting Major), York and Lancaster Regt., attached 1st Battn. West Yorkshire Regt. On 21 March, 1918, east of Monchies, in command of two companies, successfully protected the exposed flank of the battalion throughout the day under very heavy fire. During this defence he crawled out some 60 yards in face of point-blank fire and dragged another officer back to safety. Throughout he showed conspicuous courage and devotion to duty, and his determined defence was of great value.

CROSSING, WALTER LEONARD, D.S.C., Temporary Capt., Mounted Machine Gun Corps (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Kisliar on 15 Oct. 1918. He drove his armoured car up to the enemy's lines, bringing such a heavy and accurate enfilade fire to bear on the enemy that they were forced to withdraw. His car was eventually struck by a shell, which killed three of the crew and wounded him and another man. In spite of his wounds he carried the man back under heavy fire to our own lines. He has on all occasions displayed great coolness in action.

EDWARDES, JOHN GRAHAM, Lieut.-Colonel, 1st Battn. 3rd Gurkha Rifles, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and skilful leadership during operations at Sherqat 24-30 Oct. 1918, and especially on 23 Oct. 1918, when he led his battalion with great skill down to the edge of the river, thereby preventing the enemy from crossing. The success of this bold enterprise, carried out under heavy fire, greatly increased the number of prisoners captured.

HARTLAND-MAHON, MARCUS JAMES, Lieut.-Colonel, Royal Artillery (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and ability to command during operations at Sherqat 24-30 Oct. 1918. Owing to his courage, initiative and untiring energy his batteries were always in action at the time and place required by the situation. He never spared himself, and fought his batteries magnificently throughout, greatly facilitating the further advance of the troops engaged.

HILL, GEORGE ALEXANDER, M.C., Capt., 4th Battn. Manchester Regt. and Royal Flying Corps (Northern Russia). He has since early December, 1917, been constantly working between the north of Russia and Roumania and Southern Russia. He has attended Bolshevik meetings at night when street fighting was at its height, passing back and forth through the Bolshevik fighting lines, and has been almost daily under fire without protection. He has conducted himself with courage and coolness and rendered valuable service.

LONG, HOWARD OAKLEY, Lieut., No. 3 Squadron, Royal Flying Corps, now Royal Air Force. For most conspicuous gallantry and ability during June and July, 1916. He initiated low-flying attacks on troops, transport and trains far beyond the enemy lines. He also brought down several enemy aeroplanes. These flights were carried out alone and unescorted. He did splendid work.

LUMB, FREDERICK GEORGE EDWARD, M.C., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Battn. 30th Garhwal Rifles, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and determination during operations at Sherqat 24-30 Oct. 1918. After a 33-mile march he crossed a river in support of a cavalry brigade, which was being hard pressed, and by his skilful and bold handling of his battalion inflicted heavy loss on the enemy, and was largely responsible for their surrendering. His quick and clear appreciation of the situation was invaluable.

SHOUBRIDGE, CHARLES ALBAN GREVIS, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Battn. 112th Infantry, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty and ability to command throughout the operations 24-30 Oct. 1918, and especially at Sherqat on 29 Oct. 1918, in which action he displayed marked good judgment and coolness, and by his untiring energy and fine leadership inspired all ranks with confidence. The very high state of efficiency of his battalions was borne out by their steadiness in battle.

STEWART, ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, Lieut.-Colonel, Corps of Guides, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during operations 21-30 Oct. 1918, at Sherqat. By his personal influence and gallant and cheerful leadership all determined efforts on the part of the enemy to break the right centre of our line during 28 Oct. and night of 28-29 Oct. 1918, were successfully repulsed. His regiment, encouraged by his fine example, displayed conspicuous endurance and staunchness throughout the operations.

WALKER, PHILIP LIONEL EDWARD, Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 7th Hussars, attached 1st Battn. East Lancashire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attempt to cross the River Rhonella, near Maresches, on 27 Oct. 1918. Hearing that the leading company had crossed a tributary in mistake for the river itself, he took two runners and went forward to reconnoitre the banks. The far bank was strongly held by enemy machine guns and riflemen, and he and his patrol came under their fire at close range, and he was severely wounded.

CANADIAN FORCE.

JOHNSON, WALTER WALLACE, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 58th Battn. 2nd Central Ontario Regt. For most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the attack on Marchoing line 28-29 Sept., and on Pont d'Aire 1 Oct. 1918. He went forward under heavy machine-gun fire, located gaps in the enemy wire, and afterwards led a night attack, progressing some 1,200 yards. He then led parties to clear up isolated posts, himself capturing a light trench mortar crew. Next day he did good work placing his Lewis guns, thereby assisting the advance on the right. On 1 Oct. he and his sergeant-major went forward to make a reconnaissance, during which they rushed a machine-gun post, killing the crew. He showed splendid courage, and his example inspired all ranks.

London Gazette, 27 June, 1919.—"War Office, 27 June, 1919. Amendment. The notification of the award of the Military Cross to the undermentioned Officer, which was published in the London Gazette dated 2 April, 1919, is cancelled, and the award of the D.S.O. is substituted."

PEMBERTON, HAROLD CHARLES, Temporary Captain, 20th Battn., attached 16th Battn. Lancashire Fusiliers.

London Gazette, 27 June, 1919.—"Admiralty, 27 June, 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours, in recognition of the services of the undermentioned Officers during the war. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

FRASER, RONALD MOUNTSTEVENS, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in H.M.S. Galatea, 1st Light Cruiser Squadron, during minelaying operations and in action with the enemy.

JOHNSON, HARRY HERBERT, Engineer Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Engineer Officer, H.M.S. Caledon, 1st Light Cruiser Squadron.

SHRUBSOLE, PERCY JOSEPH, Engineer Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Engineer Officer of H.M.S. Calypso, 6th Light Cruiser Squadron.

JOHNSON, CECIL HARVEY, Engineer Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Engineer Officer of H.M.S. Cassandra, 6th Light Cruiser Squadron.

NICHOLSON, JAMES BELL, Engineer Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Engineer Officer, H.M.S. Royalist, 1st Light Cruiser Squadron.

COOMBER, THOMAS GEORGE, Engineer Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Engineer Officer, H.M.S. Galatea, 1st Light Cruiser Squadron.

POWELL, JAMES, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Navigating Officer, H.M.S. Royalist, 1st Light Cruiser Squadron, whilst employed in minelaying operations in the North Sea.

LEGGE, THE HONOURABLE HUMPHRY, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Flag Lieut. to Rear-Admiral Sir Edwyn S. Alexander-Sinclair, K.C.B., M.V.O., in the 1st and 6th Light Cruiser Squadrons.

LYSTER, ARTHUR LUMLEY ST. GEORGE, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Gunnery Officer of H.M.S. Cassandra, 6th Light Cruiser Squadron.

MEIKLEJOHN, NORMAN SINCLAIR, Surgeon Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in H.M.S. Caledon, as Senior Medical Officer, 1st Light Cruiser Squadron.

DE DENNE, CECIL HUGH, Paymaster Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Secretary to Rear-Admiral Sir Walter H. Cowan, K.C.B., D.S.O., M.V.O., Commanding 1st Light Cruiser Squadron.

WEBSTER, JOHN THOMAS VICTOR, Paymaster Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For valuable services as Secretary to Rear-Admiral Sir Edwyn S. Alexander-Sinclair, K.C.B., M.V.O., in the 1st and 6th Light Cruiser Squadrons.

MORGAN, CHARLES ERIC, Lieut., Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Navigating Officer, H.M.S. Caledon, 1st Light Cruiser Squadron.

London Gazette, 10 July, 1919.—"Admiralty, 10 July, 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To be a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order."

TOVEY, JOHN CROMYN, Lieut.-Commander (now Commander), Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of H.M.S. Onslow.

London Gazette, 12 July, 1919.—"Admiralty, S.W., 12 July, 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours to the undermentioned officers. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

BOISSIER, MARTIN EDWARD SCOBELL, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Flag Commander to Admiral Sir T. H. Martyn Jerram, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., when Vice-Admiral Commanding Second Battle Squadron.

USSHER, RICHARD, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Gunnery Officer of H.M.S. Hyacinth, Flagship of the Commander-in-Chief, Cape Station.

BUSH, ATHELSTAN PAUL, Lieut., Royal Navy. For distinguished services during the war.

TUDWAY, LIONEL CHARLES PAUL, D.S.C., Lieut., Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of H.M. Gunboat Sumana during the Siege of Kut-al-Amarah from the 5th Dec. 1915, to the 29th April, 1916.

London Gazette, 15 July, 1919.—“War Office, 15 July, 1919. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following immediate awards for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in North Russia, conferred by Major-General C. C. M. Maynard, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., in pursuance of the powers vested in him by His Majesty. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order.”

CANADIAN FORCE.

ANDERSON, PETER, Major, Alberta Regt., attached Malamute Company. Knowing that the enemy were preparing another attack from Ouroszero, he rapidly replaced a bridge without their knowledge, and attacked them early on 11 April, 1919, with an armoured train, killing and capturing a number, together with two field guns and one machine gun. He showed marked gallantry and initiative throughout.

“His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following immediate awards for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in North Russia, conferred by Major-General W. E. Ironside, C.M.G., D.S.O., in pursuance of the powers vested in him by His Majesty. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order.”

BODY, OLIVER GUY, Capt. (Acting Major), Royal Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and ability in action. During the operations near Kodish on 7 Feb. 1919, he displayed great coolness and courage. The situation having demanded that his guns should be advanced, he personally went forward under heavy machine-gun and rifle fire to reconnoitre, after which he enabled the infantry to withdraw under cover of barrage fire. His work with this force has at all times been excellent.

CARROLL, JOHN WILLIAM VINCENT, C.M.G., Lieut.-Colonel, Norfolk Regt. He commanded the Russian forces at Morjegorskala during the heavy enemy attacks on 14 and 17 March, 1919. It was due to his fine leadership and personal gallantry that the young Russian troops stood firm and turned a critical situation into a decisive success. His energy and coolness were beyond praise.

HENDERSON, ARCHIE DOUGLAS, Temporary Capt. (Temporary Major), Norfolk Regt. He commanded at Vistafka during enemy attacks, 28 Feb. to 4 March, 1919. Regardless of personal danger, he was the chief source of strength to the garrison, and by his untiring work and devotion to duty held Vistafka for the column, and thus saved the column from a forced withdrawal.

PALMER, ALGEY, Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), 6th Battn. Northumberland Fusiliers, Territorial Force. He showed great courage and ability during the attacks on Vistafka, 28 Feb.-4 March, 1919. During very heavy shelling and machine-gun fire he stood on the roof of a house observing our artillery fire, and by his accurate and prompt reports rendered invaluable services. His whole work during a month's unrelieved service in the front line has been very fine.

WATSON, HENRY NEVILLE GRYLLS, Capt. (Temporary Major), Royal Army Service Corps. For conspicuous ability and coolness during the operations against Zemetova, 24-29 March, 1919. He was responsible for the organization of all transport operating over a very large area during the operations 20 Feb. to 4 April, Pinega Area. He personally took charge of the transport column in the most forward area, and it was owing to him that its withdrawal under fire was uniformly successful.

London Gazette, 17 July, 1919.—“Admiralty, 17 July, 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To be a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order.”

WROTTESELEY, FRANCIS ROBERT, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of No. 14 Kite Balloon Section in Mesopotamia from Aug. 1916, to Feb. 1917.

London Gazette, 30 July, 1919.—“War Office, 30 July, 1919. With reference to the awards conferred as announced in the London Gazette dated 15 Feb. 1919, the following are the statements of services for which the decorations were conferred. Awarded a Third Bar to the Distinguished Service Order.”

CROFT, WILLIAM DENMAN, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), Scottish Rifles, General Officer Commanding 27th Infantry Brigade. From 28 Sept. 1918, onwards he displayed the utmost energy, skill and gallantry in the command of his brigade, notably on 1 Oct., when his right flank was exposed and heavily counter-attacked at Ledeghem. His handling of his brigade on 15 Oct. resulted in his overcoming all opposition and reaching the line of the Lys, and thus attaining all his objectives. On the occasion of the crossing of the Lys on the night 16-17 Oct., which necessitated his crossing in daylight under heavy machine-gun fire at close range to visit his battalions on the eastern bank, his example and confidence inspired his troops, who, though strongly counter-attacked and heavily shelled, maintained their position until relieved.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 10 Jan. 1917.)

(2nd Bar gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

Awarded a Second Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

BROOKE, GEORGE FRANK, D.S.O., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, Reserve of Officers, attached 14th Battn. Welsh Regt. For gallant and skilful leading of his battalion near Villers Outreaux, 8 Oct. 1918. Owing to another brigade having been checked in their attack on the front enemy trenches, his battalion had to delay their advance for some time while suffering heavily from artillery barrage. By his personal efforts, skill and determination the battalion, which had been thrown into some confusion, was rallied and assembled for the further advance, eventually reaching the final objective, which included the capture of Mallencourt on route. It was almost entirely due to his gallant leading that the advance was enabled to continue after the check experienced.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4 June, 1917.)

(Bar gazetted 2 Dec. 1918.)

IRWIN, ALFRED PERCY BULTEEL, D.S.O., Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), East Surrey Regt., commanding 8th Battn. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Ronsoy, 18 Sept. 1918, in command of his battalion. He kept his troops close behind the attacking unit, and when the latter was held up he went forward with two runners in face of heavy fire and made a rapid reconnaissance. When suddenly attacked by nine of the enemy he and his runners killed them all, afterwards taking many prisoners in the village. He then returned and led his two assaulting companies to their first objective. After reorganizing with reinforcements under intense fire he led the attack on the final objective. Throughout the day his behaviour was splendid, and the great fight put up by his battalion was due to his bold and able leadership.

(D.S.O. gazetted 20 Oct. 1916.)

(Bar gazetted 26 July, 1917.)

LLOYD, LEMUEL, D.S.O., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 12th Battn. Suffolk Regt. He displayed the greatest coolness and skill in carrying out the attack on 28 Sept. 1918. The chief objective was the “Bluff” which was the key for the capture of the whole of the country to the south. By his personal direction of the operations he assailed the “Bluff” in flank and rear, thereby taking the enemy by surprise and ensuring its capture. After the capture of both objectives he worked unceasingly till he personally saw his line was secure.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4 March, 1918.)

(1st Bar gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

REES, JOHN GORDON, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Welsh Horse Yeomanry, attached 25th Battn. Royal Welsh Fusiliers (Capt., Reserve of Officers). For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership during the attack on Gillefont Farm and the Cat Post, 21 Sept. 1918. Finding the enemy had re-occupied Cat Post he at once organized his signallers, runners, etc., about eight in all, attacked the post and captured a machine gun. When his party was reduced to three he withdrew, bringing back the wounded. He did fine work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18 Jan. 1918.)

(Bar gazetted 26 March, 1918.)

ROBERTSON, GORDON McMAHON, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Battn. North Staffordshire Regt., attached 2nd Battn. Manchester Regt. For the magnificent way in which he handled his battalion during the operations on the Hindenburg Line, and in the attack on the Fonsomme Line, 29 Sept. to 2 Oct. 1918. It was owing to his fine example of courage and endurance under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire that the frequent hostile counter-attacks were driven off and the captured line retained when both flanks were turned by the enemy.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

(1st Bar gazetted 11 Jan. 1919.)

CANADIAN FORCE.

EDWARDS, CAMERON MACPHERSON, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 38th Battn. Canadian Infantry. On 2 Sept. 1918, during the Drocourt-Queant battle, he displayed fine leadership and gallantry. He carried out several reconnaissances under very heavy fire, and the information he gained was most valuable in directing artillery fire into points of resistance and enemy movements. His cool courage was an example to all who came in contact with him, but particularly to his battalion, which gained all their objectives in time, thereby creating the desired gap in the Drocourt-Queant system of trenches.

(D.S.O. gazetted 10 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

ADLERCRON, RODOLPH LADEVEZE, C.M.G., D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), Cameron Highlanders (General Officer Commanding 124th Infantry Brigade). During operations 28 Sept.-2 Oct. 1918, between Hollebeke and Comines he commanded a brigade. He handled his troops with skill and dash, personally directing operations in the field. It was due to his gallantry and fine example under machine-gun fire on the 28th that the advance continued without further stop and the capture of Kortwilde was effected that evening.

(D.S.O. gazetted 14 Jan. 1918.)

ALBAN, CLIFTON EDWARD RAWDON GRANT, D.S.O., Capt. and Brevet Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Liverpool Regt., attached 15th Battn. Lancashire Fusiliers. For the gallant way in which he led his battalion in the attack and capture of the village of Joncourt on 3 Oct. 1918, under extremely heavy artillery and machine-gun fire. Although only partially successful the first time, he reorganized his battalion under fire and launched a second and successful attack. He did splendid work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18 July, 1917.)

CAMPBELL, SIR JOHN BRUCE STEWART, Bart., D.S.O., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 11th Battn. Royal Scots. On 28 Sept. 1918, while reconnoitring the line in front of Becelaere he was fired at from 200 yards by an enemy field gun. He immediately got a machine gun into action, and with a few men, under machine-gun fire and the direct fire of the gun, surrounded the field gun, the battery teams running away. It was entirely due to his gallantry and quick action that the battery was captured, thus saving many casualties.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26 July, 1917.)

DANBY, SILAS, D.S.O., M.C., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 12th Battn. Manchester Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and initiative at Neuville on 12 Oct. 1918. Owing to his skilful dispositions and the wonderful dash of his men the operation was completely successful with slight casualties, and the objective gained and consolidated under his direction. Later, when in charge of the combined attack to clear the ground north-east of Neuville, he was forced by overwhelming odds to withdraw to a bank east of the river whence he pushed forward patrols to the railway. His courage and determination inspired all under him.

(D.S.O. gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

DEMPSTER, JAMES FINLAY, D.S.O., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Manchester Regt., attached 1/8th Battn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt. (Capt., Reserve of Officers). For conspicuous courage and ability in leading his battalion near Bellenglise on 29 Sept. 1918. He immediately followed up the battalion of the brigade which crossed the canal and stormed the Hindenburg Line. He assisted in the clearing up of Bellenglise, and during this operation and the advance to his final objective some hundreds of the enemy and many machine guns and trench mortars were captured. He did splendid work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

CAMERON, EVEN ALLAN, D.S.O., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 10th Battn. North Lancashire Regt., commanding 9th Battn. East Surrey Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and brilliant leadership. He organized, on the afternoon of 15 Oct. 1918, and carried out, practically without previous reconnaissance at dawn on 16 Oct., the capture of the village of Haussy, together with about 800 prisoners, and many machine guns and trench mortars. Later, when the enemy counter-attacked under an exceptionally heavy bombardment and forced our troops back, he rallied all the men within reach, and organized fresh resistance, inflicting many casualties on the enemy. He did splendid work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

FITZJOHN, TUDOR, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Battn. Worcestershire Regt., attached 4th Battn. He displayed great dash and initiative during the period 28 Sept. to 3 Oct. 1918. In the operation which led to the capture of Gheluvelt and Kruseecke, it was due to his quickness that the important high ground was captured before the enemy had time to reorganize his defences. He displayed great gallantry and devotion to duty throughout the whole operations.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

FLETCHER, JAMES HENRY, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Army Medical Corps, commanding 36th Field Ambulance. For most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Mametz, on 26 Aug. 1918, when in command of bearers. With another officer he crawled out under heavy machine-gun fire into "No Man's Land," dragged back two wounded bearers to a more sheltered spot, and after dressing them crawled back for assistance, organized two squads of bearers and brought the wounded men in under heavy fire; also two more wounded men found lying out. He set a splendid example to all serving under him.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18 July, 1917.)

FORD, VINCENT TENNYSON RANDLE, D.S.O., Capt. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Batta. York and Lancaster Regt., attached 8th Batta. Northumberland Fusiliers. In the operations of 27 Sept. 1918, at Olsy le Verger, he commanded his battalion with marked courage and ability. When the battalion which was assaulting the first objective lost direction, he quickly grasped the situation and led his battalion on to the final objective with great dash. By his rapid and determined advance a position of great strength was captured with light casualties. His conduct throughout the day set a fine example to all ranks.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

HELME, ERNEST, D.S.O., Major, Glamorganshire Yeomanry, attached 15th Batta. Welsh Regt. For gallant and skilful leading of his battalion near Villers Outreaux on 8 Oct. 1918. Owing to another brigade having been checked in their attack on the front enemy trenches his battalion had to delay their advance for some time while suffering heavily from artillery barrage. By his personal efforts, skill and determination the battalion, which had been thrown into some confusion, was rallied and assembled for the further advance, eventually reaching a further final objective. It was almost entirely due to his gallant leading that the advance was enabled to continue after the check experienced.

(D.S.O. gazetted 2 Dec. 1918.)

HOGGART, JOHN WILLIAM, D.S.O., M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), commanding 50th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty on 14 Oct. 1918, at Steenbeek. When our infantry was held up by machine-gun fire he brought his battery into action in the open at 800 yards range from the enemy and engaged each machine-gun emplacement in turn and put them out of action, thus enabling our infantry to advance. Later in the day he brought his battery into action in the front line and engaged the machine guns in the houses of Steenbeek, silencing them. He had two gun teams killed by shell and machine-gun fire. He did splendid work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1919.)

HOWARD, CHARLES ALFRED, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel, 1st Batta. King's Royal Rifle Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty while in command of his battalion during the operations from 28 Sept. to 8 Oct. 1918. On 28 Sept. he personally organized the line near Noyelles, preventing the enemy from destroying bridges over the Scheldt and the St. Quentin Canal; he also organized the fording of the river crossings, and the consolidation of defences under heavy fire after his battalion had taken their objective. On 8 Oct., when the enemy counter-attacked his battalion with tanks, he showed great gallantry, and though slightly wounded rallied disorganized troops and by his personal example restored the position.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

MODERA, FREDERICK STEWART, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Temporary Major and Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Fusiliers, attached 1st Batta. Lancashire Fusiliers. East of Ypres on 28 Sept. 1918, and subsequent days he led and commanded his battalion with marked courage and skill. Although wounded in the hand and face in "No Man's Land" when leading his battalion shortly after zero on 28 Sept., he remained on duty for the next five days. His dispositions for both attack and defence were always right, and he proved himself a born leader of men. He personally led his battalion in the attack.

(D.S.O. gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

SAMPSON, FRANCIS CORNELIUS, D.S.O., M.B., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 91st Field Ambulance, Royal Army Medical Corps. For exemplary devotion to duty on the night of 3-4 Oct. 1918, at Le Raraque (north of St. Quentin) when this area was heavily bombed. This officer, regardless of personal danger, by his initiative and personal influence, organized and accompanied relief parties and was instrumental in the rapid evacuation of the wounded. The bombing was very severe and the casualties heavy, there being 13 amongst the Royal Army Medical Corps bearers alone; the actual number of killed exceeded 40.

(D.S.O. gazetted 14 Jan. 1916.)

SMITH, ROBERT ARTHUR, D.S.O., M.C., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 13th Batta. Royal Fusiliers. On 10 Oct. 1918, when his battalion was held up on the outskirts of Caudry he went forward to find out the situation himself, and in spite of machine-gun fire and sniping gained information enabling him to form up his battalion for attack the following night in assembly positions from which the town could be outflanked from the south. Throughout the operations his fearless reconnoitring and gallant leading were a fine example to all, and materially helped the success of the brigade.

(D.S.O. gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

STORY, PHILIP FRANCIS, D.S.O., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Engineers (Commanding Royal Engineers, 30th Division). At Menin, on 14 Oct. 1918, he made a skilful reconnaissance of the river crossings under considerable shell and machine-gun fire, thus enabling a bridge to be thrown across at the earliest opportunity. Again, at Helchin, on 21 Oct., his energy and fearlessness under similar conditions were instrumental in getting a pontoon bridge across the Scheldt under close infantry fire.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

THORPE, GERVAISE, C.M.G., D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders (General Officer Commanding 17th Infantry Brigade). Near Kleux, east of Cambrai, on 11 Oct. 1918, he showed the greatest gallantry and devotion to duty in rallying troops who had been counter-attacked and temporarily forced to vacate their position. Though exposed to heavy machine-gun fire he galloped up to the front line and by his strong personal example put new heart into the troops and restored the situation. His behaviour was most gallant.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18 Feb. 1915.)

TONSON-RYE, HUBERT BERNARD, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Batta. Royal Munster Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry on 5 Oct. 1918, during an attack on Le Catelet and the high ground north of it. He got through with his reserve company to the final objective, and by his personal example and courage he held on to this position all day, though the battalion on his flank was held up, suffering many casualties from shell and machine-gun fire. By his action he enabled his brigadier to organize another attack on his flank on the enemy, which was successful, all objectives being gained.

(D.S.O. gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

TURNER, REGINALD, D.S.O., Capt. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Dragoon Guards, Special Reserve, attached 6th Batta. Northamptonshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Ronsoy on 18 Sept. 1918. He got his battalion on the jumping-off line under very difficult conditions and finally led them on under very heavy machine-gun fire, capturing several machine guns and killing the gunners. He personally conducted a great deal of the work of his battalion, and his courage and initiative were most marked.

(D.S.O. gazetted 19 April, 1901.)

WESTMORLAND, HERBERT CAMPBELL, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Batta. Hampshire Regt. This officer displayed the greatest energy and ability in reorganizing and directing his battalion throughout the operations which led up to the capture of Gheluvelt and part of Gheluwe, from 28 Sept. to 3 Oct. 1918. During these attacks he displayed great gallantry and devotion to duty, and it was mainly due to his efforts that a number of his men were prevented from being captured in Gheluwe on the afternoon of the 3rd.

(D.S.O. gazetted 16 September, 1918.)

CANADIAN FORCE.

BICKERDIKE, ROBERT, D.S.O., Major, 87th Batta. Canadian Infantry, Quebec Regt. For great gallantry and devotion to duty at Bourlon, Blecourt, Cambrai Sector, from 27 Sept. to 1 Oct. 1918. During the night attack made by the battalion east of Bourlon Wood on 27 Sept. he went forward and under heavy fire he gallantly organized the line and held the objective till relieved by troops passing through. On 30 Sept., when troops were driven back, he reorganized the line out of elements of several battalions, and held the front line against counter-attacks till his battalion was withdrawn for reorganization in the evening. On the morning of 1 Oct. he took signallers and scouts forward and established a report centre at the farthest point reached by our advanced troops. The skill and daring displayed by him throughout the whole operations were admirable.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

ELKINS, WILLIAM HENRY PFERINGER, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. He commanded a group consisting of Royal Canadian Horse Artillery Brigade and a battery of 4.5 inch howitzers during the operations of 9 Oct. He showed exceptional skill and daring in the handling of his guns under heavy fire, and was largely responsible for the success of the operations. On 10 Oct. he commanded five batteries working in a very advanced position in support of the infantry attack on Neuville. Finding that his communication was cut between himself and the 4.5 inch howitzer battery, he went forward under very heavy shell fire to ascertain the situation: and superintended from a very exposed position the shooting of this battery when he had been ordered to cover a portion of the infantry advance.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

LINDSEY, CHARLES BETHUNE, D.S.O., Major, 19th Batta. Canadian Infantry, 1st Central Ontario Regt. (Brigade Major 11th Canadian Infantry Brigade, Acting G.S.O. II., 4th Canadian Division). For great gallantry during the operations of 2, 3 and 4 Sept. 1918, before Arras. He repeatedly made reconnaissances under very heavy shell fire and machine-gun fire and maintained close touch with all forward units under exceedingly trying conditions. The information which he obtained was most valuable.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4 June, 1917.)

PERRY, KENNETH MEIKLE, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 87th Batta. Canadian Infantry, Quebec Regt. For conspicuous courage and leadership at Bourlon Wood and north of Cambrai from 27 Sept. to 1 Oct. His work was accomplished with dash and precision, although at the cost of heavy casualties. On 30 Sept. the battalion again lost heavy casualties, but, when asked to attack once more the next morning, he, with only 100 men, carried the attack to the very outskirts of Esware, in spite of the desperate opposition of heavily massed enemy, and in conjunction with the battalion on his left he maintained an advanced position.

(D.S.O. gazetted 19 Aug. 1916.)

RAISTON, JAMES LAYTON, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 85th Batta. Canadian Infantry, Nova Scotia Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and outstanding leadership in operations before Cambrai, 27 Sept.-2 Oct. 1918. He handled his battalion with great skill and successfully accomplished the allotted tasks in face of very heavy enemy resistance, after making frequent reconnaissances of the most forward positions under heavy machine-gun fire. When the enemy counter-attacked, his tactical skill saved a very critical situation. Though wounded in the face on the third day of the battle he refused to be relieved, and continued at duty until his battalion was withdrawn.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26 Sept. 1917.)

ROSS, MALCOLM NUGENT, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 4th Brigade Canadian Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry on 2 and 3 Sept. 1918, during the attack on the Quéant-Drocourt line and on Soudemont, Ecourt St. Quentin, and Rumaucourt. He went forward with his brigade in the support of the infantry, and throughout the operation showed marked dash and courage. He pushed his batteries well forward after close personal reconnaissance under heavy fire, and engaged enemy positions over open sights. His initiative, quick action, and daring offensive methods materially assisted the advance.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26 July, 1917.)

STEVENSON, HERBERT IRVING, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, Fort Garry Horse. He led his regiment with great gallantry and determination during the advance from Mametz to Le Cateau on 9 Oct. 1918. He directed the operations from most advanced positions under heavy shell and machine-gun fire and showed a total disregard for all danger. The capture of the Bois de Gattigny was entirely due to this officer's initiative, fine leading, and had a most important bearing on the subsequent advance. His conduct throughout the operations was splendid, and he set an inspiring example to his regiment.

(D.S.O. gazetted 22 June, 1918.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

ADLERCRON, GEORGE ROTHE LADEVEZE, Capt., 8th Hussars. On the night of 21-22 March, 1918, he was sent with his squadron to relieve the infantry holding the important redoubts on the ridge above Hesbecourt. This section of the line was very heavily attacked early in the morning of 22 March, and he was severely wounded in the mouth and jaw about 8 a.m., but, though suffering great pain from the damage to his jaw and teeth, together with the loss of blood, he refused to leave his post. Again, at about 9 a.m., he was shot through the side, but still remained in command of his squadron and held his ground, although the line on both sides gave way and 50 per cent. of his squadron had become casualties. In spite of this, this very gallant officer refused to give up command of his squadron, though he knew fully well that he had already done more than seemed humanly possible, and that he ought to allow himself to be evacuated to have his wounds dressed. At 12 noon he was forced to retire, and conducted the retirement in a most efficient manner; while doing so, he was again severely wounded through the leg, and he still refused to leave the trench until all his men had gone, and would allow no one to remain to help him back, though he fully realized that the danger of his being captured by the advancing enemy was great, and was determined not to allow any of his men to run the same risk as himself. His magnificent courage and devotion to duty at an intensely critical time was an inspiring example to all ranks.

ALDOUS, FREDERIC CLEMENT, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 6th Batta. Manchester Regt., Territorial Force, attached 32nd Batta. Machine Gun Corps.

On 29 Sept. 1918, near Bellenglise, he displayed the greatest gallantry and ability in the handling of his battalion. The rapid advance of his machine guns across the canal was carried out under his own personal supervision under heavy shell fire at close range, and was of vital consequence to the successful issue of the attack. On 2 Oct. he carried out daring personal reconnaissances of machine-gun positions under heavy shell fire and made dispositions that had far-reaching results on the events of the operation.

ANGUS, ALEXANDER WILLIAM, Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 5th Battn. Cameron Highlanders. For marked gallantry and initiative, from 28 Sept. to 14 Oct. 1918, and for skilful leading near Rollegem Capelle on the latter date. He took one of his own companies and led it through troops who had been held up. His prompt action enabled the whole line to advance. Throughout the operations he did excellent work.

ASHMORE, EDWIN JAMES CALDWELL, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 10th Gurkha Rifles, attached 2/3rd Gurkha Rifles (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry on 19 Sept. 1918. With the greatest dash, he personally led his battalion forward during the original attack on the Tabor Defences when, owing to the dense smoke of our own and the enemy barrage, it had lost direction and formation. The rapidity of the advance of his battalion, and the very heavy losses both in men and material inflicted on the enemy, was in a large measure due to his personal leadership. His example was an inspiration to all ranks.

BAKER, EUSTON EDWARD FRANCIS, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Middlesex Regt., Special Reserve, attached 2nd Battn. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership. In particular, in the successful attacks on the Fresno-Rouvroy line on 7 Oct. and Drocourt-Quéant line on 11 Oct. 1918, resulting in the capture of many prisoners and much material, his resourcefulness and gallantry under fire were most marked. He personally exploited successes, and by his grasp of the situation in the afternoon was instrumental in seizing a most important tactical point which was holding up the corps on the right.

BAULD, ROBERT STERLING, M.C., 2nd Lieut., 5th Battn. Lancashire Fusiliers, Territorial Force, attached 18th Battn. During the attack south-east of Ypres on Hill 60, and the Caterpillar on 28 Sept. 1918, and subsequent operations, he displayed fine courage and initiative. He led his men splendidly, knocking out machine guns in his stride, and pushing well forward of his objective rushed a pill-box, capturing the two machine guns and killing the garrison. On his company commander becoming a casualty, he led the company with marked gallantry and coolness, and at Wervicq encouraged his men under most difficult conditions. On the night of 1-2 Oct., he rushed forward with some 30 men and occupied a pillbox behind the enemy's line, holding on to an isolated position for 48 hours until relieved. He set a magnificent example to his men.

BUXTON, ROBERT VERE, Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal West Kent Yeomanry, Commanding 2nd Battn. Imperial Camel Corps (Egypt). For gallant and successful services when in command of a flying column of Imperial Camel Corps operating in the Northern Hejaz. On 8 Aug. 1918, this column delivered a surprise attack on the strong Turkish post at Mudawara on the Hejaz Railway, 60 miles south of Maan. As a result the station was captured and destroyed, 35 Turks being killed and 150 prisoners captured. This operation—the success of which was largely due to Colonel Buxton's personal leadership and excellent dispositions—had the effect of completing the isolation of Medina and the Southern Hejaz garrisons from communication with the north.

BYRNE, LOUIS CAMPBELL, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), 2nd Battn. Royal Dublin Fusiliers. After being knocked senseless by the explosion of a shell on the night of 6 Oct. 1918, near Vauxhall Quarry, north-east of Gouy, he refused to go to the dressing-station, remained in command of his unit, and personally conducted successful operations against the Maanleres-Beaurevoir line. The success of the operation was largely due to his courage, resolution and personal example.

CARTER, WILLIAM, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Major), Royal Lancaster Regt., G.S.O.2, H.Q., XIII. Corps. On 4 Oct. 1918, when sent forward to ascertain the situation, he found the attack held up by heavy machine-gun fire and the infantry somewhat disorganized. He collected two tanks, reorganized two companies of infantry, and restarted the advance which had been checked. On 8 Oct., when detailed to report on the progress of the attack, he found that most of Serain was still in the hands of the enemy. He returned, collected more troops, led them into the village, and organized the systematic mopping up of the area. He showed great gallantry, enterprise and determination.

CARTWRIGHT, CHARLES, M.C., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 6th Battn. York and Lancaster Regt. At Epinoy, on 1 Oct. 1918, he showed conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during a whole day's fighting in which his battalion took part. He remained in a certain position which was continuously shelled both with gas and high-explosive throughout the day, in order that he might better control his battalion. His action had a marked effect towards the success of the operations. His cheerfulness and coolness throughout a very trying time inspired all under his command and was largely responsible for the splendid behaviour of his men.

CLOUGH, JOHN, M.C., Temporary Major, 16th Battn. Tank Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and excellent leadership on 29 Sept. 1918, near Guilleumont Farm. When the attack had miscarried and it was found necessary to organize a fresh attack, he went forward in face of heavy machine-gun and shell fire, and showed the tanks where to go and gave his orders. All his section and tank commanders were either killed or wounded during this operation. Again, on the night of 4-5 Oct. at Montbrehaln he led his tanks splendidly. By his strenuous efforts and fine example through the night under shell fire he got all his tanks up to the start line, and thereby materially assisted in the capture of Montbrehaln.

COLQUHOUN, ARCHIBALD GORDON CAMPBELL, Capt. (Acting Major), 2nd Battn. Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders. For conspicuous gallantry and exemplary leadership of his battalion near Neuville on 10 Oct. 1918. He was in temporary command and personally led what remained of his battalion in the second attack made against very strong enemy positions east of the River Selle, succeeding, in spite of violent opposition, in establishing a series of posts on the east side of the river. On the following day, exposed to intense machine-gun and snipers' fire, he personally visited these forward and isolated posts, having to traverse the ground in full view of the enemy in order to do so. He set a fine example of courage and determination to his battalion, which had suffered heavy casualties.

COOK, FRANCIS ALFRED, M.C., Lieut., 4th Battn. York and Lancaster Regt., Territorial Force, attached 6th Battn. On 27 Sept. 1918, near Epinoy, he was responsible for driving off an enemy machine gun from a bridgehead which was holding up the advance of the division. He pressed on to the bank of the Canal du Nord with his men under heavy machine-gun and rifle fire, crossed the canal and drove the enemy into the wood, where they were captured. On 1 Oct. he led his men to the final objective across two belts of wire in face of heavy opposition. Later, when isolated and surrounded by large numbers of the enemy, he inflicted many casualties, himself accounting for a number. He was wounded in the thigh, his leg being badly broken, and throughout the whole operations set a splendid example of gallantry and determination.

DAVISON, DOUGLAS STEWART, Capt., 2nd Lancers, Indian Army (Egypt). For conspicuous skill and gallantry and fine work. Between Lejjun and Afule on 20 Sept. 1918, the 2nd Lancers and one sub-section of the 17th Machine Gun Squadron and 11th Light Armoured Motor Battery were ordered to advance on Afule. Capt. Davison was placed in command of this force. About two miles from Lejjun, the force met with some 500 enemy and three machine guns, who endeavoured to bar the road. A well-planned charge, rapidly executed, resulted in the total destruction of this enemy force, some 47 of them being killed and wounded and 470 taken prisoners. The regiment was very quickly reorganized, and the rapidity and skill with which the final approach to Afule was made resulted in a further capture of prisoners who would otherwise have escaped.

DE HOGHTON, GUY, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 1st Battn. Yorkshire Light Infantry. For most conspicuous gallantry and good leadership in command of his battalion during the attack on Le Catelet on 3 Oct. 1918. This officer, five minutes before zero, had to move up his battalion to take the place of another. He doubled his men up to the barrage, and the battalion went forward with great dash, captured their objective, over 300 prisoners, and several machine guns. He was wounded early in the attack, but continued to command.

DUNN, PIERS DUNCAN WILLIAM, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), 1st Battn. Lancashire Fusiliers. For most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Ledeghem on 14 Oct. 1918. He was detailed with his company to mop up the village, and went over with the first wave. With one N.C.O. and two men, and under heavy shell fire and gas, he proceeded down the main street and captured 40 of the enemy out of a pill-box; and later took another 26 prisoners. In all, he and his little party accounted for 74 prisoners. The dense fog made his conduct all the more praiseworthy. He did splendid work.

FRANKS, KENDAL FERGUSON, Capt. (Temporary Major), 1st Battn. 117th Maharrattas (India). In operations at Zardes on 30 Oct.-1 Nov. 1918, he commanded a small column which became separated from the main column and was surrounded by the enemy. Being unable to bring away his wounded, he took up a defensive position and held it until relieved the following day, being all the time under fire from surrounding hills. He acted with great resourcefulness, skill and courage throughout, and the success of the operations was mainly due to the troops under his command.

FREEMAN, CECIL RAYNER, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 2nd Battn. Northumberland Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and skill when commanding a battalion at Le Catelet on 5 Oct. 1918. He encountered a strong enemy post among the ruins in the north of the village. After making a very difficult reconnaissance he led two companies to the attack. By fine courage and leadership he overcame strong opposition, capturing 250 enemy, with five heavy machine guns, 13 light machine guns and two trench mortars, besides inflicting very heavy casualties. He did splendid work.

FRENCH, WILLIAM, M.C., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 8th Battn. Royal Highlanders. For conspicuous gallantry and continuous good services during operations in Flanders from 28 Sept.-4 Oct. 1918. During the whole of this period he set a high standard of leadership. He handled his battalion with marked ability, and always kept in a position from whence he could take advantage of opportunities to advance his line. During the attack on 1 Oct. his battalion formed the defensive flank on the left of the brigade, and it was due to his quick, skilful dispositions, which could only have been effected by personal observations and reconnaissance, that the attack against our left flank was beaten off. Subsequently he was of the greatest assistance in reorganizing the line after the attack had come to a standstill.

GAIN, RICHARD SPENCER, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 11th, attached 1/20th, Battn. London Regt. On 1 Sept. 1918, during operations near Bouchavesnes, he showed most conspicuous gallantry and resource. Though his company was held up on several occasions by machine-gun nests, he organized local attacks on each, and himself alone rushed one nest of seven guns and five gunners, all firing, capturing the whole and so allowing his company to advance. Finally, when the objective was reached on the outskirts of Molsans Wood, he took command of the elements of four companies which had reached the objective and consolidated the position, though being fired on over open sights by two 77 mm. guns, and shot the gunners, thus enabling the consolidation to be continued. He behaved splendidly.

GOOCH, HAROLD, M.C., Temporary Major, 121st Field Coy., Royal Engineers. For courage and great devotion to duty on the night of 19-20 Oct. 1918, when under heavy shell and direct machine-gun fire during the bridging of the River Lys, south of Oyghem. In spite of many casualties, he successfully handled his company and ferried and later bridged the river, enabling the attacking infantry to cross it exactly to time. He conducted the whole operation in the most cool and masterly manner.

HACKING, ALFRED, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1/8th Battn., attached 1/5th Battn., Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership whilst leading his battalion to the final objective near Bellenglise on 29 Sept. 1918. During the advance, between 350 and 400 enemy were captured and many killed. Lieut. Hacking was also cleared up and about 40 guns captured by his battalion. He himself, with his orderly, captured a large number of prisoners. Again, on 30 Sept., owing to the good dispositions made by him, a large number of enemy, who were retreating from in front of the troops on his right, were shot. He did splendid work.

HARRISON, GEORGE LEE, Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal West Surrey Regt., Commanding 7th Battn. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership when in command of his battalion on 18 Sept. 1918, during the attack on Ronsoy. He formed his battalion up for the attack on the village with great skill, and proceeded with them when they advanced, sharing with the men in the hand-to-hand fighting that took place. Throughout the operations he showed a great personal example to the men, and skill in handling his battalion, which fought extremely well in the face of heavy enemy opposition.

HINGLEY, ALFRED NORMAN, M.C., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 13th Battn. Middlesex Regt. For great gallantry on 10 Oct. 1918, near Rieux. When the advance met with heavy machine-gun and shell fire, and the leading companies had lost many officers, he personally led the battalion to its final objective. Again, on 11 Oct., near Avesnes-les-Aubert, under an intense enemy barrage, it was due to his personal courage and leadership that the ground gained by the battalion was maintained. He set a very fine example to all.

HITCH, ARTHUR TYLER, Temporary Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 6th Battn. Bedfordshire Regt., attached 8th Battn. Lincolnshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership in the operations about Havrincourt Wood on 9-10 Sept. 1918. He personally supervised the pushing forward of the line north of the wood over ground which was under very heavy shell fire. Throughout the operations he handled his battalion with great skill, courage and judgment. His good leadership and personal disregard of danger during a difficult phase of wood fighting contributed largely to the rapid retreat of the enemy and the complete success of the day's operations.

HODGSON, HAROLD JOHN, Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Cheshire Regt., attached 7th Battn. Wiltshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry on 5 Oct. 1918, near Le Catelet, when, by his initiative and skill, he attacked and captured the northern slopes of Prospect Hill, which was strongly defended, without a barrage.

all the time under heavy shell and machine-gun fire; and by his action gained a position of great tactical importance. He showed most able leadership and rendered very valuable service.

HOOD, JOHN WEMYSS, M.C., Temporary Capt., attached Border Regt. (1st Batta.). At Hooge, on 28 Sept. 1918, he commanded his company with marked skill and ability. He led an attack on an enemy strong point, personally shot three of a machine-gun crew, and captured the gun and 53 prisoners. On 30 Sept. at Ghelume, he led forward his company without artillery support, and in face of very heavy fire captured his objective, being the first to arrive. Throughout five days' operations he showed fine courage and leadership, and his splendid example inspired all under him.

HOWELL-EVANS, HUGH JOHN, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Denbighshire Yeomanry, attached 10th Batta. Shropshire Light Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry, initiative and good leadership. During the attack on the Cat Post quadrilateral on 21 Sept. 1918, he fought his battalion with great dash, and when they were held up by machine-gun fire, made a daring reconnaissance and then caused them to take up a position in shell-holes and hold out throughout the day. During the night, with the remains of his battalion, he made a further attack, which was completely successful, killing some 80 of the enemy and capturing 200 prisoners and 30 machine guns in a very strong position. He did splendid work.

ISAAC, AUBERON GODFREY FAULKNER, M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Batta. Royal Berkshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and determined leadership during the attack on Drocourt-Quéant Line on 11 Oct. 1918. It was due to his fearless leadership and energy that the villages of Izel-les-Esquerchin, Quiry la Motte, Esquerchin, Petit Quincy and Quincy were captured during the day. He handled his battalion throughout in a masterly manner, taking advantage of every opportunity to advance his line and giving the enemy no respite.

JACKSON, RICHARD DINGWALL, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Engineers, Commanding Royal Engineers, 37th Division. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty between Le Bosquet and Vaucelles, 3-6 Oct. 1918. He made several daring reconnaissances of the canal and River d'Escourt to select sites for bridges. The information he obtained enabled him to throw bridges over both, in spite of heavy enemy fire. It was largely due to his ability and inspiring gallantry that the canal and river were successfully bridged.

JERVIS, NICHOLAS GORDON MAINWARING, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Field Artillery, attached Headquarters 231st (N.M.) Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, Territorial Force. This officer commanded a field artillery group during the operations of the 46th Division on 19 Dec. 1918, near Bellenglise, with great distinction. He also commanded his brigade during the operations on 3 Oct. During this period he made several most valuable reconnaissances. He only received orders to move his batteries forward for the latter operations at 5.30 p.m. on 2 Oct., but by his great energy and a very skilful and fearless reconnaissance he made all his arrangements and moved his batteries a distance of about two miles to forward positions, and was able to take part in the barrage at 6.5 a.m. on 3 Oct. Throughout the operations he did gallant and excellent work.

JOHNSON, WALTER RUSSELL, Lieut.-Colonel, 7th Batta. Essex Regt., Territorial Force, attached 9th Batta. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership during the attack on Epehy on 18 Sept. 1918. When the companies of his battalion had lost direction owing to the darkness and smoke he reorganized and moved them to a flank while the enemy were still in Epehy. Later, he rallied two companies of another battalion which had become disorganized owing to one of our tanks, which had lost its bearings, firing on them. Throughout he has shown great energy and ability to command.

JONES, JAMES, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Major and Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Batta. Durham Light Infantry, attached 17th Batta. Lancashire Fusiliers. He commanded his battalion with conspicuous success during a most difficult operation, involving the capture of Zandvoorde on 28 Sept. 1918. By his behaviour under heavy machine-gun fire at close range, he set a splendid example to the officers and men of his battalion at a very critical period of the attack. All ranks were unanimous in praising his coolness and courage.

KEEP, LESLIE HOWARD, M.C., Temporary Major, 7th Batta. Bedfordshire Regt., attached 2nd Batta. At Ronsoy on 21 Sept. 1918, he commanded the 2nd Batta. Bedfordshire Regt. with marked success. His skill, energy and determination enabled his battalion to hold the ground they won under great difficulties, and to improve their position during the following night. He made personal reconnaissance of the ground under constant machine-gun fire, resulting in the clearing up of a very involved situation.

KELLY, THOMAS JOSEPH, M.C., Temporary Major, 18th Batta. Manchester Regt., attached 1/6th Batta. Territorial Force. For fine leadership, gallantry and ability during the operations east of Trescault on 27 Sept. 1918. He was placed in command of a battalion at a few hours' notice, and the battalion was placed at the disposal of another brigade to carry forward its line to the final objective. He carried out all his plans for the assembly and the attack with such skill and energy that it met with complete success. The whole of the objective was captured and held, and six field guns, two howitzers, and over 250 prisoners taken.

KING, CECIL HANKEY DICKSON, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), King's Royal Rifle Corps, Special Reserve, attached 7th Batta. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 21 March, 1918. He was in command of his company holding a strong point. The other three companies of the battalion had been wiped out by the enemy. He put up a very fine resistance, killing many of the enemy, and when eventually forced to retire into the village of Benay he effected the retirement with the minimum amount of loss. In Benay he succeeded in holding the enemy off a field ambulance, which passed out between the ranks of his company. Being again outnumbered he retired, firing an 18-pounder gun himself with open sights and killing many of the enemy. He showed most determined courage throughout.

KIRKBY, WILLIAM WYNN, Capt., 2nd Batta. Royal Welsh Fusiliers. For very gallant leadership at Villers Outreaux on the morning of 8 Oct. 1918. His company was ordered to follow two tanks and break the line. This he succeeded in doing in face of heavy machine-gun and artillery fire, and in spite of the fact that both the tanks were "knocked out." His most gallant and determined leadership enabled a footing to be established in the village, and eventually the village was cleared and nearly 200 prisoners taken.

KNIGHT, CHARLES FRASER, M.B., Temporary Major, 133rd Field Ambulance, Royal Army Medical Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in personally supervising the collection of wounded and visiting forward posts regularly under heavy shell fire. It was largely due to his energy and disregard of danger that the large number of wounded in his sector were successfully cleared. This was during the operation against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, on 27, 28 and 29 Sept. 1918.

MARDON, ARTHUR CLAUDE, Lieut.-Colonel, Royal Navy, Devonshire Yeomanry, attached 16th Batta. Devonshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership. During the operations 18-25 Sept. 1918, his battalion suffered heavy casualties. They were called upon to reinforce another infantry brigade, and shortly after the attack on Ronsoy started were completely cut off from their objective by a heavy enemy barrage. He himself promptly led the advance round the barrage and directed his battalion on their objective from a new alignment, thus at the right moment saving a critical situation.

MIRS, HANMER JAMES, Capt. (Acting Major), 2nd Batta. Monmouthshire Regt., attached East Lancashire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the attack on Douai Prison on 14 Oct. 1918. He personally conducted the operation under heavy machine-gun and artillery fire, and it was due to his quick grasp of the situation and tactical handling of his force that this strong position was captured with comparatively few casualties. Throughout the day his exceptional coolness and disregard for personal safety had a magnificent effect on the men.

MURPHY, JOSEPH LEO, Major, Manchester Regt. (Special Reserve), attached 2nd Batta. After the battalion had attacked and broken through the Fonsomme and Beurevoir Line on 1 Oct. 1918, he was in command of the right wing which was entirely in the air and unsupported by other troops. During the night the right flank was heavily counter-attacked three times, but owing to the clever handling of his men, his own gallant conduct and the confidence with which he inspired the troops the attacks were repulsed and the line gained was retained throughout a very critical period and in spite of heavy casualties.

MURRAY, JOHN, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Scottish Horse Yeomanry, attached 12th Batta. Royal Scots. On 1 Oct. 1918, during the attack on Ledeghem, the flanks of the battalion under his command became exposed and very heavy casualties were suffered by enfilade machine-gun fire. Colonel Murray, realizing that the dispositions of his battalion needed immediate alteration, went forward and carried this out under close-range rifle and machine-gun fire. His fearless disregard for danger, which was evident to all ranks, and the splendid example which he showed, undoubtedly renewed the confidence of his men during a very critical period.

PETRIE, PAUL CUTHBERT, M.C., Major, D/245th (West Riding) Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, Territorial Force. During an attack on the morning of 11 Oct. 1918, near Iwuy, he displayed remarkable initiative, especially when the enemy launched a heavy counter-attack supported by tanks. He succeeded in bringing into action a section of guns in a forward position and engaged the tanks at close range over open sights and forced them to withdraw. The enemy then showing signs of wavering, he encouraged our infantry to again attack. During the afternoon he again visited the front line on horseback, and by his initiative and utter disregard of personal safety and the successful manner in which he handled the situation showed marked ability as a fighting soldier.

POLLOCK, JOHN ALSAGER, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry, attached 3rd Batta. London Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and initiative during the attack on Peizerle on 18 Sept. 1918. In mopping up the village the battalion encountered considerable opposition from strong points. He promptly went forward accompanied only by his intelligence officer and four runners. He led this small party in face of heavy fire against Proctor's Post, capturing it together with three officers and 47 other ranks. He did splendid work.

PRENTIS, WALTER SLADEN, Lieut.-Colonel, 72nd Punjabs (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry and initiative in command of his battalion on 19 Sept. 1918. When the 232nd Infantry Brigade was held up in front of El Tireh, and an officer commanding another unit became a casualty, he assumed command of the whole of the right of the attack. His clear and concise reports on the situation, written under the most difficult circumstances and under heavy fire, were of inestimable value to the brigade commander, and enabled him to direct the attack of his battalion to the best advantage.

PRIOR, GEORGE EDWARD REDVERS, M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Batta. Devonshire Regt. For gallant and resourceful leadership of his battalion. In particular during the successful attacks at Arleux on 26-27 Sept. 1918, against Fresnes on 7 Oct. and against the Drocourt-Quéant Line on 11 Oct. he made several valuable reconnaissances under heavy fire, and materially facilitated the early and rapid successes gained by the brigade. He rendered very valuable service.

REES, THOMAS WYNFORD, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 73rd Carnatic Infantry, attached 125th Napier's Rifles (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry throughout the day on 19 Sept. 1918, during the attack on the Turkish position about Tabors, and especially after passing through the last objective into open country. Collecting various details of four different units up to a total of about 80 men, he organized them into parties, charged in face of strong opposition, and took two trenches, capturing about 50 prisoners and two field guns. Subsequently, when mounted on a captured pony, he saw a third field gun escaping, whereupon he galloped after it and, single-handed, captured the gun and team complete. He set a magnificent example to all units by his initiative and utter disregard of danger.

ROBERTS, HARRY, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2nd Batta. Royal Sussex Regt. During the operations north of Gricourt on 24 Sept. 1918, he commanded the right front company of the battalion in the attack. After reaching the final objective and whilst the company was still somewhat disorganized from the attack, the enemy launched a counter-attack with about 400 men against the position occupied by this company. He was out in front of the position when the counter-attack was first seen. He returned to his company and ordered the men to fire on the advancing enemy. As soon as he first saw the first wave of the enemy wavering he again blew his whistle and ordered the whole of the men in that area to fix bayonets and advance against the advancing enemy. The total number of men at his disposal did not exceed 80. By this action he completely routed the counter-attacking enemy and captured many prisoners. Throughout this operation he was walking about fully exposed, and by his calm handling of the situation and skill in selecting the moment to dash out against the enemy with the bayonet, was responsible for the thorough routing of a strong counter-attack and enabling the ground gained in the initial attack to be retained. During this advance he was severely wounded in the arm by a bullet fired at point-blank range, but in spite of this he remained with his company reorganizing his men in defensive position and before being evacuated gave a full report of the situation to the battalion commander.

SHORLAND, JAMES WILLIAM, Temporary Second Lieut., Hampshire Regt., attached 2/4th Batta. Territorial Force. For most determined courage and splendid dash on 30 Sept. and 1 Oct. near Rumilly. A strong pocket of the enemy with numerous machine guns was holding out, and he led his platoon across the open in face of intense machine-gun fire and succeeded in entering the enemy trench. Finally, being forced to withdraw, he was the last to cross the barrier. On the following morning he volunteered to lead a mopping-up party down the same trench after another unit had gone through. Immediately the first wave passed he led the dash, was first over the enemy barrier, and bombed his way along. Twenty-one machine guns were captured altogether, 22 enemy dead counted, and 70 prisoners taken.

SMITH, ALBERT JOSEPH, D.C.M., Second Lieut., 1st Battn. Border Regt. For fine courage and leadership on 28 Sept. 1918, at Hooge. With the greatest dash he led forward his platoon to attack the enemy strong point—Jasper Dug-outs—bayonetting an enemy machine gunner there and capturing the gun. He then bombed the dug-out, killing and wounding several of the enemy. He then went down and brought up as prisoners three officers and over 100 enemy N.C.O.'s and men. He afterwards led on and rushed an enemy machine gun, bayonetting one of the crew himself. On his company commander becoming a casualty he took command and carried on for four days under difficult circumstances with marked success and ability. He did magnificent work.

SMITH, BERTRAM ABEL, M.C., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), South Nottinghamshire Hussars, commanding 23rd Battn. Middlesex Regt. As battalion commander at Houthem, on 29 Sept. 1918, he showed great gallantry and power of command. When the left flank of his battalion had been left in the air, he overcame a difficult situation by very able handling of his command. Again, near Gheluwe, on 1 Oct. 1918, he led his battalion to the attack with great gallantry through very heavy machine-gun and shell fire, though suffering from the effects of gas. His leadership and personal example maintained a fine fighting spirit in his battalion.

SMITH, WILFRID CABOURN, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), King's Royal Rifle Corps, Special Reserve, attached 17th Battn. Royal Fusiliers. Near Noyelles, on 28-29 Sept. 1918, during the crossing of the Canal St. Quentin, he commanded his battalion with marked gallantry and skill. The passage of the canal and formation of a bridgehead was conducted under heavy shelling and machine-gun fire. Throughout the period he showed great coolness and ability. Later, when his battalion was suddenly ordered to attack Foreville, thanks to his energy and personal supervision all objectives were gained and many prisoners and guns captured.

STRUDWICK, SPENCER GORDON, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), Royal Field Artillery, Special Reserve, attached B/78th Brigade. During operations at Caullery on 9 Oct. 1918, he personally led a gun forward in close support of the advancing infantry, and engaged enemy machine guns successfully over open sights. He continued firing until his gun was disabled by hostile artillery fire. His very gallant action effectually silenced the enemy machine guns and enabled our infantry to advance. Later, he again brought a gun into action within 750 yards of enemy machine gun and destroyed it. He has previously shown marked gallantry and ability.

TAPP, JAMES HANSON WILLIAM, Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Reserve of Officers, attached Headquarters 230th (N.M.) Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, Territorial Force. During operations on 29 Sept. and 3 Oct. 1918, near Belenlisse, he commanded a Field Artillery Group with great distinction. The time available for preliminary preparation before each of these operations was very short, and it was only by his fearless reconnaissance work and tireless energy that the work was accomplished. On the occasion of the latter operations he only received his orders at 5.30 p.m. on 2 Oct., his batteries then being some distance west of the Canal. He made a very skilful and daring reconnaissance, and by his excellent arrangement he was able to move his batteries to positions two miles east of the canal, and took part in the opening barrage at 6.5 a.m. on 3 Oct. During the whole period of these operations the work of this officer was extremely good.

THOMAS-EVELYN, ROWLAND, Temporary Second Lieut., attached Manchester Regt. (12th Battn.). On 12 Oct., near Neuville, in command of the platoon specially detailed to deal with the enemy machine-gun post which had held up every previous attack, he successfully attacked the post, killed the enemy there and captured the two guns, enabling the battalion to set forward. He showed great dash and courage, and was in front during the whole time. Later, as the only officer left with the four companies, he did excellent work in rallying the men after the counter-attack and throughout set a fine example to all.

VARLEY, OSWALD, M.C., Temporary Capt., 7th Battn. East Yorkshire Regt. During the attack on the high ground north-west of Neuville on 10 Oct. 1918, he commanded his company with great skill and initiative. Finding no bridges, he led his men across the river under heavy fire, captured 40 prisoners, killed many of the enemy, and destroyed five machine guns, reaching his objective and establishing posts on both flanks. His marked gallantry, sound leadership and cheerfulness inspired his command.

WELDON, HENRY WALTER, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Battn. Leinster Regt. For great devotion to duty and gallantry during the attack which led up to the capture of Gheluvelt and Gheluwe on 28 Sept. 1918. He personally led his battalion throughout the operation and showed great skill and gallantry throughout the period from 28 Sept. to 4 Oct. 1918. The success of the operation was largely due to this officer's energy and gallantry.

WILLIAMS, AUBREY ELLIS, M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major, South Wales Borderers, G.S.O.2, 30th Division. At Menin, on 14 Oct. 1918, he made a very bold reconnaissance of the river crossings in face of considerable shell and machine-gun fire and forward of all our infantry posts, thus enabling a bridge to be thrown over at the earliest opportunity. Though badly concussed by a 5.9 inch bursting within a few feet of him, he still continued at duty. His fearlessness at all times was a fine example to all ranks.

WILSON, WILLIAM THOMAS, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), 256th Tunnelling Coy., Royal Engineers. For conspicuous devotion to duty at Belenlisse on 30 Sept. 1918, when he supervised the removal of mines and traps from the Belenlisse-Magny Tunnel. With great foresight he arranged for the return of the German engineer to start the lighting plant and forced him to disclose the locations of the mines and firing circuit. When these had been discovered and rendered harmless, he cleared the tunnel, and, at great personal risk, forced the driver to start the engine, despite protests that there might be other mines connected to it. By his coolness and disregard of danger he set a fine example to his men.

WOODS, HUGH KENNEDY, Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), South Lancashire Regt., seconded 9th Battn. Tank Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty north of St. Quentin on 29 Sept. 1918. He personally deployed his tanks and directed them on to their objectives. It was largely due to his personal gallantry and efforts that the tank attack was successfully launched and obtained such excellent results. He has fought his battalion in previous actions and during the operations in question with conspicuous success.

YOUNG, THOMAS FORBES, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), 64th Field Coy., Royal Engineers. On the River Lys at Cuernet, on the night of 16-17 Oct. 1918, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded the field company which was entrusted with the task of throwing bridges across the river to enable an infantry brigade to cross and secure a bridgehead. He first made a reconnaissance of the river bank, and later, despite heavy shelling, brought up his equipment and constructed two bridges. Again, on the night of the 19th-20th, thanks to his coolness and ability, a bridge and two ferries were constructed under heavy trench mortar and machine-gun fire, and the brigade enabled to cross.

YOUNGER, JAMES, Lieut.-Colonel, 14th Battn. Royal Highlanders, Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the operations at Moislains on 2 Sept. 1918, when a strong enemy counter-attack was developed and a heavy barrage put down by them, he at once went forward through the barrage and steadied and reorganized the battalion. He was severely wounded in doing so, but continued to command until relieved. He behaved most gallantly.

CANADIAN FORCE.

BAKER, EDWIN GODFREY PHIPPS, M.C., Major, 47th Battn. Canadian Infantry, Western Ontario Regt. For conspicuous gallantry in front of Inchey-en-Artols during the operations 27-29 Sept. 1918. He commanded his battalion in heavy fighting on two successive days, and by his personal example and splendid leadership inspired the officers and men of his command. In particular, on the night of 28 Sept., when it was necessary to again use his battalion in restoring the situation, he led his unit in the attack, defeating the enemy and restoring our line in advance of the position previously held. Throughout the operations his work was of the highest order.

DAVIS, WILLIAM EDGAR, Major, 11th Battn. Canadian Railway Troops. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 21 Aug. 1918, whilst in charge of a detachment near Bucquoy. He made reconnaissances of the lines in forward areas to be reconstructed under shell and machine-gun fire, and carried out this work under very difficult conditions. Prior to the operations he supervised the reconstruction of the main light railway line through to Bucquoy, after making skilful surveys almost up to the front-line trenches. He rendered most valuable service, and at all times has shown complete disregard for personal safety.

DUNWOODY, JAMES MOORE, D.C.M., Lieut., Fort Garry Horse. In the action at the Bois de Gattigny on 9 Oct. 1918, he was sent with his troop to ride down enemy machine guns on the right flank of the position at P.25a. In order to draw their fire and if possible to capture their machine guns, thus enabling the right flank of the enemy's position to be turned, he rode with his troops over 2,000 yards constantly under machine-gun fire, and while he and a number of his troop became casualties, he succeeded in driving the enemy from the guns, of which about 15 were captured. This officer's great gallantry and determination prevented heavy casualties, and by silencing the machine guns at this point made a continuation of the advance possible.

ELLIOTT, ORVILLE ARD, Major, Canadian Army Dental Corps, attached 5th Canadian Field Ambulance. At Neuville Vitasse, Wancourt, Cherisy, from 26 to 29 Aug. 1918. For marked gallantry and devotion to duty. As the infantry advanced, he followed up closely and although many times he was forced to pass through heavy enemy barrages he kept in close touch with the battalions and kept establishing collecting posts as far forward as possible. He was the direct means of saving many lives, and throughout the operations his untiring efforts and disregard for his personal safety were a constant source of inspiration to those about him.

INGLES, CHARLES JAMES, Major, 20th Battn. Canadian Infantry, 1st Central Ontario Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and determined leadership. On the morning of 26 Aug. he handled his company with great skill and daring, working forward under heavy machine-gun and artillery fire and taking his objective. On two occasions he organized parties to clean out enemy machine-gun nests that were impeding the advance. He was wounded in the arm, but insisted in remaining with his company during the afternoon and night, defending a portion of the line subject to counter-attack. His example was an inspiration to all ranks.

LOUGH, JOHN ROBERTSON STEWART, M.C., Capt., 72nd Battn. Canadian Infantry, British Columbia Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and determined leadership during operations before Cambrai from 27 Sept. to 1 Oct. 1918. He was in charge of a company only numbering 60 during the attack on Sancerot and Blecourt. He mopped up the village and sent to the rear over 200 prisoners out of Sancerot alone; and captured an additional 80 prisoners in Blecourt. Later, he organized his men in defensive posts and reported to battalion headquarters the position, not only of his own posts but also that of the company on his left. His reports throughout were remarkably clear and of the greatest value.

MIDDLEMAST, EDWARD LIDDELL, Major, Fort Garry Horse. On the morning of 9 Oct. 1918, he was in charge of advanced guard squadron of the regiment, and located the enemy with many machine guns in the Bois-du-Mont Aux-Villes and Bois-de-Gattigny. After successfully silencing the situation and timing himself with the advancing infantry, he charged the wood with the sword around the enemy's right flank, killing large numbers and capturing approximately 200 prisoners and 20 machine guns. Although wounded in this charge, he, after having his wound dressed, resumed command of his squadron and did valuable work during the remainder of the day. He did splendid work.

OGLIVIE, ALEXANDER THOMAS, Lieut.-Colonel, 14th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and ability on 2 Sept. 1918, near Vis-en-Artols. He manoeuvred his brigade from the extreme left of the corps front line into a forward position in support of the centre. He made a rapid reconnaissance of the new situation under heavy shell fire, and was in a position to cover the infantry with all his batteries before the former were in position to commence the attack. He was able, through his own reconnaissance and that of his forward observing officer's to give the infantry brigadier much useful information, and throughout the day rendered very valuable support to the infantry.

PAULIN, STANLEY, Lieut.-Colonel, 11th Field Ambulance, Canadian Army Medical Corps. He was in charge of the evacuation of the brigade wounded in the operations about Cambrai. For the five days of that battle he worked day and night with very little rest. He was always leading and directing his men, and by his splendid example was responsible for the wonderful work done by those under him. His work under heavy shell and machine-gun fire was admirable.

PEARCE, LESLIE FRANK, M.C., Major, 4th Battn. Canadian Machine Gun Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and ability to command at Bourlon and north of Cambrai, from 27 Sept.-1 Oct. 1918. Throughout the operation he displayed marked skill in handling his batteries, particularly on 1 Oct., when he was sent forward with instructions to ensure the machine-gun defence of the ground which had been gained. He made personal reconnaissance under heavy fire and rapidly arranged excellent dispositions. That the brigade held its ground was as much due to his skill in handling his machine guns as to the stubbornness of the infantry defence.

PRESTON, EBENEZER MENZIES, M.M., Lieut., 87th Battn. Canadian Infantry, Quebec Regt. For most conspicuous gallantry at Bourlon, 27 Sept. 1918, Cambrai sector. He commanded one of the leading platoons of his company, and as they approached the railway embankment they came under heavy machine-gun fire. He at once called for volunteers, and with two men crawled up to within bombing distance, and then bombed and rushed the post. He killed two of the crew who had escaped the bombs and sent a third out as prisoner. In all, eight of the enemy were accounted for. His fine action enabled his company to continue the advance.

RYAN, EDUARD JOHN WILSON, Major, 102nd Batta. Canadian Infantry, 2nd Central Ontario Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership in command of his battalion during the whole of the operation from 2-5 Sept. 1918, between Dury and the Canal du Nord. He led the battalion from the assembly point to the jumping-off place under a continuous barrage of shell and machine-gun fire, and when on arrival it was found that the battalions through which this unit was to pass had been held up, he withdrew his men into immediate support; and afterwards carried out the relief in pitch darkness over an unknown area, going forward and personally directing the operation. On the following morning he advanced the battalion four miles to the west bank of the Canal du Nord, and finally cleared the enemy out of their last stronghold, a wood on the western bank.

STAIRS, PHILIP BOYD, Lieut., Canadian Field Artillery, attached Trench Mortar Battery, 5th Canadian Divisional Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Villers-les-Cagnicourt on 2 Sept. 1918. He brought his mortar into action mounted upon a lorry, and engaged at short range enemy who were massing for a counter-attack. The whole of his crew being wounded and his mortar being subject to heavy fire from enemy guns firing over open sights, he kept it in action himself until a direct hit put it out and set the lorry on fire. Though he was wounded and there was ammunition on the burning lorry, he then climbed back, rescued his wounded crew, and attempted to extinguish the fire. During this time he was again wounded, but carried on until the ammunition exploded, destroying the lorry. He behaved most gallantly.

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

BAKER, HENRY SEYMOUR, Lieut., 13th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. During the advance on 18 Sept. 1918, near Le Verguler, north of St. Quentin, he acted as right guide to his battalion, and despite the great difficulties caused by fog and uncut wire and heavy machine-gun and artillery fire, carried out his duties in a most gallant and skilful manner. On reaching the first objective he went ahead to reconnoitre, and located a large party of the enemy. He threw bombs at them and 20 surrendered. These he brought back with him, and then got together a party of men and again attacked the enemy, taking further prisoners. At the first objective he had received a painful wound in the leg, but carried on right to the final objective. He behaved splendidly.

BENNETT, WILLIAM STANLEY, M.C., Lieut., 10th Batta. Australian Infantry. For most conspicuous gallantry near Villers on 18 Sept. 1918. Whilst leading his platoon with the first wave he observed a nest of machine guns firing through our barrage and holding up our advance. He ran out ahead of his men into the barrage, worked his way round to the rear of the nest and shot five of the enemy with his revolver, made 30 men surrender and captured their five guns. Thanks to this fine action, which was accomplished single-handed under a hail of bullets, the advance was enabled to continue.

MACKENZIE, ALEXANDER KENNETH, M.C., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Batta. Australian Infantry. In the attack on Hargicourt and subsequent operations, 18-21 Sept. 1918, in command of a battalion he showed great skill and gallantry in preparing the attack and during the advance. The attack was in every way successful and resulted in the capture of several hundred prisoners and some field guns. During the difficult period of holding the line he showed ability in disposing his troops, and his work was of the greatest value to the brigade during a delicate situation.

MAY, LEONARD, M.C., Major, Australian Army Medical Corps, attached 11th Batta. Australian Infantry. During the attack near Villers on 18 Sept. 1918, he displayed great gallantry and devotion to duty whilst attending to the wounded. In consequence of his excellent organization for clearing the wounded he was able to keep in touch with the advance, constantly moving his aid-post forward with the barrage, and maintaining liaison with the attacking companies throughout. He showed great disregard of danger under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire, and by his skill saved many lives.

McLEAN, JOHN, M.C., Lieut., 42nd Batta. Australian Infantry. On 11-12 Aug. 1918, during operations on the Somme, he, with a Lewis gun section, attacked an enemy strong point north of Roisieres which was holding up the advance of a flank company, whose success meant the success of the line. With extraordinary gallantry he accounted for five enemy machine guns, two by himself, cleared the strong point, and enabled the flank company to continue their advance. Just before reaching his final objective he was wounded, but continued to control his platoon until the capture of the final position, and then superintended consolidation. His magnificent example of courageous conduct produced a great moral effect on the whole of the attacking troops and did much to ensure his company's success. He did most splendid work.

WADSWORTH, WILLIAM ROBERT, M.C., Major, 14th Batta. Australian Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and valuable services near Ascension Wood north of St. Quentin, on 18 Sept. 1918. He led his company with the greatest dash until the whole battalion was held up by intense machine-gun fire on the wire of the Hindenburg outpost line. At this stage he took charge of the battalion and displayed great tactical skill in manoeuvring the men to take the position on a flank. He constantly moved up and down the line supervising the action of the companies and showed a complete disregard for his own personal safety. Having successfully reorganized the battalion he, by a series of skilfully planned bombing attacks, succeeded in carrying the enemy line on a frontage of 1,400 yards.

NEW ZEALAND FORCE.

ARDAGH, PATRICK AUGUSTINE, M.C., Capt., New Zealand Medical Corps, attached 1st Batta. Auckland Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attack east of Masnières. Being forced to place his dressing station in a spot constantly shelled by the enemy for 36 hours, he continued to dress wounded while shells fell on the station. He attended, not only his own battalion wounded, but men of three other battalions, and worked continuously without sleep all the time. He displayed high courage and resource and was the means of saving many lives.

London Gazette, 31 July, 1919.—"Admiralty, S.W., 31 July, 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours to the undermentioned Officers. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

ADAMS, BRYAN FULLERTON, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services during the war.

ROSOMAN, ROBERT REYNOLDS, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services during the war.

CHAPPELL, LIONEL SHEARD, D.S.C., Lieut.-Commander, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. For distinguished services during the war.

"Honours for Services in Action with an Enemy Submarine.—The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To receive a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order."

HERBERT, GODFREY, D.S.O., Commander, Royal Navy.

London Gazette, 8 Aug. 1919.—"War Office, 8 Aug. 1919. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following awards to the undermentioned Officers in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the field. Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order."

SOUTH AFRICAN FORCE.

DAWSON, FREDERICK STUART, C.M.G., D.S.O. (Christian name corrected to Frederick Stewart [London Gazette, 5 March, 1920]), Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), 1st Batta. South African Infantry. He displayed gallantry of the highest degree during the fighting about Chapel Hill, Revelon Farm and Sorel on 21-22 March, 1918. On the afternoon of the 22nd he skilfully withdrew his brigade north to the Green Line. He and the members of his staff, after personally keeping the enemy from entering Sorel for some time, retired through Sorel, fighting under heavy rifle fire at close range. On the 24th, when his brigade only mustered 470 bayonets, they held 1,200 yards of front against overwhelming numbers until 4.30 in the afternoon, when ammunition was expended. He and his brigade did splendidly, and rendered most valuable service.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

AARONSOHN, ALEXANDER, Local Lieut. (Egypt). For gallant conduct and daring on 2 Sept. 1918, in penetrating the enemy's lines and carrying out a reconnaissance which resulted in obtaining information which proved invaluable in subsequent operations.

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

BOASE, LEONARD CHARLES, M.C., Lieut., 52nd Batta. Australian Infantry. On 4 April, 1918, he commanded a platoon of a battalion holding the line from Buire to Dernancourt. On the 5th the enemy launched a strong attack between Dernancourt and Meaulte, which was broken up by the fire of his platoon. Though wounded he continued to lead his men splendidly, and inflicted very heavy casualties on the enemy, holding up their attack for at least two hours. He showed marked gallantry and ability to command, and rendered valuable service.

SOUTH AFRICAN FORCE.

BUNCE, HARRY, Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 4th Batta. South African Infantry. On the afternoon of 21 March, 1918, when the enemy obtained a footing on Chapel Hill, his company carried out a counter-attack which retook the whole of the hill and re-established the situation. On the 22nd, when his senior officers were casualties, he took command of the battalion, and finally successfully withdrew the remnants, some 140 strong. He commanded the battalion during the fighting of the 23rd and 24th, and on the latter day distinguished himself in a most marked manner. Owing to his courage and leadership a stubborn resistance was maintained.

ORMISTON, THOMAS, Temporary Major, 1st Batta. South African Infantry. He displayed marked courage and leadership during the enemy attack on 24 March, 1918. When the enemy attempted to bring a field gun into action within 100 yards' range, he brought Lewis-gun fire to bear on it, causing the gun to be abandoned. Later, when a second gun was brought up, the fire opened under his direction killed the team, and caused the gun to be overturned. When the left flank of his battalion was enveloped, he organized a defensive flank. He did excellent work.

London Gazette, 11 Aug. 1919.—"Admiralty, 11 Aug. 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To be a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order."

HUNT, ROBERT GREGORY MAZE DURRANT, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services during the war.

London Gazette, 12 Sept. 1919.—"War Office, 12 Sept. 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours to the undermentioned Officers in connection with military operations on the North-West Frontier, India, in Persia and Trans-Caspia. Dated 3 June, 1919. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

FRASER, WILLIAM ARCHIBALD KINNETH, M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major, 39th Central Indian Horse, Indian Army.

HARVEY-KELLY, CHARLES HAMILTON GRANT HUME, Capt. and Brevet Major (Acting Major), 127th Baluchistan Light Infantry, Indian Army.

HAWLEY, WILLIAM GEORGE BROUGHTON ISCHIA, Major, 28th Light Cavalry, Indian Army.

HOLBROOKE, BERNARD FREDERICK ROPER, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 3/124th Baluchistan Infantry, Indian Army.

LUCAS, MALCOLM HUGH, Major, 37th Lancers, Indian Army.

MASTERS, JOHN, Major, 16th Rajputs, Indian Army.

VANRENEN, GEORGE RAINER, Lieut.-Colonel, 16th Rajputs, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 16 Sept. 1919.—"Admiralty, S.W., 16 Sept. 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To be a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order."

BITNEY, THOMAS HUGH, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services during the war.

"Honours for Services in Action with an Enemy Submarine.—The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To be a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order."

BLACKMAN, CHARLES MAURICE, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy.

London Gazette, 3 Oct. 1919.—"War Office, 3 Oct. 1919. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following immediate awards for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in North Russia conferred by Major-General W. E. Ironside, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., in pursuance of the powers vested in him by His Majesty.—Archangel Command. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

LAVIE, HENRY ERNEST, Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Durham Light Infantry, attached 13th Batta. Yorkshire Regt. For inspiring leadership and devotion to duty when in command of the Seletskoe Detachment. No exertion on his part has been too great in ensuring that proper defensive measures were being taken, and the entire lack of success of enemy attacks made on his front during April, 1919, can be attributed in great measure to the change of morale in the defending troops owing to his personality and power of command.

MONTFORD, IVAN CLAUDE, Capt. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Rifle Brigade, Special Reserve. He conducted a very daring reconnaissance five miles behind the enemy's front, arriving within 1,000 yards of a strong enemy position. The information he received was most valuable. He has for five months commanded the troops on both banks of the Dvina River, and by his personal courage and tact has pulled his troops of mixed nationalities through a difficult period.

SOUTH AFRICAN FORCE.

MACFIE, THOMAS GIRDWOOD, M.C., Capt., 4th Bn. South African Infantry. On 2 June, 1919, he was near the 18-pounder position on his way to the observation post. He collected and organized some infantry at this point. He then went back to Priluk, rallying and encouraging Russian infantry who were disorganized, and himself led a counter-attack against Priluk, which was recaptured together with all the guns. This success was due to his marked gallantry and ability to command.

London Gazette, 4 Oct. 1919.—"War Office, 4 Oct. 1919. With reference to the awards conferred as announced in the London Gazette dated 8 March, 1919, the following are the statements of services for which the decorations were conferred. Awarded a Third Bar to the Distinguished Service Order."

BUCKLE, ARCHIBALD WALTER, D.S.O., Temporary Commander, Anson Bn. Royal Naval Division, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. During the fighting round Niergules on 8 Oct. 1918, he showed great courage and powers of leadership. After the enemy had counter-attacked and succeeded in entering our lines, he seized an enemy anti-tank rifle and engaged three hostile tanks with it and drove them off. He then rallied men of various units in his neighbourhood and led them forward to the positions whence they had been forced. Throughout he did excellent work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4 March, 1918.)

(1st Bar gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

(2nd Bar gazetted 11 Jan. 1919.)

DAWSON, WILLIAM ROBERT AUFRERE, D.S.O., Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Royal West Kent Regt., Commanding 6th Bn. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership of his battalion from 18 to 29 Sept. 1918, near Ephehy and Vendhuile. During the period they took part in three assaults successfully. On the 21st-22nd and 28th-29th he was continually in the front line, superintending operations and encouraging his men. The success of his battalion on these occasions was largely due to his fine leadership and personal example.

(D.S.O. gazetted 15 April, 1916.)

(1st Bar gazetted 18 July, 1917.)

(2nd Bar gazetted 22 June, 1918.)

KNOX, ROBERT SINCLAIR, D.S.O., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 10th Bn. Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, attached 9th Bn. On the night of 19-20 Oct. 1918, he succeeded in crossing the Lys under the most difficult circumstances, and established a bridgehead which enabled another battalion to cross, and eventually the brigade. He cleared all the ground north of Beveren, captured his objective, and at dawn continued the attack successfully. He was short of officers, and showed marked ability, gallantry and energy.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 18 Feb. 1918.)

(2nd Bar gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

Awarded a Second Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

BEASLEY, ROBERT LONGFIELD, D.S.O., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Bn. Gloucestershire Regt., attached 17th Bn. Royal Welsh Fusiliers. On 8 Oct. 1918, he led the battalion through the Beurevoir line to the objective at Villers Outreux and reached the final objective. Throughout this advance he was always at the head of his men, encouraging them and setting them a splendid example. At Englefontaine, on 27 Oct., he was successful, under sniping at close range, in bringing a wounded officer in on his back, undoubtedly saving his life. Throughout he showed great gallantry.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

(1st Bar gazetted 27 July, 1918.)

CURTIS, HUBERT MONTAGU COTTON, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 6th Bn. North Staffordshire Regt., Territorial Force, Commanding 7th Bn. East Kent Regt. In the operations around Bouesies on 23-26 Oct. 1918, he, in command of his battalion, displayed great gallantry, and by his good leadership ensured the success of an operation that at one time was likely to be held up. When enemy machine guns held up the attack he made a personal reconnaissance and was thus enabled to handle his command to the best advantage.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

(1st Bar gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

DUMBELL, CHARLES HAROLD, D.S.O., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., attached 11th Bn. Essex Regt. During the operations near Holnon on 24 Sept. 1918, the left of the brigade front was unable to reach its objective owing to the exposed nature of the ground. Towards dusk he went down to the front line, and it was by his own personal effort and leadership that the objective was in all cases gained and the tape laid in time for the troops to assemble. He showed great coolness and gallantry under heavy fire.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

FRASER, JOHN ALEXANDER, D.S.O., D.C.M., Lieut. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 7th Dragoon Guards, attached 5th-6th Bn. Royal Scots, Territorial Force. For fine and determined leading of his battalion on 1 Oct. and 2 Oct. 1918, at Sequehart. He attacked and captured Sequehart on the 1st, but was shortly afterwards driven out by a counter-attack. With very depleted numbers he recaptured it, personally killing three of the enemy with his revolver, and capturing altogether close on 500 prisoners. After being driven out again, he again recaptured it and held it for 48 hours. He and his battalion did splendid work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

(1st Bar gazetted 22 April, 1918.)

FRYBURG, BERNARD CYRIL, V.C., D.S.O., Capt. and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), Royal West Surrey Regt. (General Officer Commanding 88th Infantry Brigade). For marked gallantry and initiative on 11 Nov. 1918, at Lessines. He personally led the cavalry, and though at the time he had only nine men with him, he rushed the town, capturing 100 of the enemy and preventing the blowing up of the important road bridges over the Dendre.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1915.)

(1st Bar gazetted 1 Feb. 1919.)

LAMBERT, WALTER JOHN, D.S.O., Major, 20th Lancers, Indian Army, attached Mysore Imperial Service Lancers (Egypt). On 23 Sept. 1918, during the attack on Haifa, Major Lambert commanded the advanced guard of the 15th Imperial Service Cavalry Brigade. He pushed forward and occupied all tactical points close to the enemy's position and led the Mysore Lancers in the attack with great gallantry.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 2 Dec. 1918.)

MILLS, ARTHUR MORDAUNT, D.S.O., Major, 18th Lancers, Indian Army (Egypt). On the night of 21-22 Sept. 1918, during the attack on Nazareth, he organized and led a counter-attack, which he carried through with 29 Indian other ranks in the face of rifle and machine-gun fire against 300 of the enemy. This counter-attack was completely successful, several of the enemy being killed and 100 prisoners captured. He did fine work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 4 Feb. 1918.)

NADEN, FRANK, D.S.O., M.C., Lieut. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1/6th Bn. Cheshire Regt., Territorial Force, attached 7th Bn. Royal Irish Regt. Near Neuve Eglise, on 1 Sept. 1918, he had launched his battalion to attack the village, when he received orders to change direction from south to east. This was done, but the leading companies moved too far to the right. Seeing this, he personally led the right company on to its proper objective in the face of considerable machine-gun and trench-mortar fire. He was shortly afterwards wounded. But on this and the previous day he showed an absolute disregard of danger, and by his fine example and leadership inspired all ranks.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26 Nov. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

CANADIAN FORCE.

MACFARLANE, ROBERT ALEXANDER, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 58th Infantry Bn. 2nd Central Ontario Regt. Before Cambrai, 27 Sept. to 1 Oct. 1918. On 28 Sept. he led his battalion in the attack on the Marcoing Line, and captured it in spite of most heavy opposition. Altogether this battalion captured over 2,500 yards of the Marcoing Line and 50 enemy machine guns, in addition to killing many of the enemy and capturing 120 prisoners. His marked gallantry and ability were an inspiration to all ranks.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4 June, 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 11 Jan. 1919.)

RILEY, HAROLD JAMES, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 27th Infantry Bn. Manitoba Regt. For conspicuous courage and ability in command of his battalion in operations near Cambrai, on 9, 10 and 11 Oct. 1918. In the attack on Iwuy his men were caught in a heavy barrage and showed signs of becoming disorganized. Immediately he went forward, steadied them, and brought them out of the barrage with light casualties. Throughout the operations he set a very fine example to all under him.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18 July, 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 11 Jan. 1919.)

Awarded a First Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

ANDERSON, FRANCIS, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Bn. Royal Highlanders. On 23-29 Sept. 1918, between Bellenglise and Le Tronquoy, and 18-19 Oct. 1918, between Vaux-Andigny and Wassigny, he proved himself a most able and resourceful battalion commander. He personally reconnoitred positions under heavy machine-gun and shell fire, and the successful attack and capture of Wassigny with light casualties was entirely due to his excellent handling of the battalion. He showed marked gallantry and ability throughout.

(D.S.O. gazetted 17 Dec. 1917.)

CLEGHORN, GEORGE MATTHEW, D.S.O., Temporary Major, 15th Bn. Highland Light Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and skilful leading of his battalion in the attack on Le Tronquoy on 29 Sept. 1918. With an exposed flank on his right he led his battalion to the attack through the front of another division. Owing to his skilful use of ground and cover very few casualties were suffered by his battalion, while taking and holding all his objectives. During the night he consolidated his position and cleared up a network of enemy trenches, capturing about 300 prisoners.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

CURRIN, RICHARD WILLIAM, D.S.O., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), York and Lancaster Regt., attached 1/8th Bn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership in command of his battalion in the attack on Regincourt on 17 Oct. 1918. During the advance he organized and carried out an attack on a strongly defended locality, which had been passed by the leading waves of the attack on account of the thick fog, and from which machine guns were firing into the backs of our advancing troops. By his prompt action the locality was captured, with upwards of 120 prisoners and 20 machine guns.

(D.S.O. gazetted 25 Aug. 1916.)

DOWDING, CHARLES CHILD, D.S.O., M.C., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Lancaster Regt., attached 1/6th Bn. North Staffordshire Regt., Territorial Force. Near Sequehart, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the operations on 3 Oct. 1918, in the attack on Mannequin Hill. He showed great coolness and power of leadership. Whilst in command of the 1/6th Bn. North Staffordshire Regt. he handled a difficult situation with great skill under heavy shell and machine-gun fire.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

DRAGE, GODFREY, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Reserve of Officers, Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry, attached 1/4th Bn. Cheshire Regt., Territorial Force. During the operations near Menin, on 14 Oct. 1918, he showed marked gallantry and able leadership in command of his battalion. He advanced his line over 3,000 yards and captured a great many machine guns and over 150 prisoners. On reaching his objective he rushed patrols right through Menin, and exploited his success to the full. He passed his information back with extraordinary promptness, and throughout the whole operations his conduct was of a very high order.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

FURSE, RALPH DOLIGNON, D.S.O., Major, King Edward's Horse. He handled the advance guard of corps mounted troops in a most skilful and dashing manner during the advance from Lille to the Escaut on the 18th and 19th Oct. 1918. Under heavy machine-gun fire he turned the enemy's flanks and drove them out with the loss of one man killed and one wounded. He showed cool courage and able leadership throughout.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

GARDNER, WILLIAM ROSS, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Army Medical Corps (Special Reserve), attached 138th Field Ambulance. He was in charge of all forward medical arrangements of the division for the period 4 Oct. 1918 to 26 Oct. 1918, first in front of Gheluwe, and then both west and east of Courtrai. During the period in question, night and day, he visited the rear aid posts, relay and forward collecting posts, often under heavy shell fire and gassing in order to personally ascertain that the work of evacuation was proceeding satisfactorily. He showed great gallantry and ability, and his devotion to duty saved many lives.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

HART, REGINALD SETON, D.S.O., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., attached 9th Batta. Yorkshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry during the attack on Bearevoir on 5 Oct. 1918, the advance on Honnechy 9 Oct. and the attack and capture of St. Bonin on 10 Oct. Throughout the whole operations from 5 to 11 Oct. 1918, he led his battalion with great skill and judgment. On more than one occasion when his battalion was held up by strong enemy resistance, he personally led his men in the attack, and the success of the operations was largely due to his leadership. (D.S.O. gazetted 27 Oct. 1917.)

HOHLER, ARTHUR PRESTON, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2/10th Batta. Middlesex Regt., Territorial Force, Commanding 4/5th Batta. Welsh Regt. Territorial Force (Egypt). At Hindhead, near El Mugheir, and Bidston Hill, near Kh. Abu Felah, on the 18th Sept. 1918, he displayed great gallantry and coolness, handling his battalion with rare skill, capturing all his objectives with very slight casualties, and inflicting heavy losses on the enemy. (D.S.O. gazetted 16 Aug. 1917.)

HOLDEN, HYLIA NAPIER, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 5th Cavalry, Indian Army, Senior Special Service Officer, employed Jodhpur Imperial Service Lancers (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry and brilliant leadership at Halfa on the 23rd Sept. 1918. He personally led the Jodhpur Lancers in a mounted attack by which the town was captured. He galloped his regiment through a narrow defile under heavy fire at close range, directing two squadrons upon certain enemy positions and leading the remainder of the regiment straight through the town. He maintained complete control of his men throughout, and proved himself a most dashing and capable cavalry leader. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1919.)

HUDSON, NOEL BARING, D.S.O., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, M.C., 8th Batta. Royal Berkshire Regt. In the attack by his battalion by night on the enemy positions on Mount Carmel (east of Le Cateau), on the 26th Oct. 1918, the assaulting troops had owing to the darkness become dispersed, and no information could be obtained of the progress of the attack. He went forward, and under heavy fire located the position of his companies. When his battalion was compelled to withdraw he succeeded in establishing a defensive line west of Mount Carmel. Though wounded in three places by shell fire, he remained at duty until the operation was completed. His gallantry and ability to command were most marked. (D.S.O. gazetted in this Gazette.)

HUTCHISON, COLIN ROSS MARSHALL, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 118th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, attached 29th Divisional Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry in command of a brigade of Royal Field Artillery near Courtrai, from 20 to 22 Oct. 1918, inclusive. On 20 Oct. he established an observation post right forward and directed the fire of his brigade on to a strong locality, thereby assisting the infantry to capture it. On 22 Oct. he carried out forward reconnaissances under very heavy fire, and brought part of his brigade close behind the infantry to support their further advance. His fine behaviour inspired all ranks under his command. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

JEWELS, CHARLES EDGAR, D.S.O., M.C., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 18th Batta. Lancashire Fusiliers. He commanded his battalion with conspicuous success on 23 Sept. 1918, at the capture of Hill 60 and the advance on Wervicq on 1 Oct. He personally led his battalion through the attack on 14 Oct. in which all objectives were taken to a depth of 8,000 yards, crossed the River Lys on the night of 18-19 Oct. and took part in the capture of the Kreupel Ridge on the afternoon of 20 Oct. Throughout he set a splendid example of gallant and able leadership to those under him. (D.S.O. gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

JONES, BRYAN JOHN, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Leinster Regt., attached 15th Batta. Royal Irish Rifles. For most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 14 Oct. 1918, in the Moorseele Sector. When it was impossible to get accurate information as to the location of the troops during the attack, he went forward and organized his battalion whilst fighting in the streets of Moorseele, and personally placed his machine guns in action, causing the village to be soon cleared of the enemy. He personally shot a machine gunner who was holding up the advance. His fine example and leadership were mainly responsible for the great success attained by his battalion. (D.S.O. gazetted 14 Jan. 1916.)

LAURIE, JOHN EMILIUS, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Batta. Seaforth Highlanders, attached 6th Batta. Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry near Avesnes-le-Sec on the 15th Oct. 1918, when one of the companies under his command was driven back by heavy machine-gun and rifle fire, thus exposing a flank. He immediately went forward under heavy fire, reorganized the company in the open, and himself led them forward again to their position in the line. On 25 Oct. near Famars, he made a personal reconnaissance under heavy fire, reorganized the troops on their original front line, and so consolidated the position securely. (D.S.O. gazetted 22 Sept. 1916.)

LEWIS, DUDLEY, D.S.O., M.C., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), York and Lancaster Regt., Commanding 1/5th Batta. Gloucestershire Regt., Territorial Force. For gallant leadership and devotion to duty during the period 5-10 Oct. 1918. He was called upon suddenly to organize and carry out the attack on Bearevoir. This he did with the greatest skill. His battalion took all their objectives splendidly, thereby making the next big attack possible. On the 9th inst. he successfully attacked Maretz, clearing the village and taking about 30 prisoners. Throughout he showed great courage and ability to command. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

MASON, GLYN KEITH MURRAY, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 14th Hussars, Commanding 1/1st Dorsetshire Yeomanry (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry at Er Rsmte on the 27th Sept. 1918. While his regiment was holding a position west of the village, it was strongly counter-attacked from the south-west end of the village. His advanced firing line was steadily forced back by superior enemy machine-gun fire, but he at the right moment seized the opportunity to mount his retiring firing line and charge the counter-attacking enemy. The latter were entirely surprised and routed. This action was almost entirely responsible for the rapid capitulation of the enemy holding the village. (D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1916.)

MUIRHEAD, MURRAY, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Headquarters, 51st Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty from 28 Sept. to 26 Oct. 1918. During this period, by his fine example, and by his fearless reconnaissances carried out under heavy shell fire and machine-gun fire right up to the front line, he materially contributed to the success of the operations by the division. On 22 Oct. 1918, near Ooteghem he personally took guns up to within a few hundred yards of houses occupied by enemy machine guns, and from there engaged these targets. (D.S.O. gazetted 18 Feb. 1915.)

POLLOCK, HENRY BRODHURST, D.S.O., Temporary Commander, Hood Batta., Royal Naval Division, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. For marked gallantry and devotion to duty at Niergnies on 8 Oct. 1918. His men were temporarily disorganized by enemy counter-attack with tanks, and under heavy machine-gun fire he stopped a withdrawal. He organized a party and rushed a tank crew and then retook Niergnies. Thanks to his fearless and able leadership the final objective was held against enemy counter-attacks. (D.S.O. gazetted 4 March, 1918.)

RATCLIFFE, WILLIAM CHARLES, D.S.O., Capt. (Temporary Major), Northamptonshire Regt., attached 9th Batta. Yorkshire Light Infantry. On 7 Nov. 1918, whilst in command of his battalion, he was ordered to attack Limont Fontaine. Owing to casualties he assumed control of another battalion in addition to his own. The battalion entered Limont Fontaine with great dash, killing and capturing numerous enemy, led by him. Pushing right on, his battalion proceeded to capture the next village, Eclabes. He showed great dash and courage, and his powers of organization ensured the success of a difficult operation. (D.S.O. gazetted in this Gazette.)

SANKEY, CROFTON EDWARD PYM, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Commanding Royal Engineers, 1st Division, Royal Engineers. For great gallantry in making personal reconnaissances of the Sambre-Oise Canal, south of Catillon, during the period 28 Oct.-3 Nov. 1918. Owing to the able way in which he carried out his work the crossings over the canal were negotiated with comparatively few casualties in the face of a large number of machine guns and heavy shell fire. The success of the operation may be very largely credited to the skill and personal gallantry of Lieut.-Colonel Sankey. (D.S.O. gazetted 23 June, 1915.)

STOREY, HENRY INNES, D.S.O., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Commanding 9th Batta. Devonshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and ability to command. On 8 Oct. 1918, he captured Ponchaux, strongly held, with his battalion, a village which had held up the advance for several days. It was owing to the high state of discipline and training which he had instilled into his battalion that the enemy's defences were broken and marked success attained, a large number of prisoners and machine guns being taken. (D.S.O. gazetted 15 Feb. 1917.)

STIRLING, WALTER FRANCIS, D.S.O., M.C., Major, Reserve of Officers, Royal Dublin Fusiliers (Egypt). For gallant service rendered during the operations resulting in the occupation of Damascus by the Arab forces. By his example and personal courage whilst leading the Arabs, he, in conjunction with another officer, was mainly instrumental in securing the successful occupation of the town, and the establishment without grave disorder of the Arab military authorities therein. (D.S.O. gazetted 28 Jan. 1902.)

WEIR, DONALD LORD, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Leicester-shire Regt., attached 1st Batta. West Yorkshire Regt. During the operations near Holnon on the 24th-25th Sept. 1918, he displayed marked gallantry and initiative in securing his objectives in the neighbourhood of Selency Village and Wood. The success of these operations in the face of determined enemy resistance was largely due to his personal leadership. Again on 8 Oct. near Sequehart, he did splendid work, securing his objective without the aid of artillery, and capturing 250 prisoners and many machine guns. (D.S.O. gazetted 15 April, 1916.)

WEHATLEY, LEONARD LANE, C.M.G., D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders Commanding 1st Infantry Brigade. He has commanded his brigade in five distinct operations during the last six weeks. His personal gallantry and example have had a most marked effect, and his fine powers of leadership caused the success which has attended all the operations he has been engaged in. Notably, in the forcing of the Sambre Canal, his reconnaissance for previous assembly by night at a point close to the canal bank, and his handling of his brigade throughout the day, were fine achievements. (D.S.O. gazetted 20 May, 1893.)

CANADIAN FORCE.

CARMICHAEL, DOUGALL, D.S.O., M.C., Major, 58th, attached 116th, Infantry Batta., 2nd Central Ontario Regt. Before Cambrai, 27 Sept.-1 Oct. 1918. For marked gallantry in action. On 28 Sept. he was in command of his battalion when it captured the western portion of St. Olle. Next day he again attacked and cleared the village. Some days later, while leading his battalion, he was badly wounded in the face, but remained on duty and pressed on to Ramillies, the final objective. His fine courage and determined leadership inspired all under him. (D.S.O. gazetted 11 Jan. 1919.)

CONSTANTINE, CHARLES FRANCIS, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 5th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry in command of a mobile Field Artillery brigade during operations in the Arras-Cambrai sector, 26 Aug. to 6 Oct. 1918. He made many bold reconnaissances under heavy fire. Severely burned about the head and arms in an explosion caused by hostile shelling, he refused to leave his command until the 6th Oct., when the C.R.A. ordered him to do so. The fearless example set by this officer inspired all serving under him to their greatest efforts. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

ELLIOTT, ORVIL ARD, D.S.O., Major, Canadian Army Dental Corps, attached 5th Field Ambulance, Canadian Army Medical Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the area forward of Iwuy, north-east of Cambrai, on 11 Oct. 1918. On hearing that there were two wounded men lying in a road in front of our lines, he collected a party of bearers and led them forward under heavy fire. It was through his personal efforts and disregard of danger that the wounded, numbering eight, were successfully evacuated, and he was without doubt the means of saving their lives. (D.S.O. gazetted 15 Feb. 1919.)

GIRVAN, JOHN POLLARDS, D.S.O., M.C., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 15th Infantry Batta. 1st Central Ontario Regt. For marked gallantry and ability in the attack on the Canal du Nord on 27 Sept. 1918. Crossing the canal on light bridges, and the River Agache by planks, under heavy machine-gun and sniping fire, he pushed on. He personally attacked and captured an enemy machine gun, shooting the gunner and turning the gun on the enemy. He went on and assisted in capturing Chapel Corner and the village of Marquion, and then gained his final objectives. His courage and dash were a fine example to his command. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Feb. 1919.)

KAPPELE, DANIEL PAUL, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 5th Field Ambulance, Canadian Army Medical Corps. For conspicuous gallantry on 12 Oct. 1918, in the vicinity of Iwuy, north-east of Cambrai. He drove a car to the forward area through shell fire, which wounded him and others. He proceeded to dress the wounds of the others, directing and assisting in their removal to a place of safety. It was not until all were attended to and removed from danger that he allowed himself to be taken away and suffered his own wounds to be dressed. He showed great pluck and devotion to duty. (D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

LEASK, THOMAS McCRAE, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 10th Field Ambulance, Canadian Army Medical Corps. During recent operations in front of Cambrai he was given the task of clearing the wounded of a division. For five days on end he worked with untiring energy and absolute disregard for personal danger. On the night of 30 Sept.-1 Oct. 1918, he, with the help of a near-by N.C.O. and one of the wounded drivers, succeeded in rescuing patients from a burning car, and had them immediately evacuated. His conduct throughout was admirable. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

PHILPOT, DAVID, D.S.O., Major, 7th Infantry Batta. British Columbia Regt. For great gallantry and devotion to duty. During the Bourlon Wood operations, 27 Sept. to 2 Oct. 1918, he commanded a battalion with great success. After the capture of Marquion he withdrew the company committed to its capture, and with his battalion advanced without artillery barrage. During this phase and the subsequent action up to the Blue Line, he showed consummate leadership. When the Blue Line was reached he inspected his foremost positions under heavy fire, so as to prepare most advantageously for a possible counter-attack. Throughout his courage and able leadership inspired those under him. (D.S.O. gazetted 18 July, 1917.)

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

CAMERON, DONALD, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 12th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). For continuous good work with his regiment from El Kuneitra to Damascus. On the 30th Sept. 1918, when Kaukab was strongly held by the enemy infantry and machine guns, he was ordered to attack the enemy's left flank with his regiment mounted. He led the charge, seized his objectives with great dash, and drove the enemy in disorder towards Damascus. Over 70 prisoners and eight machine guns were captured, in conjunction with the 4th Australian Light Horse Regt. He proved himself a gallant and able leader of troops. (D.S.O. gazetted 18 Jan. 1918.)

CORRIGAN, JOHN JOSEPH, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 46th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. For conspicuous good work and devotion to duty during the advance west of Bellengise on 18 Sept. 1918. He commanded his battalion with great skill and courage, and after the second objective had been captured he moved his battalion forward unsupported on his right, and captured the Outpost Line of the Hindenburg System under very heavy fire, capturing 15 officers and 436 other ranks. He showed marked ability to command. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

DENEHY, CHARLES ALOYSIUS, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 57th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. For conspicuous gallantry during the attack on the Hindenburg Line near Bellicourt from 29 Sept. to 2 Oct. 1918. On 29 Sept. the task of the brigade was to pass through other troops who had carried out the initial attack. The latter proved unable to consolidate on their objective, and he pushed his battalion forward, and under very heavy fire reorganized other troops as part of his battalion, eventually clearing up the situation. Later in the day he pushed his battalion forward and subsequently consolidated in the Le Catelet system. Throughout the operations his able leadership was most marked. (D.S.O. gazetted 18 July, 1917.)

McCLEAN, FREDERICK STEPHEN, D.S.O., Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 5th Pioneer Batta. Australian Infantry. Near Bellicourt on 29 Sept. 1918. He was in charge of the work entrusted to this battalion on two roads. He organized the whole of the preliminary details in a most thorough manner, and under continuous shell fire reconnoitred both roads up to the enemy lines, and did not leave the work until he was assured that the roads were through. Throughout he showed great gallantry, and was a great inspiration to all under his command. (D.S.O. gazetted 27 Oct. 1917.)

RANKIN, GEORGE JAMES, D.S.O., Major, 4th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). For great gallantry, dash and initiative during the operations from El Kuneitra to Damascus. On the 30th Sept. 1918, when his regiment acted as advance guard from Sasa to Kaukab, owing to his rapid movements, they captured 340 prisoners, one field gun and eight machine guns. Kaukab was strongly held by the enemy, and when this officer was ordered to make a frontal attack his leadership was excellent and his regiment seized all objectives, capturing nine officers, over 70 other ranks and eight machine guns. In this action the enemy's cavalry were driven in disorder towards Damascus. On the morning of the 1st Oct. 1918, when ordered to seize the Military Barracks in Damascus, he showed great skill in manoeuvring his troops in such a manner that he was largely instrumental in capturing the whole enemy garrison in Damascus, numbering over 11,000. (D.S.O. gazetted 11 April, 1918.)

SCOTT, WILLIAM HENRY, C.M.G., D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 9th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). On the 2nd Oct. 1918, while the brigade was bivouacked near Duma, a report was received that a large column of enemy was moving across to enter the foothills at Kubbet I Asafi. The brigade was at once ordered out in pursuit. This officer got his regiment away in particularly quick time, and, moving rapidly for six miles, headed the enemy off, and charged and captured the whole column consisting of 1,450 of the enemy, 26 machine guns, one mountain gun, two field guns and 12 automatic rifles. If this advance regiment had been 20 minutes later the enemy could have gained the entrance to the foothills and could easily have kept the brigade off with the machine guns and artillery they had and so escaped. He did splendid work. (D.S.O. gazetted 16 May, 1916.)

NEW ZEALAND FORCE.

JARDINE, LEONARD HANDFORTH, D.S.O., M.C., Lieut.-Colonel, 2nd Batta. New Zealand Rifle Brigade. For conspicuous gallantry and resource at Le Quesnoy on the 4th Nov. 1918. His battalion was detailed to capture the city. The enemy was holding a railway embankment in front of the city from which he brought such heavy machine-gun fire to bear on our troops that the attack was temporarily held up. He promptly used his reserve troops with such skill that he overcame the resistance of the enemy and enabled the advance to be continued. Finally, by his gallant and able leadership he was instrumental in bringing about the fall of the city. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Feb. 1919.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

ANDREW, WILLIAM CULLEN, M.C., Temporary Major, 33rd Batta. Machine Gun Corps. For conspicuous gallantry, leadership and devotion to duty on the 24th, 25th, 26th and 27 Oct. 1918, during the attack on Englefontaine. Time after time, when the enemy attempted to work through on the flanks, he reconnoitred their positions in the face of heavy fire, and then, returning to our lines, placed guns in position, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, and effectively restoring the situation. On many occasions during these four days he, by his personal example, gallantry and grim determination, enabled our line to be held against all assaults of the enemy.

ANDREWS, STEPHEN ARTHUR, M.C., Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 7th Batta. Royal Sussex Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and good work near Epehy on 18 Sept. 1918. His company was allotted the task of clearing the railway embankment of the enemy. Although enfiladed by machine-gun nests from the village, and having sustained heavy casualties, he personally led forward the remainder of his company, and was one of very few to reach the objective. He then organized under very heavy fire and held the position until the situation was cleared up.

APSELEY, LORD, ALLEN ALGERNON, M.C., Capt., 1/1st Gloucestershire Yeomanry (Egypt). On the 30th Sept. 1918, near Damascus, he was sent out with a troop of 20 men and a Hotchkiss gun to seize the Kadem wireless station. Near Kadem Station he was held up by a body of the enemy, whose strength was double his own. He charged, killing 12 with his sword, the remainder being put to flight. On arrival at his objective the wireless station was found to have been already destroyed, and the enemy, who had been strongly reinforced, was threatening to cut off his troop. This officer carried out the retirement of the troop in perfect order, and, when attacked by the enemy from a flank, another charge was made, inflicting loss and enabling him to get away intact. Throughout this mission he showed splendid gallantry and marked ability to command.

ARNOLD, CLEMENT BROOMHALL, Temporary Lieut., 6th Batta. Tank Corps. On 8 Aug. 1918, near Harbonieres, he attacked a battery of field guns and put them out of action. On the same day his tank was reported missing, one of the crew was found dead, and he is now reported wounded and a prisoner of war. Round his tank the next day were found the bodies of 40 enemy dead, which testified to this officer's extremely gallant conduct though entirely surrounded by the enemy after his tank was put out of action.

BAILEY, WALTER GEORGE, M.C., Temporary Second Lieut., 2nd Batta. Suffolk Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership as Battalion Intelligence Officer at Romeries, Escarmain and Beaudignies on 23 Oct. 1918. He went forward and found that a company had become disorganized owing to the loss of all its officers, and was hesitating to go forward. He immediately took command, rallied the men, and succeeded in getting them to their objective under heavy shell fire. Later, he led them in the assault on the final objective. He showed great skill in consolidating the positions gained and in the disposal of his force.

BALL, GEORGE HERBERT, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 1/5th Batta. South Staffordshire Regt., Territorial Force. On the 27th-28th Sept. 1918, north of Bellengise, he by a counter-attack ejected the enemy, who had bombed their way into newly-captured trenches. Later, being short of ammunition and bombs, he was forced to fall back, showing great courage and stubbornness, and inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy. Next day he made a reconnaissance with a small patrol, and with two men went forward and captured 16 enemy and two machine guns. He did fine work.

BARLTROP, ERNEST WILLIAM, Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), Essex Regt., Special Reserve, attached 9th Batta. On 4 Sept. 1918, he led his company across the canal east of Manancourt, and in the attack successfully gained his objective. When counter-attacked, the enemy was driven off owing to his organization and personal example. Next morning he led the remnants of three companies under a very heavy machine-gun fire, and took some 100 prisoners and several machine guns. Throughout he displayed marked ability and great skill in leading his men.

BENNETT, JOHN, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 1/9th Batta. Highland Light Infantry, Territorial Force. During the advance from the river Selle to Englefontaine, between 22 Oct. and 27 Oct. 1918, his initiative and courage largely helped in the success of the operations and undoubtedly saved many lives. The advance of a unit on the right was held up by a strong point at Paul Jacques Farm. On his own initiative, with a few men and a Lewis gun, he outflanked the position, rushed across the open, killed two of the enemy himself, and captured seven. He took the farm, and his gallantry enabled the advance to proceed. On 28 Oct. he led the attack on Englefontaine. The success of this attack was very largely due to his leadership and example.

BLANDE, ALFRED, Temporary Second Lieut., 24th Batta. Royal Fusiliers. Mt. Sur l'Oeuvre, on the high ground north of Rumilly, had been organized for a determined defence by the enemy, and it had defied several attacks. On 1 Oct. 1918, he led his greatly depleted company against it successfully, capturing in all some 400 prisoners and 40 machine guns. He showed marked courage and ability to command.

BOARDMAN, HENRY, M.C., Second Lieut., 1st Batta. Liverpool Regt., attached 4th Batta. During operations on the Montay-Englefontaine road, 23-26 Oct. 1918, whilst in command of a company, he displayed conspicuous gallantry and initiative. On the 23rd Oct. he led his company to the capture of Caluyaux. Again, on the 25th, he organized an attack on Englefontaine, which helped to capture the village and secure 60 prisoners.

BODINGTON, JOHN REDNER, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2/5th Batta. Lancaster Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and ability from 17 to 22 Oct. 1918. On 17 Oct. he was in command of the forward companies during the enemy retirement south of Lille. He commanded the advanced guard over a wide stretch of country with such energy and skill that the enemy rearwards were driven from successive positions, in one case in face of artillery at close range, the advance reaching a depth of 17,000 yards in one day.

BOSWELL, HAROLD EDWARD, M.C., Temporary Second Lieut., 2nd Batta. Worcestershire Regt. During the operations 22-23 Oct. 1918, up to the capture of Englefontaine, he led his company with great skill and gallantry. On the night of the assault on the village he led his company and another under heavy machine-gun fire to their final objective, and consolidated his position. During the actual assault he, with his runner, was responsible for the capture of 50 of the enemy, including three serjeant-majors. The success of the enterprise was largely due to the fine example of courage and energy set by him.

BOWEN, ARTHUR LLEWELLYN, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 4th Batta. Welsh Regt., Territorial Force, attached 10th Batta. South Wales Borderers. On the morning of the 4th Nov. 1918, in the attack against the Forêt de Mormal, his battalion was held up before reaching the edge of the forest by heavy machine-gun fire. Immediately on hearing of the situation he went forward to the leading companies, reorganized the attack, and personally led the advancing troops, who, inspired by his fine example of cool courage under heavy fire, pushed on to their final objective and completely routed the enemy.

BOYCE, WILLIAM WALLACE, Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), No. 2 Field Ambulance, Royal Army Medical Corps. For great gallantry, initiative and resource in personally supervising the evacuation of casualties during the operations on 4 Nov. 1918, near Petit Cambresis. He effected the rapid removal of wounded across the Sambre Canal under very difficult circumstances and considerable shell and machine-gun fire. On one occasion, when his advanced dressing station was blown in by shell fire, he personally reorganized his stretcher-bearers in a new site, inspired confidence in his officers and men, and undoubtedly saved many wounded under heavy fire.

BRADY, IRVINE GORDON CAMPBELL, M.C., Temporary Major, 9th Batta. Northumberland Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and good leading during the attack on 24 Oct. 1918, on Bormerain. He led his company with great dash and determination against a large village strongly held by many machine guns, which he captured. When troops on the left were checked he assisted to rally them, and he formed a defensive flank. His company reached the objective, and dug in before being ordered to conform to the general line. He showed absolute fearlessness under trying circumstances.

CALLOW GRAHAM, M.C., Second Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., attached 15th Battn. During operations east of Terhand on the 14th Oct. 1918, he showed great courage and initiative when the battalion was held up by a battery of enemy guns in action about 500 yards away. He organized two parties and led them forward against the guns, putting the guns out of action and shooting down several teams of horses. Pushing forward, he cleared several enemy machine-gun posts and shot down another team of horses retiring with a gun. He did splendid work.

CAMPBELL, RONALD, Temporary Major, 15th, formerly 12th, Battn. Tank Corps. During the operations against Niergies on 8 Oct. 1918, he was in command of a company of tanks. Previous to the operations he personally reconnoitred the ground, and on the evening of 7 Oct. he led his tanks to their start points under a heavy enemy barrage. His conduct at all times was of a very high order, and his cool courage and ability under fire a fine example to all ranks.

CASS, EDWARD EARNSHAW EDEN, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2nd Battn. Yorkshire Light Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry, initiative and general leadership of his company in the operations of 29 Sept. 1918, and the following day. Observing an enemy battery withdrawing their guns, he directed the concentrated fire of his company at the teams, seizing and working a Lewis gun himself under direct fire of another hostile field battery. After which he led forward two platoons of his company and seized the hostile battery, consisting of H.V. and 18-in. howitzers. Later, he led his company right through the village of Levergies, capturing 30 prisoners. He did fine work.

CHARLTON, ARTHUR HUMPHREY, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 1/6th Battn. North Staffordshire Regt., Territorial Force. For distinguished gallantry. On the 29th Sept. 1918, during the storming of the St. Quentin Canal, north of Bellenglise, he and his company were held up by machine-gun fire from a trench guarding the approach to a bridge. He took forward a party of nine men, captured the gun, killing all the crew by bayonet, and then carried on to the bridge, which he captured, killing a large number of the enemy, and saving the bridge from destruction. He did fine work.

CLOUSTON, JAMES, M.M., Temporary Second Lieut., B/107th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. North of Maresches, on the 1st Nov. 1918, he was in command of a section of forward 18-pounders. During the morning the enemy counter-attacked, supported by tanks, and reached to within 500 yards of where this officer's guns were in action in the open. Under direct machine-gun fire he kept his guns in action, knocked out one tank and hit another. He showed great courage and determination. He also put out several machine guns in turn at point-blank range.

CHIPP, WILKINS FITZWILLIAM, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), 1/1st Battn. Hereford Regt. During the operations near Monin, on 14, 15 and 16 Oct. 1918, he commanded his battalion with great skill and gallantry. With only part of his command he was ordered to take over the whole front and push on an extremely difficult operation, which he carried out at once under heavy shelling and machine-gun and minenwerfer fire. It was entirely due to his own personal reconnaissance of the country under fire and his perfect control that enabled his men to overcome every obstacle.

MILLER, GEOFFREY CHRISTIE, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Buckinghamshire Battn. Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry, Territorial Force, attached 2/5th Battn. Gloucestershire Regt. On 30 Sept. and 1 Oct. 1918, his battalion was engaged in operations south of Fleurbailx. He reconnoitred the ground beforehand, established his headquarters far forward, and maintained it there for two days under continuous shelling. The successful issue of the fighting was due to his personal control and fine example of indifference to danger. He continued to command his battalion after being wounded.

CLARKE, HUBERT THOMAS, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1/8th Battn. Worcestershire Regt., Territorial Force. For fine leadership and gallantry during the period 5-10 Oct. 1918. He was called upon suddenly to organize and carry out the attack on Beaurevoir. This he did with the greatest skill, his battalion, in face of heavy opposition, finally gaining all their objectives, and thereby making the next big attack possible. Later, he captured Honnechy, showing skill and ability in doing so. Throughout these operations his grasp of the situation was clear and concise.

COOK, JAMES, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2nd Battn. West Riding Regt. Near Verchain, during the fighting on the 24th Oct. 1918, which resulted in the capture of Mur Cope and Pimple Sunken Road and trench system beyond, he showed fine courage and leadership. On one occasion with two men he attacked a machine-gun nest of two guns which were enfilading his company and holding up the advance. He shot the gunners, putting the guns out of action, afterwards mopping up the remainder of the post and taking about 20 prisoners, thereby enabling the advance to continue. Later, though wounded, he continued to lead his men.

CRAWSHAW, CHARLES HERBERT, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 1st Battn. King's Own Scottish Borderers. In command of his battalion on the 15th Oct. 1918, between Salines and Cuernie, he went beyond the final objective and established posts along the Heulebeek, capturing several pill-boxes and many machine guns. Later, he pushed still further forward and established posts on the Lys River, thereby avoiding the necessity for a brigade attack. He handled his force with consummate skill, and it was due to his able and fearless leadership that the Lys was reached. He did fine work.

DE MIREMONT, GUY EGON RENE, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 2nd Battn. Royal Welsh Fusiliers. On the morning of 4 Nov. 1918, during the attack on Forêt de Mormal, he, finding that the advance of the battalion he was commanding was being held up early in the attack by a strong post of enemy in a group of houses, organized and led personally a party from battalion headquarters against the houses, and, with the help of a tank, took this post. Later he went forward to the leading troops and personally directed them in the mist to their objective under heavy fire. It was largely due to his prompt action and gallant example that the right objective was taken.

DENT, JOHN RALPH CONGRAVE, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Battn. Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership in command of his battalion during operations from 14-16 Oct. 1918, in the Moorseele-Gulleghem-Heule Sector. His skilful leading enabled the battalion to reach its final objective in face of determined resistance and over difficult ground. After making a personal reconnaissance he again led his leading companies, and cleared the ground to the Heule area. He did good work.

DOAKE, RICHARD LIONEL VERE, M.C., Temporary Capt., 7th Battn. Bedfordshire Regt., attached 2nd Battn. During the attack on Preux-au-Bols, on the 4th Nov. 1918, he was in command of one of the leading companies of the assault. He led his company forward when the companies on either flank were held up, and, after killing several enemy himself, reached his final objective.

He then sent parties out to either flank to help the other companies forward. This was completely successful, and the whole objective was captured. He showed marked gallantry and ability.

DUGGAN, HAROLD JOSEPH GEORGE, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), Loyal North Lancashire Regt., attached 1/4th Battn. Territorial Force. For conspicuous courage and leadership during the fighting in the advance from La Bassée on Tournai between 16 and 22 Oct. 1918. On 16 Oct. 1918, it was largely due to his enterprise that the crossings of the Haute Deule Canal at the Bac de Wavrin were secured, and later, near Tournai, on 22 Oct. 1918, he directed the capture of strong tactical positions. His hard fighting qualities and fine leadership greatly helped the success of these operations.

DUNCAN, CHARLES MAITLAND, Temporary Capt., C/110th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. On the 18th Sept. 1918, near Ronsoy, he was in command of a section of guns acting in close support of our infantry attack. In the first phase of the attack he took his guns forward with the infantry and engaged parties of the enemy and hostile machine guns with great effect over open sights. He then advanced with the infantry until they were held up by heavy machine-gun fire. Seeing the situation, he led his guns up in face of heavy machine-gun fire, and took up a forward position. For the rest of the day and all the next day he engaged enemy's guns and machine-gun posts, rendering the greatest assistance to the infantry. Throughout the operation he displayed the greatest courage and dash.

EDINBOROUGH, SAMUEL BERNARD, M.C., 2nd Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 3rd Battn. Lincolnshire Regt., attached 1st Battn. For conspicuous gallantry and skill in leading his company during the attack from Oviliers on 23 Oct. 1918. The troops to capture second objective were held up, so he led his company close up to leading troops, assisted in the capture of the second objective, and then pushed on and captured Vendegies. Next day he led his company forward 3,000 yards and captured his objective, overcoming stiff opposition and capturing many prisoners. Throughout he showed marked gallantry and enterprise.

EDWARDS, JOHN, Temporary Major, Royal Welsh Fusiliers, attached 1st Battn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt. During the operations from 3-9 Oct. 1918, which resulted in the capture of Oppy Village and the piercing of the Fresnes-Rouvroy line, he was in command of his battalion. By his gallant and determined leadership all objectives were successfully obtained and heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy. Two officers, two warrant officers and 66 other ranks were taken prisoners, also ten machine guns and two minenwerfers. The battalion did fine work, and he set an example of energy to all ranks.

EVANS, THOMAS RICHARD, Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Welsh Fusiliers, attached 1/6th Battn. North Staffordshire Regt., Territorial Force. Near Bellenglise, on 29 Sept. 1918, his battalion stormed a most difficult section of the Hindenburg Line, after crossing a wide canal with banks 30 feet in height, and captured over 800 prisoners, with few casualties. By his personal gallantry and energy whilst holding the line and during the attack he was to a large extent responsible for the success which his battalion achieved.

FRISBY, LIONEL CLAUD, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 6th Battn. Welsh Regt. He distinguished himself during the attack on Maismeys on 15 Sept. 1918, and again on 18 Sept., when he did valuable service by reconnoitring and forming lateral communication across the marshes north of Pontru. On the 24th Sept., when reconnoitring before the attack, he had a bombing encounter with an enemy patrol. His conduct during the operations on 17 and 18 Oct. was of a high order.

GARDEN, JAMES WINTON, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), 8th Battn. Machine Gun Corps. For devotion to duty and gallantry on many occasions during the attack on the Fresnes-Rouvroy line on the 7th Oct. 1918, the attack on the Drocourt-Quéant line on the 11th Oct., and in the ensuing fighting up to the crossing of the Haute Deule Canal, while commanding the machine guns of the 23rd Infantry Brigade Group. Throughout this period he organized the work of the machine guns with great efficiency, initiative and judgment. He was untiring in going round his forward positions under heavy fire, and, after inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, forced them to retire from Hill Metier. His personal example and cheerfulness throughout these operations were a great example to all who came in contact with him.

GARROD, EDGAR SAMUEL, M.C., D.C.M., Temporary Second Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 10th Battn. Tank Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Bougies on 23-24 Oct. 1918, in charge of a section of four Tanks. He personally led his Tanks on foot into the village of Bougies and directed their fire on various strong points and machine-gun nests in houses. Throughout the two days' operations he had no rest, and under very heavy machine-gun, rifle and shell fire showed great energy and courage.

GARSTIN, DENIS, Capt., 10th Royal Hussars (North Russia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. In a successful attack upon the Selektokoe village, the capture of the village, the enemy's armoured car, and machine gun was due to his very able handling of the men under his command. He always set a splendid example of cheerfulness under trying circumstances and steadiness under fire to the troops of the force, and his intimate knowledge of the language was invaluable. His courage won the admiration of all. He was afterwards killed in a most gallant attempt to force the enemy from his positions.

GEMMELL, JOHN SALISBURY, M.C., Temporary Major, 20th Battn. Manchester Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and initiative in command of the reserve battalion between Pouchaux and Premont, 8 Oct. 1918. Finding that machine-gun fire was coming from a copse 1,000 yards outside the divisional boundary, he at once formed a defensive flank to safeguard the right flank of the brigade. He then attacked the copse, which contained several machine guns and mortars, and mopped it up. By doing so he greatly assisted the advance.

GRAHAM, FERGUS REGINALD WINSFORD, M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Irish Rifles, attached 10th Battn. London Regt. (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry and initiative on the 19th Sept. 1918, at Keir Kasim. He showed great dash, gallantry, and a quick grasp of the situation in these operations, pressing the attack and subsequent pursuit most resolutely. Throughout he exercised the most inspiring influence on his troops.

GRAY, JOHN EDWARD BOWLES, Temporary Capt., 7th Battn. Rifle Brigade, attached 33rd Battn. London Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and skilful leadership. Near Helchin on night 4-5 Nov. 1918, he led his company across River Scheldt in face of strong opposition from the enemy, who occupied numerous machine-gun and rifle posts on his side of the river. He himself was the first to cross the centre bridge of three bridges, and succeeded, after great difficulties, in getting a Lewis-gun section across before the bridge broke down. Seventeen enemy were killed and 23 taken prisoner. He also brought up ammunition under heavy shell fire.

GREAVES, HARRY, M.C., Lieut., 3rd Battn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., attached 1st Battn. For most conspicuous gallantry and initiative. On the 6th-7th Oct. 1918, near Oppy, he successfully led his platoon on two occasions in face of very heavy fire and stubborn resistance to their objective, where they captured 23 prisoners and two machine guns. He set a fine example to those under him, and did splendid work.

GREVILLE, GUY GEORGE FREDERICK FULKE, Capt. (Acting Major), Leinster Regt., attached 6th Batta. Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers. For marked gallantry, good leadership and excellent work in command of his battalion in action at Le Cateau on 3 Oct. and near Le Cateau on 17 Oct. 1918. On each occasion he displayed great initiative and dash in face of strong enemy opposition. Owing to his personal example, both operations were successful, and each time his battalion captured over 250 prisoners and many machine guns.

GRIFFITHS, JAMES LEWELLYN, Major, 1/5th Batta. Leicestershire Regt., Territorial Force. For gallantry and able leadership. On 29 Sept. 1918, he led his battalion by companies through the thick fog from Le Vergier to the assembly position. Afterwards he personally supervised the crossing of the St. Quentin Canal and formed up the battalion on the east side and led the advance toward the final objective. Later, he made a daring reconnaissance, during which he was wounded, before the attack on Doon Hill. He showed cool courage and cheerfulness throughout.

GUILD, JOHN ROYES, Capt. (Acting Major), 1st Batta. Gloucestershire Regt. For gallantry and tactical ability. He displayed great initiative while holding a line east of the village of Mazinghen from 30 Oct.-3 Nov. 1918. His outposts were constantly attacked by the enemy, and in every case he handled the situation with coolness and ability, advancing his line and inflicting heavy casualties. The attack on Catillon took place on 4 Nov., and ended in the capture of that village and the forcing of the canal at that point, many prisoners being taken. This result was largely due to his very able tactical handling of his men and personal example of gallantry.

HARRAGIN, ALFRED ERNEST ALBERT, Temporary Major, 1st Batta. British West India Regt. (Capt., Trinidad Local Forces) (Egypt). For gallantry and successful leadership of his company on the 22nd Sept. 1918, at Damleh bridgehead, Jordan Valley. He and his company took over 100 prisoners and three machine guns, and were responsible for about 50 killed and wounded of the enemy. He did splendid work.

HOLBECH, LAURENCE, M.C., Lieut., Grenadier Guards (Special Reserve), attached 2nd Batta. For conspicuous gallantry and leadership during the night attack between St. Python and Vertain, on 20 Oct. 1918. He was in command of the right leading company of the battalion, and gained his objectives. On one occasion he got round a large part of the enemy, charged them with the bayonet from the rear, and cleared the way for the advance. He showed fearless and able leadership throughout.

HOPE, PERCY ALBERT, Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 11th Batta. Royal Fusiliers. For marked gallantry and determined leadership on 4 Nov. 1918, near Preux-au-Bois. He commanded a composite company composed of the remains of two companies in the attack. Although held up by machine-gun nests and the breakdown of the tank which was to deal with them at the commencement of the attack, he eventually succeeded in breaking through with some 20 men. Without waiting for the remainder, he at once pushed on with such effect that he succeeded in clearing up the whole area, capturing over 20 machine guns and some 200 prisoners, including five officers. He did fine work.

HUDSON, NOEL BARING, M.C., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 8th Batta. Royal Berkshire Regt. For consistent gallantry and able leadership, particularly on 8 Aug. 1918, south of Morlancourt, when he personally led his battalion forward to the attack through heavy fog and intense shell and machine-gun fire. When they were held up by machine guns he pushed forward alone, knocking out one machine gun and getting wounded in doing so. In spite of this, he rushed two other machine guns which were holding up the advance, and continued to lead his battalion forward until he was again seriously wounded by machine-gun fire in three places. He showed splendid courage and determination.

JACKSON, MANSEL HALKET, M.C., Capt., 29th Lancers, Indian Army (Egypt). On the 23rd Sept. 1918, while his brigade was advancing down the right bank of the Jordan from Baisan towards Jisr ed Damie, the advanced guard was held up by a large enemy detachment. After a personal reconnaissance of the enemy formation, Capt. Jackson made a wide outflanking movement round the enemy's left, then charging home, under heavy rifle and machine-gun fire, he succeeded in capturing the position held by about 1,000 infantry, 18 machine guns and 12 automatic rifles. Capt. Jackson led the charge and behaved with most conspicuous personal gallantry, and handled his detachment throughout with great skill and coolness. The captures included a Divisional General.

KER, ROBERT FORDYCE, M.C., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 6th Batta. King's Own Scottish Borderers. At Vichte, on 22 Oct. 1918, while commanding his battalion in support of another, he cleared the village of machine gunners and any remaining enemy. Later, he captured Hill 50 with great gallantry and tactical ability. Throughout he displayed great coolness and a thorough grasp of an awkward situation.

KING, GEORGE WILLIAM, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), C/160th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. On 31 Oct. 1918, during the operations near Anseghem, he had a forward section of 18-pounders working in close support of the infantry. He went forward himself and directed the fire of this section on an enemy 7.7 cm. gun which was firing at short range and causing casualties to our infantry. After silencing this gun he turned fire on to enemy machine guns which were firing on our troops. He then made a daring reconnaissance which was of the greatest value in enabling the batteries to be pushed forward as the situation on the left was obscure. He showed great gallantry and initiative.

LAWSON, EDWARD FREDERICK, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1/1st Buckinghamshire Yeomanry, Commanding 1st County of London Yeomanry (Egypt). On the 23rd Sept. 1918, the brigade came into contact with a strong flank guard of the 7th Turkish Army, which was covering the crossing of that army over the River Jordan by the ford at Mkt. Fetta es Sufah. He so manoeuvred his regiment that it got behind the left rear of the flank guard, which thus left the column exposed to an attack. This attack was promptly pushed home, resulting in the capture of some 3,000 prisoners, eight field guns, two camel guns, and many machine guns, the abandoning of numerous transport vehicles, and the complete disorganization of this Turkish Army as a fighting force. He did magnificent work.

LISTER, CECIL, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Northamptonshire Regt., attached 1/6th Batta. South Staffordshire Regt., Territorial Force. His battalion was allotted the difficult task of storming the St. Quentin Canal and capturing the village of Bellenglise on the further bank. Amongst the defences he had to attack was a tunnel system. On the 29th Sept. 1918, he achieved a complete success with slight casualties, and this was in great measure due to his careful preparation of the attack and the determination with which he personally inspired all ranks serving under him during the action.

LOMAX, CYRIL ERNEST NAPIER, M.C., Capt. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Welsh Regt., Commanding 21st Batta. Manchester Regt. Throughout the operations extending from 4 to 12 Oct. 1918, he displayed marked gallantry and power of command. He led his battalion in the attack on Ponchaux, when they successfully stormed and captured the second objective. Later, when the attack on Honnochy was held up, he went forward and consulted with the commanding officers of the battalions in front of him, with the result that a fresh attack was successfully launched. He did excellent work throughout.

MACDERMOTT, GEORGE ANTHONY, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 4th Batta. Highland Light Infantry, Seconded 9th Batta. Machine Gun Corps. Near Harlebeke, on 17 Oct. 1918, the bridgehead which had been established during the night was heavily counter-attacked, the bridge being destroyed by artillery fire. He swam the river, which was under a heavy machine-gun and artillery barrage, and so managed to reach his two sections which were heavily engaged. His personal example greatly assisted the repulse of the counter-attack. During the operations extending from 29 Sept. to 22 Oct. he has displayed marked ability and coolness in handling his guns at critical periods.

MANDLERBERG, LEONARD CHARLES, M.C., Temporary Major, 15th Batta. Lancashire Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the attack on the Fonsomme line on 1-2 Oct. 1918. He rendered valuable aid in personal reconnaissances during the action, and, later, in reorganizing the defence. He took up supports and tried to rush the position when the Tanks failed to reach their final objective. Later, when an enemy counter-attack was developing, he took command of the firing line, and steadied the men, and brought fire to bear on the enemy. His work throughout was excellent.

MAY, ERNEST RICHARD HALLAM, Temporary Major, Royal Irish Rifles, attached 1st Batta. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership during the attack on Moorselee and Gulleghem on 14-15 Oct. 1918. After zero on the 14th he walked through a heavy artillery barrage to visit his battalion. He organized his companies, and, despite a thick fog, ensured that correct direction was kept. For two days he worked unceasingly during the heavy fighting, and by his clear orders and personal example greatly assisted his battalion to reach its objective.

MCCARTHY, WILLIAM HILGROVE LESLIE, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Army Medical Corps (Special Reserve), attached 19th Field Ambulance. During the operations connected with the crossing of the Sambre, 4 to 8 Nov. 1918, he exhibited marked gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of the advanced dressing station and maintained the closest touch with the front-line troops, arranging for the immediate evacuation of casualties as they occurred. He worked continuously for three days and three nights, and his energy, able management and devotion to duty saved many lives.

MCLELLAN, JAMES, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), 446th (Northumbrian) Field Coy., Royal Engineers, Territorial Force. For great gallantry and devotion to duty in the attack on the enemy positions east of Elver Selle, south of Le Cateau, on 17 Oct. 1918. For three nights previous to the attack he made valuable reconnaissances of the river in front of our outpost line where the enemy were holding the east bank of the stream. He subsequently organized the bridging of the river, and, on the morning of the 17th, he led his men forward in advance of the infantry and threw his bridges over the stream, thus enabling five battalions of infantry to cross and carry out a most successful operation.

MCNEILL, DONALD HUGH, Lieut.-Colonel, 19th Lancers, Indian Army (Egypt). On the 19th-20th Sept. 1918, he, with his regiment, covered a distance of some 90 miles from Selmeh to Jisr Mujamia, within 48 hours, during which he seized and prepared for the demolition of the bridge at Jisr Mujamia by daylight. This performance included two consecutive all-night marches over difficult country, and during the whole period there was practically no rest for man or horse. He did fine work.

METHUEN, HENRY CHARLES, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Batta. Cameron Highlanders. On 17 Oct. 1918, near La Vallée Moulatre, for conspicuous gallantry and able leadership. When the advance was held up by heavy machine-gun and artillery fire he made a personal reconnaissance and made such dispositions that the leading companies were enabled to advance again after one skilfully handled platoon had outflanked the machine guns. The position eventually taken by his battalion was of exceptional strength, and 60 machine guns were collected on a front of under 1,000 yards, besides many automatic rifles and four field guns.

MORGAN, CLIFFORD WILLIAM, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 5th, attached 4/5th Batta. Welsh Regt., Territorial Force (Egypt). This officer showed the greatest dash and gallantry when the enemy counter-attacked after the capture of Bidston Hill, near Kh. Abu Felah, on the 18th Sept. 1918. He personally led a bayonet charge which broke up the counter-attack and inflicted serious casualties on the enemy. Later, he took a neighbouring hill with 18 prisoners and two machine guns without artillery support, and his courage and personal example had much to do with the success of the operations entrusted to the battalion on the night of 18-19 Sept.

MORRIS, CHARLES HENRY, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), Middlesex Regt., attached 1st Batta. Dorsetshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and skilful leading of his battalion on the 29th Sept. 1918, at Fleche Wood. He led his battalion by short rushes across an open slope under very heavy fire, gained all objectives, and consolidated his new position. The following morning, at 15 minutes' notice, he was ordered to capture the village of Levergies in conjunction with another brigade. He successfully carried out his task up to time. He rendered excellent service.

OWEN, WALTER LEWELLYN, M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 5th Batta. Liverpool Regt., Territorial Force, Commanding 11th Batta. Royal West Surrey Regt. As battalion commander in the advance to l'Escaut on the 25th Oct. 1918, he showed great gallantry and power of command. At a critical time, when his left flank had been left in the air, he overcame a very difficult situation by able handling of his command. Later, during the taking of Heestert Spichestraat, his leadership was again of great value.

PAIGE, CHARLES JOHN MURRAY, M.C., Temporary Second Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 11th Batta. Royal West Surrey Regt. For conspicuous leadership and gallantry on 19 Oct. 1918, at Courtral. He took his company across the River Lys in an improvised ferry boat under heavy shell fire. In a surprisingly short time he had either captured, killed or driven away the enemy and had advanced on an 800 yards' frontage along the Courtral-Harlebeke Railway, being an advance to a depth of 1,500 yards. It was largely due to his personal supervision, leadership and dash that the objective was gained, organized and held. His gallant and able leadership contributed materially to the success of the whole operation.

PANNALL, CHARLIE, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Major and Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal West Surrey Regt., attached 20th Batta. Durham Light Infantry. On 14-15 Oct. 1918, near Wevelghem, his great gallantry and fine leadership greatly contributed to the success of the battalion under his command. During the attack on the 14th Oct. he directed the attack on the first line personally through a dense fog, and towards the end of the day placed his men in position on the final objective, exposing himself throughout to heavy shell and machine-gun fire. He has at all times shown gallantry and devotion to duty of a high order.

PARKES, WALTER, M.C., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 8th Batta. Gloucestershire Regt. For gallantry and good leadership in operations near Haussy between 20-24 Oct. 1918. His battalion was twice ordered to carry out an attack, on the 20th and 23rd Oct. respectively. He personally led the leading platoons across the Solle River under machine-gun and rifle fire. Throughout he showed great courage and ability to command.

PATERSON, GEORGE ROBERT STEEL, M.C., Temporary Major, Highland Light Infantry, attached 1/5th Bn. King's Own Scottish Borderers, Territorial Force. On 14 Oct. 1918, at Gheluwe, he was in command of his battalion in the left front of the brigade attack, and by his fine leadership ensured the success of the advance. When the battalion's advance was temporarily held up, he personally went round his whole front, collected parties lost in the mist, and attacked Uniform Farm, capturing a battery and three machine guns. Throughout the day he displayed great gallantry, initiative and endurance.

PEARSE, REGINALD GUY, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 3rd Bn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., attached 1st Bn. At Oppy, on 6 Oct. 1918, he showed marked gallantry, skill and ability in the handling of his company, capturing an enemy strong point yielding 34 prisoners and six machine guns, and establishing positions in front of it. His coolness and personal courage during the fighting were a splendid example to his men, raising their spirits to a very high pitch of offensive enthusiasm.

PEBERDY, CHARLES EDWARD VERNON KINGSBURY, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 4th Bn. West Yorkshire Regt., attached 1st Bn. At Selency, on 24-25 Sept. 1918, the gaining of all the objectives on the right of the battalion, including the village of Selency, was in a very great measure due to his excellent work. After his objectives were gained he made reconnaissances well in front of the captured position, obtaining valuable information as to the whereabouts of the enemy by exposing himself and drawing their fire. Throughout he showed marked gallantry and devotion to duty, and on one occasion with a small party outflanked and captured 20 of the enemy.

PIGG, NORMAN BATEY, M.C., Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 1st Bn. Northumberland Fusiliers. For most conspicuous gallantry and initiative during the operations east of Solesmes, from 23 to 26 Oct. 1918. He commanded a company which made three assaults during the operations. On one occasion he pushed forward with a small party, and captured a machine gun which had been causing casualties. Later he observed an enemy field battery, which he at once charged and routed the gunners. His fine acts of gallantry undoubtedly saved the battalion many casualties.

POTTER, JOHN WATTS, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 1/5th Bn. attached 1/6th Bn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., Territorial Force. For marked gallantry and leadership near Montbrechain on 3 Oct. 1918, in command of a company. During the early stages of the attack his company successfully captured several nests of machine guns, and later, pressing on through the village of Montbrechain, they rushed and captured six field guns, killing and capturing some of the gun teams. He made several gallant attempts to lead his men beyond the village under intense fire, and finally, when heavily counter-attacked, he hung on to this position with great determination until his ammunition was almost exhausted. Throughout he showed splendid courage and initiative.

PRING, BERNARD VINCENT, M.C., Second Lieut. (Acting Capt.), Yorkshire Light Infantry, attached 2nd Bn. For marked gallantry and able leadership of his company in the action of the 29th-30th Sept. 1918, against Leveghies, which culminated in the capture of that village. Leading his company well in advance, he captured a battery of field guns and several machine guns. Next day he succeeded in entering the outskirts of the village, thus opening the way to the successful capture of the village. He did excellent work.

RATCLIFFE, WILLIAM CHARLES, Capt. (Temporary Major), Northamptonshire Regt., attached 9th Bn. Yorkshire Light Infantry. For marked courage and determined leadership during the operations 23-24 Oct. 1918, at Ovilles and Vendegies. During the advance very heavy enfilade fire was poured into the right flank of the battalion from enemy machine-gun nests. Five of these machine-gun nests were rushed by his company, and in one instance he rushed a machine gun himself, killing some and capturing the rest of the crew. As a result the right flank of the battalion was enabled to get forward and the objectives taken. Throughout these operations, by his fearless and able leadership, he rendered excellent service.

RAWLINSON, ALFRED, C.M.G., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, Royal Garrison Artillery (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty, near Baku, on night of 14 Sept. 1918. With an escort of four men he brought away a steamer loaded with munitions from Baku under fire, in spite of the opposition of the captain and crew, who refused to navigate her. Although fired on heavily from a guardship, which hit the steamer several times, he, by his personal energy and resource, made the crew work, and got the steamer safely to Enzeli. He thus, by his enterprise and determination, saved a valuable cargo.

RIDLEY, BASIL WHITE, M.C., Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 29th Bn. Durham Light Infantry (formerly East Lancashire Regt.). He showed conspicuous gallantry and ability in personally supervising, under heavy shell and machine-gun fire, the crossing of the Lys River, near Comines, on 14 and 15 Oct. 1918. It was due to him that the situation was controlled and ended in complete success, notwithstanding heavy casualties to the bridging parties and patrols of his battalion, which was the first to cross the river. He visited posts, and by his personal example encouraged men who were much exhausted.

ROBERTS, GEORGE, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), A/123rd Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. For marked gallantry and initiative on the morning of 23 Oct. 1918, near Beaurain. He pushed on and selected his battery position under machine-gun and shell fire before the first objective had been consolidated. Returning he was able to give his artillery brigade commander valuable information as to the situation in front. Though gassed while reconnoitring he refused to go to a dressing station and fought his battery ably throughout the day.

ROBINSON, GUY ST. GEORGE, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Bn. Northamptonshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 17th Oct. 1918, during an attack by his battalion near Vaux Andigny. In very dense fog and under very heavy fire he went from company to company and brought his troops on to their correct line of advance, with the result that the village of La Vallée Mulatre was captured. On the 23rd Oct. 1918, near Mazinghen, his excellent dispositions again resulted in his battalion gaining all its objectives with little loss.

ROGERS, CLAUDE RUPERT DE WARRENNE, Capt., 1st Bn. Leinster Regt., attached 1/5th Bn. Gloucestershire Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and fearless leadership in leading his company during the attacks on Bearevoir, Maretz, and during the advance on Le Cateau, 5, 6 and 10 Oct. respectively. He led his company splendidly throughout the attack and enabled the battalion on the left to carry their portion of the village, where they had previously been held up. During the advance on Le Cateau, although wounded the day previously, he again led his company forward, and when the leading battalion was held up by heavy machine-gun fire he made a most gallant attempt to assist them by pushing on until both he and all his officers were casualties.

RUSTON, ALFRED HAROLD, Temporary Major, Motor Machine Gun Corps (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Baku on 26 Aug. 1918. At a critical moment he took command of the infantry when all their officers had become casualties. He reorganized the line under heavy fire and carried out a withdrawal in good order to a position in rear. His ability and coolness saved a critical situation. He was eventually severely wounded.

SCULLY, VINCENT MARCUS BARRON, O.B.E., Capt. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Border Regt., attached 5th Bn. Connaught Rangers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Le Cateau on night 10-11 Oct. 1918. Though wounded, he led his battalion in the attack, and forced his way through the enemy defences of the town to the eastern outskirts. The success of the operation was largely due to his determination, enterprise and personal courage in action.

SHEDDEN, JAMES ALEXANDER, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), 7th Bn. Scottish Rifles, Territorial Force, attached 1/8th Bn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and ability in command of a battalion during the attack on Ramecourt and Montbrechain on 3 Oct. 1918. When his commanding officer was killed he took command of his battalion and led it to the final objective in front of Montbrechain. In this large village there was a great deal of fighting, and 1,000 of the enemy were captured. He took complete control and held the village for three hours without support, finally skillfully withdrawing, while inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

SHELDON, JOSEPH, M.C., Lieut., 2nd Bn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt. On 8 Oct. 1918, near Bohain, when in command of a company, he showed conspicuous gallantry and exceptional ability in leading his men in the advance. When the front line, depleted of officers, came under heavy fire, he, by his personal coolness and disregard of danger, held the line, reorganized, and later put the whole position in a state of defence. Throughout the operations, from the 8th to the 13th, he has had a company in the line. He has been unfailingly cheerful in adverse circumstances, and has himself been directly responsible for the capture of about 200 prisoners and 15 machine guns, located in various strong points.

SIMMONS, WILLIAM GORDON, M.C., Temporary Capt., 7th Bn. Royal West Surrey Regt. On 1 Sept. 1918, during his company's attack on Freglourt, he rendered most gallant and valuable service. A daring personal reconnaissance gave him the location of the enemy. As he was forming up his company to attack the enemy attacked him, but by clever handling of his company he succeeded in completely mastering them and captured the village with 300 prisoners, several machine guns and four trench mortars. He did fine work.

SLADDEN, CYRIL EDGAR, M.C., Temporary Major, 9th Bn. Worcestershire Regt. (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Baku on 14 Sept. 1918. He handled his battalion with marked ability and daring throughout the day under most difficult circumstances. When the troops on his left flank had withdrawn he skillfully extricated his command from an awkward position, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy, who greatly outnumbered him. His conduct was admirable.

STALLARD, CHARLES FRAMPTON, M.C. Temporary Major, 23rd Bn. Middlesex Regt., attached 15th Bn. Hampshire Regt. For marked gallantry and leadership during operations east of Courtrai from 20-26 Oct. 1918, whilst temporarily commanding a battalion. When the whole battalion was held up on the canal bank at Knokke on the 21st Oct. by direct and enfilade machine-gun fire from the opposite bank, he personally went forward and reorganized the position, and led his battalion across the canal. After reforming the battalion on the other side of the canal he led the advance up the slope and established a commanding position. Throughout the operations he did excellent work.

SUTCLIFFE, ARTHUR WINDLE, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 3rd Bn. Border Regt., attached 1st Bn. On 14-15 Oct. 1918, as Commanding Officer during the fighting from Ledeghem to Cuernne, his untiring energy and fine example of gallantry, together with his marked tactical ability, ensured the success of the operations, and greatly inspired his battalion in carrying out a difficult task under heavy machine-gun fire with their right flank in the air. He did excellent work.

TAYLER, FRANCIS LIONEL, Major, Deol Regt., Indian Army (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry on the 20th Sept. 1918, while in command of the leading three companies in the attack on Ras Aish, when, unsupported by artillery fire, he gained his objective after heavy casualties under very heavy shell and machine-gun fire. He personally conducted the attack, being cut off for some time from all communication with battalion headquarters. His splendid devotion to duty inspired all ranks with that fortitude and endurance which eventually enabled them to reach their objective.

THOMPSON, REGINALD, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1-1st Yorkshire Dragoons. During the advance to the Lys, after the capture of Steenbeek Hill on 15 Oct. 1918, he handled his command of cyclists and motor machine guns with conspicuous ability. When the left flank of the brigade was dangerously exposed owing to the enemy counter-attack further north, he made it possible for the brigade to gain ground, though under heavy machine-gun fire, and by hustling the enemy broke down their opposition in Cuernne. Throughout he displayed great gallantry and ability.

TOMBAZIS, JAMES LYELL, M.C., Second Lieut., 2nd Bn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt. On the morning of 18 Sept. 1918, in front of St. Quentin, while in command of a platoon, he displayed conspicuous gallantry, initiative, and power of leadership, organizing an attack of a hostile strong point and capturing three machine guns. Later, while in command of a patrol on the night of the 28th Sept. 1918, coming upon a hostile patrol in the dark, he rushed forward, seized and brought in a prisoner, at the same time ordering his men to fire. The remainder fled, leaving one dead.

TRESTRAIL, ALFRED ERNEST YATES Temporary Major, Cheshire Regt., attached 15th Bn. During the operations east of Terhand on the 14th Oct. 1918, he led his men to the attack in a most determined way, and when heavy hostile machine-gun fire was encountered from numerous strong points he got his men to surround them, and either killed or captured the occupants. His marked gallantry, cheeriness, and initiative were largely responsible for the objective being carried promptly.

TURNER, ROBERT, VILLIERS, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Bn. Durham Light Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership. During the operations on 23 Oct. 1918, near Catillon, owing to the enclosed nature of the ground the barrage was lost before the final objective overlooking the canal was reached. All further advance was carried out by means of fighting patrols. The success of the Durham Light Infantry in reaching positions commanding the canal was due to his personal leadership and initiative in the forward area, where he reorganized and personally directed the whole of the operations.

VIGORS, MERVYN DOYNE, M.C., Major, 9th Hodson's Horse, Indian Army (Egypt). On the 30th Sept. 1918, at Kiwe, when vanguard commander, with only one squadron and two machine guns, he attacked a column of 1,500 of the enemy, capturing 650 prisoners and four guns. It was greatly due to his resolution, quick decision, dash and gallantry that the advance of the whole corps was so rapid and successful.

WALKER, JAMES McCAIG, Temporary Second Lieut., Royal Highlanders, attached 1/6th Bn., Territorial Force. On 24 Oct. 1918, near Monchaux, he, on finding that the bridges which he carried were unsuitable for spanning the River Ecailon, jumped in and swam the river, followed by his platoon, thereby forming a defensive flank to the right and covering crossing of other platoons. He afterwards led his platoon forward, and materially assisted in the capture of the village of Monchaux and the taking of over 50 prisoners. With a few Lewis gunners he outflanked an enemy machine gun, personally killing the gunner. Throughout two days' fighting his gallantry and leadership were most conspicuous.

WALKER, VERNON DUDLEY, M.M., Temporary Second Lieut., 34th Bn. Machine Gun Corps. During the attack near Menin on 14 Oct. 1918, he went forward with the leading wave and, despite heavy artillery and machine-gun fire, pushed boldly forward to his objective. Although isolated from the infantry, he succeeded in capturing a field gun with the officer and personnel. Previously, he entered a trench and caused 27 of the enemy to surrender. For two hours he maintained his position until the infantry came up, and then moved forward with them. Throughout he displayed great courage and initiative.

WEBSTER, JAMES ALEXANDER, Capt. and Brevet Major, 8th Bn. London Regt., attached Headquarters 53rd Infantry Brigade. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the operations in the vicinity of Mormal Forest, 23 Oct. to 4 Nov. 1918. He, acting as Brigade Major in both actions, went forward to ascertain the situation, and for many hours remained exposed to heavy fire of all kinds in order to keep his brigade commander informed. On 4 Nov. he again went forward and visited all parts of the line under heavy fire, and sent back valuable information, which enabled the necessary orders to be issued, and thus materially assisted in the capture of the final objective.

WELLS, GEORGE KERSLAKE, M.C., Lieut., 4th Bn. King's Royal Rifle Corps. On 17 Oct. 1918, during the attack on the enemy positions near St. Souplet, he showed conspicuous gallantry and power of leadership. In the early stages of the attack, when the company commanders of the two leading companies became casualties, he assumed command, reformed the line under very heavy machine-gun fire, pushed forward his support company to reinforce the attacking companies and won through to his objective. His excellent work caused the enemy machine gunners to retreat in confusion and secured the capture by the battalion of two field guns, 40 machine guns and 60 prisoners.

WHITE, ARTHUR (corrected to Alfred [London Gazette, 12 July, 1920]), Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 4th Bn. East Surrey Regt., attached 4/5th Bn. South Staffordshire Regt., Territorial Force. On the 28th Sept. 1918, his battalion on the day previous to a general attack on the St. Quentin Canal, was heavily attacked by the enemy in our outpost line near Bellenglise. During the succeeding night he reorganized his battalion and completed with three companies preparations for an attack which was organized for four companies. He led his battalion to the attack, and its success was largely due to his forethought in preparation and his coolness in action.

WHITE, WILLIAM, M.C., Temporary Major, 15th Bn. Highland Light Infantry. After the third successful attack on Sequehart on 3 Oct. 1918, information was received of a determined enemy counter-attack in progress. He at once proceeded towards the village, made a personal reconnaissance, and found it only weakly held. He then returned and led forward his battalion, which was in reserve, and re-established our positions on the far side of the village. But for his enterprise and judgment the enemy would have shortly reoccupied the village in strength.

WILLISON, ARTHUR CECIL, M.C., Lieut., 1st Bn. Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regt., attached Headquarters 24th Infantry Brigade. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as brigade intelligence officer during the advance from the Fresnes-Rouvroy to the Escaut River, east of St. Amand (12 to 27 Oct. 1918). Throughout the advance he was employed daily right forward. On 19 Oct. he was the first man to enter Marchiennes. On 23 Oct., when going forward, he came across a patrol who were hotly engaged with the enemy between La Broeyre and St. Amand. He at once took charge of the party and attacked. He killed two of the enemy with his own hand and captured four others, together with a machine gun. Throughout these operations he showed fearless dash and initiative.

WILSON, ALEXANDER ROBERT GRAHAM, Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Bn. Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, attached 1/5th Bn., Territorial Force. While commanding his battalion during the advance at Wytshaete on 28-29 Sept. 1918, he showed marked gallantry and ability to command. When one of his companies had been repulsed by a counter-attack he collected them and restarted the attack, reorganizing the men under heavy machine-gun fire. Later, he made a daring reconnaissance, enabling one of his companies to capture an enemy position under heavy enfilade fire. Again, on 14 Oct., near Menin, he showed great gallantry and devotion to duty, personally directing each company on its objective and thereby greatly contributing to the enemy's losses.

WRIGHT, ARTHUR, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2/2nd Bn. London Regt. For conspicuous gallantry during the operations at Polziers 18-19 Sept. 1918. He succeeded in spite of all opposition of the enemy, and though his right flank was in the air, in reaching his final objective. Whilst in command of remnants of three companies, he personally organized bombing attacks from 8 p.m., 18 Sept., to 7 p.m., 19th Sept., until the final objective was ultimately captured. During the whole of the period the drive and determination of this officer was the main factor in keeping this composite company to maintain their offensive spirit, which culminated in the capture of Poplar Trench.

YOUNG, CLARENCE RANDOLPH, M.C., Temporary Capt., Royal Army Medical Corps, attached 1st Bn. Shropshire Light Infantry. On the 18th Sept. 1918, when the battalion had suffered very heavy casualties, he followed up and remained close behind the front line and in ground swept by the enemy's machine-gun fire, and exposed to artillery fire, spent the whole day tending and clearing the wounded; and on the following morning he went up, and, after spending some hours in No Man's Land, he got in several wounded men. By his gallantry and devotion to duty he undoubtedly saved many lives.

YOUNG, HUBERT WINTHROP, Capt. (Temporary Major), 116th Mahratta Light Infantry, Indian Army (Egypt). For gallantry and coolness under fire in the attack by the Arab forces on Mezirib on 17 Sept. 1918. Having gained the station buildings he organized and personally directed the destruction of the enemy's railway and telegraph communications at that place. He also rendered consistent good service during subsequent engagements in which he acted as adviser to the Arab regular army.

CANADIAN FORCE.

ALLEN, EVELYN PRESTWOOD SEYMOUR, Capt., 116th Infantry Bn. 2nd Central Ontario Regt. During the attack on the village of St. Olle on 29 Sept. 1918, he was acting as adjutant. During the attack two companies were held up. He went back through heavy fire and got in touch with a forward section of the artillery, and with their co-operation the attack was able to move forward. Again, on the 1st Oct., in the attack on Ramillies, when the Commanding Officer was wounded, he led the battalion forward to their objective. He personally reorganized a company, and by skilful manoeuvring, worked around a battery of enemy artillery who were firing at them point-blank, killing or capturing the crews, and thus enabling the advance to continue. Throughout these operations he showed conspicuous gallantry and ability.

BOND, GEORGE FREDERICK DANIELS, M.C., Major, 28th Infantry Bn. Saskatchewan Regt. For conspicuous courage and devotion to duty near Iwuy on 10 and 11 Oct. 1918. He was in command of his battalion, which was held up in an attack on Iwuy by machine-gun fire from strong enemy positions on the River Erclin, whereupon he went forward under heavy fire to his most forward troops and made a personal reconnaissance of the situation, afterwards establishing a line from which the village was captured next day. Throughout the operations his work was excellent.

BONNER, ARTHUR BERNARD, M.M., Lieut., 116th Infantry Bn. 2nd Central Ontario Regt. For marked courage and initiative. During our attack on the village of St. Olle, in front of Cambrai, on the 29th Sept. 1918, two companies were caught under intense machine-gun fire coming from a trench in front of the village of St. Olle. Taking two platoons, he, by skilful manoeuvring, reached a sunken road to the north-west of the village of St. Olle, where he rushed a machine-gun post and where, with his two platoons, he accounted for 15 machine guns and 94 prisoners altogether. He did splendid work and rendered most valuable service.

BOWERBANK, GEORGE SCOTT STANTON, M.C., Major, 21st Infantry Bn. East Ontario Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and ability north-east of Cambrai, 10-11 Oct. 1918. The success of his battalion in two successive days' operations was largely due to his exercise of control, initiative and determination. Working from an advanced position, he on two occasions carried out daring preliminary reconnaissances, and arranged all details for the pending attacks, exposing himself continually to heavy fire.

CHARLES, JOHN LESLIE, Major, 13th Bn. Canadian Railway Service. For gallant and distinguished conduct in carrying out reconnaissances of railways as the advance progressed between 27 Oct. and 11 Nov. 1918. He daily reconnoitred the railways, keeping right up to our outposts from Louvain to Mons under fire. Because of his skill, ability, and energy most valuable information was quickly obtained. This was invaluable for the proper planning of works, and was a large factor in the progress of the railways.

CHASSE, HENRI, M.C., Major, 22nd Infantry Bn. Quebec Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in operations north of Cambrai, 1-14 Oct. 1918. During the night of 1-2 Oct. his battalion relieved the front line under specially trying conditions, and under heavy machine-gun and artillery fire, without a preliminary reconnaissance. His personal leadership was responsible for the success of the relief. Later, he led his men across the Canal de l'Escaut during a night attack, afterwards reforming them in the dark and leading them to the capture of a village. Throughout these operations his work was excellent.

COSGROVE, JOHN ROBERT, M.C., Major, 8th Bn. Canadian Railway Troops. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the reconstruction and maintenance of light railway lines and in the conversion of metre gauge railway into 60 cm. lines from Moorslede to Hulste, and from Beythem southwards towards Ledeghem during the operations commencing on the 14th Oct. 1918. His coolness and example of energy under continuous shell fire resulted in the work being accomplished in record time.

HERRIDGE, WILLIAM DUNCAN, M.C., Capt., Canadian Cyclist Corps (Brigade Major, 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade Headquarters). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the attack east of the Canal du Nord from 27 to 30 Sept. 1918. When the situation was very obscure, he, with great courage, made a reconnaissance through very heavy fire and obtained information of great value in repelling the enemy counter-attack.

ISBESTER, COLIN JOHN FRASER, Major, 10th Bn. Canadian Railway Troops. For distinguished conduct and devotion to duty in the vicinity of Ledeghem in connection with operations which commenced on the 14th Oct. 1918. He was responsible for the repairing of the H.4 light railway line running from Jagerhof to Ledeghem. The success which attended the operations for which he was responsible was very largely due to the excellent arrangements made by him, to his close supervision of every part of the work, and to the splendid example he set his men.

JOHNSTON, HUGH ALSTON, M.C., Capt., 13th Infantry Bn. Quebec Regt. On 27 Sept. 1918, during the attack across the Canal du Nord which led up to the capture of Marquion, he led his company with marked gallantry. He was wounded just as the company attacked, but continued to lead his men through heavy fire to his objective, where he supervised the consolidation of his position after his company had captured prisoners outnumbering their own strength. Though wounded, he remained at duty, and his conduct throughout was splendid.

MERSEREAU, CHALVERS JACK, Major, 25th Infantry Bn. Nova Scotia Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in operations north of Cambrai during the period 1-14 Oct. 1918. During the night 1-2 Oct. his battalion relieved the front line under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire. During the night 8-9 Oct. they carried out a most successful night operation, crossing a canal under very difficult conditions, afterwards capturing a village and inflicting heavy casualties and taking many prisoners. The success of this operation was largely due to the initiative and gallant behaviour shown by this officer.

MILLER, THOMAS EASSON, M.M., Lieut., 8th Infantry Bn. Manitoba Regt. He personally rushed a group of the enemy and alone captured 22 prisoners. When troops on each flank failed to keep up with him, he reorganized his men and consolidated a line, which repelled three counter-attacks. Though shortly afterwards wounded he remained at duty until the battalion was relieved. His fine courage and determined dash were most inspiring to those with him.

PRICE, CHARLES BASIL, D.C.M., Major, 14th Infantry Bn. Quebec Regt. For sound ability in handling his battalion and great gallantry in the attack on the Canal du Nord on 27 Sept. 1918. He successfully gained all his objectives and captured and cleared up the village of Sains-les-Marquion, and, though wounded, refused to be evacuated until his colonel, arriving opportunely from leave as the barrage started, arrived on the scene and relieved him. He had complete grasp of the situation at all times.

RITCHIE, CHARLES FREDERICK, M.C., Lieut.-Colonel, 24th Infantry Bn. Quebec Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in operations north of Cambrai 1-14 Oct. 1918. His battalion held the front line for nine days under very trying conditions prior to our attack. Several counter-attacks were completely repulsed, the enemy suffering heavy casualties, and prisoners were made. On the 12th Oct. he led his battalion into action, at very short notice, in a highly satisfactory manner. His work throughout these operations was of a very high order.

SINCLAIR, IAN MACINTOSH ROE, M.C., Major, 13th Infantry Bn. Quebec Regt. For sound tactical judgment and conspicuous gallantry in the handling of his battalion at the Canal du Nord on 27 Sept. 1918. The canal crossing had to be made on a 500-yard front, which was swept by machine-gun fire from Lock 3. Pushing forward, he established his headquarters close to the front-line objective gained by another battalion, and finally, in conjunction with them, succeeded in capturing the village of Marquion and his final objective.

SPENCER, NELSON, Major, 31st Infantry Batta. Alberta Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Iwuy on 11 Oct. 1918. He was in command of a battalion detailed to follow the battalion attacking Iwuy, and carry the attack forward. When the advance was checked he went forward with the leading troops, and, by skillful and determined leadership, overcame the resistance of the enemy and cleared the way for a further advance. Throughout three days' fighting he displayed marked courage and resource, and contributed largely to the success of the operations.

TOBIN, HENRY SEYMOUR, Lieut.-Colonel, 29th Infantry Batta. British Columbia Regt. For great gallantry and devotion to duty in operations near Cambrai on 9, 10 and 11 Oct. 1918. He went forward with the advancing troops, directed their movement under heavy fire, and greatly contributed to the success of the operation. Later, when his troops were held up by heavy fire in a swamp, he went forward, reorganized them, and secured valuable information, which materially assisted in the ultimate success of the operation.

TUXFORD, GEORGE STUART, C.B., C.M.G., Brigadier-General, Saskatchewan Regt., Commanding 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership whilst commanding his brigade in the attack across the Canal du Nord on the 27th Sept. 1918, and the operations of the following days. His brigade had to attack on a very narrow front across the Canal du Nord, and then to fan out and attack on a wide frontage, including the towns of Sains-les-Marquion and Marquion. The operation was successfully accomplished, thanks to his ability and continuous presence with the forward troops. His work during the last two months' operations has been excellent.

WALKER, PHILIP, Major, Manitoba Regt., attached 10th Infantry Batta. Alberta Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and initiative during operations on 27-28 Sept. 1918, east of Haynecourt. When the advance had been temporarily held up he visited the companies under very heavy machine-gun fire, and successfully superintended the necessary changes that had to be made before the attack could proceed. His work throughout was of a very high order.

WHITE, WILLIAM JAMES, M.C., Capt., 28th Infantry Batta. Saskatchewan Regt. On 11 Oct. 1918, he commanded a company in the attack upon the village of Iwuy, which was strongly held by the enemy. He several times led small groups of men against enemy machine-guns in defended localities, overwhelming by his dash and gallantry the enemy resistance. On one occasion he rushed out and, single-handed, killed or captured the entire post, consisting of eight or ten men, thus ensuring the success of the operation. He showed splendid courage and dash.

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

ANDERSON, ALEXANDER MILNE, Capt., 48th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. For most conspicuous gallantry and initiative during the advance near Le Verquer, north-west of St. Quentin, on the 18th Sept. 1918. When his company encountered very strong opposition on the objective he continually exposed himself to gather information, and, by directing his men, he was able to work along trenches and so cut the enemy off, who were defending a very commanding position. In this position he captured 220 of the enemy, a number of machine guns, four minenwerfers, and one 77-mm. gun. He did fine work.

CAMPBELL, ARCHIE ERIC GORDON, M.C., Major, 14th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). For distinguished leadership and devotion to duty. On the 30th Sept. 1918, at Salahiye (Damascus), he was charged with the work of clearing the gardens to the south of the village, in expectation of the whole force following. In spite of the main body being deflected by another order, this officer pursued a very vigorous course through the gardens, clearing out 150 enemy and many machine guns before reaching the railway line. He also did very valuable work in consolidating the position taken up across the road. Throughout the operation his work was excellent.

CHANTER, JOHN COURTENAY, Major, 4th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry, initiative and devotion to duty whilst leading his squadron across the Jordan near El Min, on the 28th Sept. 1918, under heavy fire. By personal reconnaissance he found a way across, was one of the first to get over, and remained under fire assisting and directing his squadron, thereby keeping casualties down to a minimum. Again, on the 1st Oct. 1918, he has in command of the squadron which made the reconnaissance to Meldan Railway Station, and his great dash and determination were the means of securing many thousands of prisoners. Throughout the whole operations he set a fine example to his squadron.

CHEESEMAN, WILLIAM JOSEPH ROBERT, M.C., Lieut.-Colonel, 53rd Batta. Australian Imperial Force. North of Bellicourt, on 1 Oct. 1918, he showed marked gallantry and initiative. His battalion had to attack at dawn, and to reach the start line had to move over a mile and a half of ground intersected by the Hindenburg system in the dark. When dawn broke they came under heavy converging machine-gun fire, and he got his men into artillery columns and personally led them over to the start line and got the attack up in line with the flank troops. Later in the day he made a reconnaissance forward under exceptionally heavy fire, and obtained most valuable information.

COSTELLO, EDWARD, Major, 11th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). At Semakh, on the 25th Sept. 1918, he was in command of one of the squadrons that charged the enemy's position covering the east and southern part of the town. His dash and energy went a long way to make the attack a success. After going through the enemy's lines they still resisted under covering fire from machine guns placed in the town, but he collected his men—who were under fire at point-blank range of an enemy 12-pounder gun—and dismounted them for a bayonet charge. This gun was subsequently captured, together with a machine gun. After losing two officers and having his horse shot under him, he beat off a counter-attack.

COUCHMAN, FRANK MUNGEAM, Major, 46th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. For great gallantry and leadership during the operations west of Bellenglise, north of St. Quentin, on the 18th Sept. 1918. He was in command of the right company, and when the unit on his left was held up he pushed a party forward, protected his flank, and, under intense machine-gun fire, finally succeeded in reaching a sunken road, where he established his line. Throughout his work was excellent.

CRAIG, ROBERT FULTON, Major, 15th Field Ambulance, Australian Army Medical Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in charge of the bearer division near Bellicourt, from 29 Sept. to 2 Oct. 1918. During the whole of this period he rendered valuable service, and by his coolness and initiative surmounted all difficulties under most trying conditions. He not only worked the evacuation of wounded from rear aid-posts of his own brigade, but he personally reorganized the evacuation from other brigades under very heavy shell and machine-gun fire.

DALGLEISH, NORMAN, Lieut., 58th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. For most conspicuous gallantry and determination during operations north-east of Bellicourt, between 29 Sept. and 1 Oct. 1918. On the first day, owing to casualties, he found himself in command of a company, and, although wounded, gained his objective for the day. That night he led a patrol forward to reconnoitre a strongly fortified farm. He gained valuable information, which enabled it to be rushed and captured the following morning. Three times wounded in these operations, he showed fine courage and devotion to duty, and rendered valuable service.

DENSON, HERBERT REGINALD, Major, 14th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). For distinguished gallantry, devotion to duty and marked initiative at Nablus, on the 21st Sept. 1918. He was in charge of the advanced squadron, and by his initiative and dash he cleared the gardens covering the road of machine guns, which resulted in the capture of the town and many hundreds of prisoners. He led the charge through the town in person.

DODD ARTHUR WILLIAM, M.C., Major, 6th Battery, 2nd Brigade, Australian Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Nauroy, near Bellicourt, on the night 2-3 Oct. 1918. During heavy enemy bombardment a gas shell fell on the parapet of the trench in which he and two of his officers were working. Although he was badly gassed he remained with his battery, completed his orders for an attack which was to be launched a few hours later, and carried out the task allotted to his battery. He showed courage and determination of a high order throughout.

HAMLIN, HERBERT BOWEN, Major, 10th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). At Glsr Benat Yakub, on the 27th Sept. 1918, after forcing the ford, he led his squadron in the face of heavy fire and charged against the enemy's position, which he captured after a severe mêlée. He displayed great courage and dash, and throughout set a magnificent example to his command. Fifty enemy, with three machine guns and two field guns, were captured.

HILL, REGINALD VALENTINE, Lieut., 53rd Batta. Australian Imperial Force. During the operations near Bellicourt from 30 Sept. to 2 Oct. 1918, he displayed most conspicuous courage and leadership. He led a charge against an enemy machine-gun strong post, mopped up the garrison of about 20, and captured three machine guns. Shortly after this he and his party of six men came across a double-entrance dug-out, manned with a machine gun at each entrance. Here he personally shot three men with his revolver and accounted for a total of 15, and captured two guns. He did magnificent work.

LANGLEY, GEORGE FURNER, Lieut.-Colonel, Commanding 14th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). For skillful leadership and conspicuous gallantry in action. At Nablus on the 21st Sept. 1918, he was in command of the advanced guard. At several points the main road was strongly held by enemy machine guns, but, despite the difficult nature of the country, he overcame all opposition and pushed forward with all speed. By his dash and determination he succeeded in capturing a large number of prisoners and a quantity of war material in the town. At Damascus, on the 30th Sept. 1918, he again distinguished himself by his coolness in the face of the enemy, and gained command of an important point on the Damascus-Beirut road, resulting in the capture of about 4,000 prisoners and a large quantity of war material.

LEITH, ERIC ALLAN, Lieut., 46th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. For most conspicuous gallantry and leadership during the attack on the Hindenburg Line on the 18th-19th Sept. 1918, west of Bellenglise, north of St. Quentin. He was in command of the left company, and by his determination and brilliant leadership he got his men across the dense mass of enemy wire. He was severely wounded when rushing the trench, but continued on, captured the trench, and took many prisoners and machine guns. Pushing on to the second trench, he captured the position, taking over 100 prisoners and six machine guns. He showed fine courage and did splendid work.

LOYNES, JAMES, Major, 11th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). At Semakh, on the morning of the 25th Sept. 1918, he was in command of one of the squadrons that charged the town. His coolness and dash in the charge were a good example to the men, and went a long way towards the success of the operation. He organized a bayonet charge from the west of the town, and by collecting all the men he could, and by his resourcefulness and untiring energy he was able to stop what might have been a repulse, and finally, in the general clearing up of the town, he did great work.

MACPHERSON, LACHLAN ALFRED WILLIAM, M.C., Major, 8th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). For gallantry and smart leadership at Tiberias on the 25th Sept. 1918. He was sent forward with his squadron in advance of the brigade to reconnoitre, and on finding the place lightly held he made his disposals, quickly capturing the town and a number of prisoners and motor and horse transport. The information sent back enabled the advance to proceed more quickly than was anticipated.

OLDEN, ARTHUR CHARLES NIQUET, Major, 10th Australian Light Horse Regt. (Egypt). He was in charge of his regiment, which formed the advance guard to the Brigade, when the latter was ordered to occupy Jenin on the 20th Sept. 1918. He rapidly cut the roads leading from Jenin north and north-east, covering a distance of 11 miles, and thus took prisoners fugitives who were already several miles from the town. During the ensuing night his regiment covered the Nablus road from the south and captured further prisoners. The total number of prisoners taken in this operation was 8,107 and five guns. He showed great initiative and ability to command.

SAVIGE, STANLEY GEORGE, M.C., Capt., Australian Imperial Force (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the retirement of refugees from Sain Kelch to Tikkan Tappah, 26-28 July, 1918; also at Chalkaman, 5-6 Aug. In command of a small party sent to protect the rear of the column of refugees, he by his resource and able dispositions kept off the enemy, who were in greatly superior numbers. He hung on to position after position until nearly surrounded, and on each occasion extricated his command most skilfully. His cool determination and fine example inspired his men and put heart into the frightened refugees.

YEOMANS, JULIAN CLYDE, Lieut., 30th Batta. Australian Imperial Force. For most conspicuous gallantry and dash during the operations in the vicinity of Nauroy and Bellicourt on 29 Sept. 1918. He led a patrol of 25 men forward under heavy fire to ascertain the enemy's dispositions in and around Nauroy. Nearing the village he noticed a tank, and with the aid of this tank he attacked the village and the Le Catelet-Nauroy trench immediately in front so successfully that the trench and village were mopped up with heavy losses to the enemy, in addition to 18 prisoners and seven machine guns being captured. He himself rushed a machine gun, personally killing the crew and capturing the gun. He did splendid work, showing great courage and most determined leadership.

NEW ZEALAND FORCE.

HERROLD, JOHN HENRY, Major, Auckland Mounted Rifle Regt. (Egypt). On the night of the 24th-25th Sept. 1918, he took command of a party of 100 men with orders to cut the Amman-Derra railway line north of Amman. He marched by night over roadless country, intersected by innumerable wadis, which made progress very difficult. On reaching the line he found an enemy party at work, but moving further south, he accomplished his object, removing a set of rails from the line, although large numbers of the enemy were continually moving along the road just east of the line.

HOLMES, JOHN DUDLEY, Capt., New Zealand Tunnelling Coy., New Zealand Engineers. For gallantry and devotion to duty during the construction of the bridge over the gap between Hermies and Havincourt. This bridge was commenced on the evening of the 27th Sept. under shell fire, which demanded great personal discipline to ensure that the preparations went through without a hitch. By his example he made this possible, and all through the construction of the bridge, which was successfully completed, showed absolute disregard for personal safety.

WILDER, ALAN STANDISH, M.C., Major, Wellington Mounted Rifle Regt. (Egypt). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the morning of the 25th Sept. 1918. He was in charge of the vanguard during the march on Amman. Though his squadron came under heavy rifle, machine-gun and shell fire he skillfully made dispositions and forced back the enemy. During the attack he made personal reconnaissances, and brilliantly led his squadron in the attack, capturing prisoners and machine guns. His energy, initiative and sound judgment set a magnificent example to all ranks under his command.

SOUTH AFRICAN FORCE.

JACOBS, LOUIS MASTERMAN, Temporary Capt., 2nd Batta. South African Infantry. On the 8th Oct. 1918, east of Beaufort, four enemy field guns firing at point-blank range and supported by a number of machine guns were a source of great trouble to the advance. His skilful handling of his company enabled the guns and machine guns to be outflanked, severe casualties being inflicted on the crews and a number of the enemy taken prisoners. In the attack north-east of Le Cateau in a thick mist under heavy fire he did excellent work in supervising the advance and capture of the objective. He showed marked gallantry and initiative during twelve days' operations.

London Gazette, 17 Oct. 1919.—"Admiralty, 17 Oct. 1919.—Honours for services in Russia, 1919. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours to the undermentioned Officers. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

HALLILEY, ALAN KERR, MCCLINTOCK, Lieut., Royal Navy. As Senior Officer of Tunnel Minesweepers has performed most gallant work day after day, sweeping under fire. On the 24th June, 1919, his ship H.M.S. Sword Dance was mined and sunk, but he continued his duties without intermission, in spite of being wounded. The example set by him to officers and men has been admirable. McLAUGHLIN, CYRIL EDWARD, Acting Lieut., Royal Navy (since killed). In recognition of the gallantry and devotion to duty displayed by him in sweeping and destroying mines, often under heavy enemy fire.

To receive a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

WORSLEY, FRANK ARTHUR, D.S.O., R.D., Lieut.-Commander, Royal Naval Reserve. In recognition of the gallantry displayed by him at Pocha in North Russia between the 2nd and 5th Aug. 1919. This officer formed one of a large patrol which in circumstances of great danger and difficulty penetrated many miles behind the enemy lines, and by his unfailingly cheery leadership he kept up the spirits of all under trying conditions. By his assistance in bridging an unfordable river behind the enemy lines, he greatly helped the success of the enterprise.

"Honours for Services in Minesweeping Operations between the 1st July and 31st Dec. 1918.—The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours to the undermentioned Officers. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

STOCKLEY, CHARLES HUGH, M.C., Major, 66th Punjab, Indian Army.

SUTHERLAND, ARTHUR ORR, Major, 22nd Punjab, Indian Army.

WALLACE, CHARLES WILLIAM, Major, 22nd Punjab, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 11 Nov. 1919.—"Admiralty, S.W., 11 Nov. 1919. Honours for Services in Russia, 1919.—The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours to the undermentioned Officers. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

BRAMBLE, FRANK GEORGE, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Chief Staff Officer to the Senior Naval Officer, Archangel River Expedition.

MURRAY, ARTHUR JOHN LAYARD, O.B.E., Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in connection with the recovery and refitting of enemy mines. In carrying out this work Lieut.-Commander Murray was severely injured by a premature explosion.

FAWSSITT, ARTHUR CHARLES, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of H.M.S. M26, and in charge of operations off Omega, 30 July to 2 Aug. 1919, which he carried out with great skill, courage and coolness.

JOHNSTONE, ANDREW, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of H.M.S. Humber. Lieut.-Commander Johnstone fought his ship frequently under heavy fire with great gallantry.

YATES, FRANCIS BERTRAND, Engineer Lieut. (Acting Engineer Lieut.-Commander), Royal Navy. For distinguished services on the occasion of the attack on Kronstadt Harbour on the 18th Aug. 1919.

AGAR, AUGUSTINE WILLINGTON SHELTON, V.C., Lieut., Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of H.M. Coastal Motor Boat No. 7 in the attack on Kronstadt Harbour on the 18th Aug. 1919. He piloted two other boats into the harbour through the forts under a heavy fire and then patrolled the mouth of the harbour to cover their withdrawal.

McBEAN, RUSSELL HAMILTON, D.S.O., Lieut., Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of H.M. Coastal Motor Boat No. 31 in the attack on Kronstadt Harbour on the 18th Aug. 1919. Under a very heavy fire he entered the harbour, torpedoed the Bolshevik battleship Andrei Pervozanni, and returned through the fire of the forts and batteries to the open sea.

BODLEY, EDWARD ROLAND, Sub-Lieut. (Acting), Royal Naval Reserve. For distinguished services in command of H.M. Coastal Motor Boat No. 72 in the attack on Kronstadt Harbour, on the 18th Aug. 1919. After passing through the line of forts and reaching the entrance to the middle harbour under heavy fire, he attacked a Bolshevik destroyer. His steering gear, however, broke down, and he withdrew towards the line of forts, where he encountered and took in tow another boat, escorting her safely out of action under fire from all the forts.

"Honours for Services in the Caspian Sea, 1918, 1919.—The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honours to the undermentioned Officers. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

WASHINGTON, BASIL GEORGE, C.M.G., Capt., Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of Windsor Castle in action off Fort Alexandrovsk on the 21st May, 1919.

GRIEVE, EDWARD LEONARD, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services on the staff of the Senior Naval Officer, Caspian Sea.

GUY, KENNETH ALLAN FERRERS, Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of the Emile Nobel in action off Fort Alexandrovsk on the 21st May, 1919.

HARRISON, RICHARD, R.D., Lieut.-Commander (Acting Commander), Royal Naval Reserve. For distinguished services in command of the Venture in action off Fort Alexandrovsk on the 21st May, 1919, and on the occasion of the destruction of the Bolshevik base at Staro Terechnaya.

CHARLEY, FREDERICK GASCOIGNE, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of the Zoraster in action with Bolshevik ships on the 8th Dec. 1918.

WILSON, ALEXANDER GUY BERNERS, Lieut., Royal Navy. For distinguished services in command of the Asia in action with Bolshevik destroyers on the 19th April, 1919, and off Fort Alexandrovsk on the 21st May, 1919.

PERTWEE, HERBERT GUY, Acting Paymaster Lieut., Royal Navy. For distinguished services as Secretary to Commander David T. Norris, C.B., Senior Naval Officer, Caspian Sea.

"Honours for Services in the Mine Clearance Force subsequent to the 30th June, 1919.—The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To be a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order."

HINDMARSH, JOHN DALGLASH, D.S.C., Lieut. (Acting Lieut.-Commander), Royal Naval Reserve.

"Honours for Miscellaneous Services. (I.)—The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the following honour to the undermentioned Officer. To be a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order."

REED, WILLIAM LOUIS, Engineer Sub-Lieut., Royal Naval Reserve. For gallant and distinguished services as a volunteer in H.M.S. Julnar on the 24th April, 1919, when that vessel attempted to reach Kut-el-Amarah with stores for the besieged garrison.

II.—To receive a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order.

COCHRANE, ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS, D.S.O., Commander, Royal Navy. In recognition of the determination, spirit and resource displayed by him on the occasion of a successful attempt to escape from the prison camp at Yozgad, Aug. 1918.

London Gazette, 18 Nov. 1919.—"Air Ministry, Kingsway, London, W.C.2. 18 Nov. 1919. His Majesty the King has been pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards, conferred by the General Officer Commanding the North Russian Expeditionary Force. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

GREY, ROBIN, Squadron Leader (Acting Wing Commander), Grenadier Guards. Commanded the Royal Air Force, Archangel Area, with great distinction. Owing to the lack of Pilots and Observers during the winter, he carried out personally the most dangerous reconnaissances. On the 8th April, 1919, at Obzerskaya, he carried out a reconnaissance in bad weather, bringing back valuable information. On the 22nd April, 1919, he carried out two most important reconnaissances with success, but met with a bad accident on landing the second time. Although considerably shaken physically, he continued to command the Royal Air Force with marked success until the conclusion of the operations in North Russia.

STEWART-DAWSON, NORMAN GORDON, D.S.O., Flight Lieut. Successfully led several raids with great success during the operations with the Syren Force in North Russia from June to September, 1919, notably in the attack on the enemy at Kolkori on the 7th Sept. Flight Lieut. Stewart-Dawson has displayed exceptionally good qualities in leadership during those operations in the air, and equally distinguished services in ground-work organization, where the difficulties were many.

London Gazette, 29 Nov. 1919.—“War Office, 29 Nov. 1919. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following awards to the undermentioned Officers, in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the field. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order.”

HICKIE, HENRY WHITTEN, Major, 84th Punjabis, Indian Army. By his skilful handling of a tactical situation at Shusha on the 4th June, 1919, he enabled one company of the 84th Punjabis to be interposed, with very slight loss, between considerable forces of Tartars and Armenians engaged in a faction fight. To carry this out he walked under heavy rifle fire from the Armenian trenches to the Tartar positions, showing great coolness and resource.

PRENDERGAST, NORMAN HENRY, Capt., Queen Victoria's Own Corps of Guides, attached North Waziristan Militia, Indian Army. He has led detachments of his corps gallantly on all operations, especially on 27 May, 1919, at Miranshah, and has always shown high soldierly qualities. The fact that practically the whole of his corps has remained loyal is chiefly due to his personal influence and power of command.

London Gazette, 10 Dec. 1919.—“War Office, 10 Dec. 1919. With reference to the awards conferred as announced in the London Gazette dated 2 April, 1919, the following are the statements of services for which the decorations were conferred. Awarded a Second Bar to the Distinguished Service Order.”

ALBAN, CLIFTON EDWARD RAWDON GRANT, D.S.O., Capt. and Brevet Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Liverpool Regt., attached 15th Battn. Lancashire Fusiliers. During the operations on the Oise-Sambre Canal, near Ors, during the 2nd, 3rd and 4th Nov. 1918, the way in which he handled his battalion was most praiseworthy. On two occasions during counter-attacks he took up reinforcements under heavy fire and restored the situation. It was due to his gallant leadership and example that the attack on the 4th Nov. was so successful, a battery of high-velocity guns, over 200 prisoners, and many machine guns being captured.

(1st Bar gazetted 15 Feb. 1919.)

BRANSON, DOUGLAS STEPHENSON, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1/4th Battn. York and Lancaster Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion during the attack on Haspros on 13 Oct. 1918. After his battalion had suffered heavy casualties, all the company officers being wounded, he collected the remnants of the battalion under intense fire, led them forward, and consolidated a position. His personal courage and resource were magnificent.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

(1st Bar gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

DUNCAN, KENNETH, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, D/246th (West Riding) Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry during an attack near Avesnes le Sec on 13 Oct. 1918. Although the battery suffered very heavy casualties, by his magnificent example and complete disregard for his own safety he kept it in action, and, though so short of men that he was obliged to serve a gun himself, he completed the barrage in support of the attack.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1916.)

(1st Bar gazetted 18 Jan. 1918.)

PEEL, WILLIAM RALPH, Temporary Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), D.S.O., 6th Battn. Yorkshire Regt., attached 1/10th Battn. Manchester Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the operations east of the Forêt de Mormal from 6 to 8 Nov. 1918. He led his battalion for four days in continuous rain without shelter, and captured the town of Hautmont. To accomplish this he had to supervise the construction of a hasty bridge over the Sambre river and cross it while the enemy troops were still in the town.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4 June, 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

POLLITT, GEORGE PATON, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Engineers, attached 11th Battn. Lancashire Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry during the fighting on 27 May, 1918, on the Alsne. He had his battalion in repeated local counter-attacks against overwhelming odds, holding up the enemy and inflicting severe casualties. Thanks to his example and leadership his battalion put up a splendid defence when over forty per cent. of them had become casualties and the remainder were almost surrounded.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 18 July, 1917.)

CANADIAN FORCE.

DAVIES, REGINALD DANBURY, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 44th Battn. Canadian Infantry, North Brunswick Regt. In front of Inchy-en-Artois, 27 Sept. 1918, for marked gallantry and determination. In command of the battalion, he led a most successful attack against the enemy positions. Again, on 28 Sept., near Rallencourt, notwithstanding most severe casualties, he again led his battalion in the attack and reached his objective, later materially assisting in beating off a strong enemy counter-attack. His reports throughout the operations were most clear and invaluable in determining the situation forward.

(D.S.O. gazetted 17 April, 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 2 Dec. 1918.)

MACKENZIE, JOHN PERCIVAL, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 1st Brigade, Canadian Engineers. During the recent operations he has on several occasions under fire made daylight reconnaissances in order to get the required information for the selection of bridge crossings. During the advance on Cambrai and Douai, Sept. and Oct. 1918, it was due to his quick grasp of the situation and determined action that the infantry, field and heavy artillery, ambulance and ammunition were able to cross all obstacles with the least possible delay.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

(1st Bar gazetted 26 July, 1917.)

Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

BATE, JOHN PERCIVAL, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 1/8th Battn. Worcestershire Regt., Territorial Force. For marked gallantry and able leadership of his battalion during operations 23-24 Oct. 1918, near Pommereuil. His battalion reached its final objective in front of all flanking troops, thereby greatly facilitating the advance of division on his left. During the day his battalion captured three howitzers and over 200 prisoners. Next day his battalion again did excellent work, taking all their objectives.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1919.)

BROMILOW, DAVID GEORGE, D.S.O., Major, 14th Murray's Jat Lancers, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty north of Shargat on 30 Oct. 1918. When advancing to cut off a body of the enemy, heavy fire was suddenly opened on his squadron. He thereupon immediately attacked the enemy with great daring, causing the surrender of 200, including 25 officers and several machine guns. He did fine work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 25 Aug. 1917.)

CARTER, WILLIAM HENRY, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Warwickshire Regt., attached 7th Battn. South Staffordshire Regt. For skilful leading of his battalion during the operations 8 and 9 Nov. 1918, in the advance from Autreppe to Geognies Chaussee. On 8 Nov. 1918, he by his drive and initiative kept his battalion going forward through heavy enemy opposition and by a personal reconnaissance reported his exact dispositions at the end of the day. He has at all times set a very fine example to those under him.

(D.S.O. gazetted 20 Oct. 1916.)

CHAPPELL, WICKHAM FRITH, D.S.O., Major, 7th Dragoon Guards. For conspicuous gallantry and skill as a Squadron Commander during operations which resulted in the capture of the crossing over the River Dendre at Lessines on 11 Nov. 1918. He organized and led a successful attack under heavy fire, capturing the town of Lessines, with four officers, 102 other ranks, and several machine guns. It was greatly due to his courage, energy and example that the operation was successful.

(D.S.O. gazetted 15 Oct. 1918.)

CLARKE, HUBERT THOMAS, D.S.O., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1/8th Battn. Worcestershire Regt., Territorial Force. For gallant leadership and good work during the attack on Landreies on 4 Nov. 1918. His battalion was allotted the very difficult task of crossing the canal, taking the town, and establishing themselves on the high ground beyond. All of this they did, in spite of the fact that they had to help the two leading battalions in their fight up to the canal. This battalion took nearly 300 prisoners and several guns.

(D.S.O. gazetted 8 March, 1919.)

CRIPPS, CHARLES WILLIAM, D.S.O., Major, 3rd Battery, 45th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. During the operations between 10 and 23 Oct. 1918, he performed brilliant service, and by his bold and dashing action contributed largely towards the success attained; particularly on 12 Oct., his skilful handling of his battery dislodged the enemy from the Prison Faubourg D'Esquerchin at close range under machine-gun fire. Throughout his work was excellent.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4 June, 1917.)

FORBES, ROBERT, D.S.O., M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Major) (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 5th Battn. Royal Highlanders, Territorial Force, attached 10th Battn. Essex Regt. For conspicuous gallantry in leading his battalion into action in Mormal Forest on the 4th Nov. 1918. During the whole of the advance, owing to the difficulty of the situation, he personally conducted the action of the foremost troops. It was due to his skilful leadership and example that the attainment of the objective by his battalion was assured.

(D.S.O. gazetted 7 Nov. 1918.)

HONE, PERCY FREDERICK, D.S.O., M.C., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, General List, attached 13th Battn. Durham Light Infantry. He commanded his battalion during the attack north-east of Le Cateau on 23 and 24 Oct. 1918. He personally led his battalion in the attack south-east of Fontaine au Bois, having previously gone forward to reconnoitre. On the 24th Oct. 1918, when reconnoitring in advance of his battalion, he was wounded. His fine example of courage and determination contributed in a large measure to the success of the operations.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1919.)

HORE-RUTHVEN, THE HON. ALEXANDER GORE ARKWRIGHT, V.C., C.M.G., D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General). He commanded his brigade with conspicuous gallantry and judgment throughout the operations east of Ypres from 28 Sept. to 27 Oct. 1918, inclusive. His presence and personal bearing at critical times during the fighting was of decisive value, especially during a strong enemy counter-attack. On 20 Oct. at St. Louis, he went forward among the attacking troops at a critical juncture, and inspired them to the final effort, whereby the high ground of great tactical value was captured.

(D.S.O. gazetted 2 May, 1916.)

HUNTER, RICHARD DEVAS, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Scottish Rifles, attached 1/8th Battn. Territorial Force. Throughout the operations near Anzeghem on 31 Oct. and 1 Nov. 1918, he commanded his battalion with conspicuous skill and gallantry. His presence among his men at the critical moments and his personal control of the fight were mainly responsible for the ultimate success of his own battalion, and was of the greatest assistance to the division on the left.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

JACK, JAMES LOCHHEAD, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), Scottish Rifles (General Officer Commanding 28th Infantry Brigade). He commanded his brigade with great dash and gallantry throughout the operations east of Ypres from 28 Sept. to 28 Oct. 1918. On 2 Oct. the enemy opened a heavy barrage and counter-attacked at Ledeghem. Troops on the immediate left of his brigade gave way. He formed them up in the barrage and personally led them forward again and re-established the front line. He then went across to his own front line under heavy machine-gun fire, and by his energy and example inspired his men to save an awkward situation.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18 June, 1917.)

LASCELLES, VISCOUNT, HENRY GEORGE CHARLES, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Grenadier Guards (Reserve of Officers), attached 3rd Battn. For conspicuous gallantry and skilful leadership. At Villers Pol, on 4 Nov. 1918, when his battalion was checked by heavy machine-gun fire, he went forward and personally organized an attack, which enabled the advance to be continued. On the night of 8-9 Nov. 1918, when his battalion was suddenly ordered to capture Maubeuge, he skilfully directed the advance over a distance of four miles. His energy during the whole operations was splendid.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

MCGRATH, ARTHUR THOMAS, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Field Artillery, Commanding 88th Brigade. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 1 Nov. 1918. When his headquarters near Arres were heavily shelled, he was wounded, but, although unable to ride, and obliged to have his wound dressed daily, he personally led with the greatest courage and coolness the forward sections of his brigade during the remainder of the advance, and rendered invaluable help to the infantry by shelling machine-gun nests at short range over open sights.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

MORRELL, JOHN FREDERIC BAKER, D.S.O., M.V.O., Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Lancaster Regt., attached 9th Battn. Manchester Regt. On 8 Oct. 1918, in the action round Serain, under heavy machine-gun fire, he visited all the forward posts on his battalion front, and so kept the closest touch with the situation. Later, when touch had been lost on his flank, he reconnoitred again and obtained touch with the flanking brigade and closed a dangerous gap. Throughout the fighting from 8 to 11 Oct. he showed great courage and ability to command.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1919.)

MURPHY, JOSEPH LEO, D.S.O., Major, Manchester Regt., Special Reserve, attached 2nd Battn. He handled his battalion with the greatest dash and ability in the forcing of the passage of the Oise-Sambre Canal near Ors on the 4th Nov. 1918. In spite of heavy artillery, rifle and machine-gun fire he got his battalion across the canal and continued to drive back the enemy, capturing a field battery of 5.9 guns and many prisoners and machine guns. (D.S.O. gazetted 15 Feb. 1919.)

MURRAY, DONALD, D.S.O., Temporary Major, Manchester Regt., attached 21st Battn. In the absence of his commanding officer he commanded his battalion throughout the operations from 22 Oct. to 28 Oct. 1918. In the attack on Pommereuil on 23 Oct., when, owing to darkness and mist, units had lost direction and became intermixed, he went forward and reorganized the attack, which was then entirely successful. He showed great courage and ability to command. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1919.)

PELLEY, RAYMOND THEODORE, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), North Lancashire Regt. (General Officer Commanding 81st Infantry Brigade) (Italy). For gallantry and conspicuous good service. He handled the left brigade of the 7th Division at the crossing of the Piave, 27 Oct. 1918, with marked success. This brigade particularly distinguished itself, gained all its objectives after stiff fighting, and captured many prisoners. The brigade again distinguished itself on the Monticano, particularly in the capture of Cimetta, when stubborn resistance was encountered. Brigadier-General Pelley showed great judgment and coolness in personally superintending the final capture of this village from the banks of the Monticano, when they were under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire the whole time. Throughout the whole operations he set a fine example to his brigade. (D.S.O. gazetted 14 Jan. 1919.)

RAMSBOTTOM, GORDON OPENSHAW, D.S.O., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 22nd Battn. Manchester Regt. (Italy). In the attack across the Piave on the 27th Oct. 1918, and following days, he showed the greatest skill in leading his men, combined with the highest courage and contempt for danger. When his men were in difficulties owing to the swift current and the wire on the river bank, he led the leading company across and inspired his men with such a splendid spirit and determination that they carried all before them and broke the principal point of the enemy's resistance, capturing hundreds of prisoners and nine guns. Although nearly drowned in the river crossing, nothing could stop this gallant officer, who was indefatigable in pressing the attack. (D.S.O. gazetted 4 June, 1917.)

RAMSDEN, VINCENT BASIL, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. (Acting Major and Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Battn. South Wales Borderers, attached 15th Battn. Highland Light Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and ability in command of his battalion at Ors on the 4th Nov. 1918, when it was detailed for the capture of a second and third position. He carried out the task with marked courage and resource, pushing on in face of heavy opposition well into the night, and securing all objectives by dawn. The work done by the battalion under his leadership has been of a very high order throughout these operations. (D.S.O. gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

RICHARDSON, JAMES JARDINE, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 13th Hussars (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Hadranizah on 29 Oct. 1918. He led his regiment under heavy fire to the successful assault of a bluff. His cool and determined action had a great and far-reaching effect at a critical point of the operations. (D.S.O. gazetted 25 Aug. 1917.)

SUTHERLAND, THOMAS DOUGLAS, D.S.O., M.C., Temporary Major, 6th Battn. Lincolnshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and initiative during operations on the 6th and 7th Nov. 1918, on the east bank of Grande Honnelle River. His battalion was held up in an attack by mist and heavy machine-gun fire, and suffered severe casualties, but by his personal courage, fine example and skilful dispositions, he was able to inspire all ranks with his own splendid fighting spirit, and to hold on at a most critical period for a day, taking the leading companies forward the following day and capturing the position. (D.S.O. gazetted 26 Sept. 1917.)

THWAYTES, HARRY DELAMERE, D.S.O., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Battn. Dorsetshire Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and ability in handling his battalion at the forcing of the passage of the Sambre Canal, near Ors, on the 4th Nov. 1918. This he effected by a single footbridge, and as soon as his advanced parties had cleared the enemy from the immediate vicinity he succeeded in pushing the whole battalion across without delay. His personal courage and resource under heavy fire were deserving of high praise. (D.S.O. gazetted 2 Dec. 1918.)

VICKERY, CHARLES, EDWIN, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel, Royal Field Artillery, Headquarters 74th Brigade. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership. At Les Mottes, on 9 Nov. 1918, the brigade was in close support of the infantry, who were held up by fire from 77 mm. guns and machine guns. He made a daring reconnaissance, and, galloping back, brought his battery into action within 700 yards of the enemy's guns, silencing them, and enabling the advance to be resumed. His cheerfulness and excellent liaison with the infantry were a brilliant example to all. (D.S.O. gazetted 31 Oct. 1902.)

WORTHINGTON, CLAUDE SWANWICK, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 6th Battn. Manchester Regt., Territorial Force, attached 5th Battn. Dorsetshire Regt. During the operations at Oisy le Verger, on 27 Sept. 1918, he displayed conspicuous gallantry whilst in command of his battalion. When two companies were held up he went forward in face of heavy fire and cleared up the situation on taking and consolidating his objective. Later, at Epinoy, on 1 Oct. when the battalion was held up by heavy machine-gun fire, he went forward to the companies which were held up and helped them on to the objective. Throughout he set a fine example of determined leadership. (D.S.O. gazetted 2 Feb. 1916.)

CANADIAN FORCE.

BROWN, WALTER RICHARD, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 26th Battn. Canadian Infantry, New Brunswick Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and resource in operations north of Cambrai during the night 8-9 Oct. 1918, when he led his battalion in an attack across the Canal d'Escourt with great skill and devotion in most trying conditions and under heavy artillery fire. His personal courage at the bridges while his men were crossing, and the manner in which he afterwards reorganized the battalion in the dark and led them to the capture of a village, displayed fine qualities of leadership and determination. (D.S.O. gazetted 18 Oct. 1917.)

GRIESBACH, WILLIAM ANTROBUS, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Brigadier-General, Alberta Regt. (General Officer Commanding 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade). For brilliant leadership and great gallantry in the operations of 8 Aug. 1918, south-east of Amiens; 2 and 3 Sept. 1918, east of Arras, and 27-28 Sept. 1918, west and north-west of Cambrai in the crossing of the Canal du Nord and attack on Bourlon Wood, and during operations 17-21 Oct. He made several personal reconnaissances, and his presence amongst the attacking troops and his coolness under critical conditions were largely responsible for the success that attended the operations.

(D.S.O. gazetted 24 June, 1916.)

JONES, TERENCE PERCIVAL, D.S.O., Major, 4th Battn. Canadian Infantry, 1st Central Ontario Regt. (Brigade Major, 12th Canadian Infantry Brigade). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in the operations near Valenciennes from the 1st to 6th Nov. 1918. His work as brigade major was of the highest order, and largely contributed to the success of the brigade in the capture of Valenciennes and towns further east. He also made several daring personal reconnaissances under severe fire, and secured exact information which enabled the enemy's disposition to be effectively dealt with and the advance to continue. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

LOOMIS, FREDERICK OSCAR WARREN, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Major-General, Quebec Regt. (General Officer Commanding 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade). For great gallantry and brilliant leadership during the operations south-east of Amiens, 8-9 Aug. 1918, and east of Arras, 2 Sept. 1918. He made reconnaissances under heavy fire, personally superintending the disposition of troops and encouraging all by his coolness and ability. The results achieved by the brigade were of an outstanding nature. (D.S.O. gazetted 23 June, 1915.)

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

ANNAND, FREDERICK WILLIAM GADSBY, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 2nd Pioneer Battn. Australian Imperial Force. On Montbrehain, east of Peronne, on 5 Oct. 1918, in charge of a pioneer battalion, he succeeded in carrying out a very difficult relief in pitch darkness. A few hours after this he ably carried out a flanking movement to the attack on the town of Montbrehain, driving back the enemy and ensuring a defence which proved to be unbreakable. His reconnaissances had to be carried out under heavy shell fire. He showed rare qualities of leadership. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1917.)

DUGGAN, BERNARD OSCAR CHARLES, Lieut.-Colonel, D.S.O., 21st Battn. Australian Infantry. At Montbrehain, on 5 Oct. 1918, he having been ordered to attack with his battalion carried out a careful reconnaissance under heavy shell fire of the routes leading to and the jumping-off line for the attack. During the attack he set a fine example of zeal and energy to his command, with the result that the enemy position was taken and held, although the enemy repeatedly attempted to break through and nullify the success. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

JAMES, WILLIAM EDWARD, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 24th Battn. Australian Infantry. At Montbrehain, east of Peronne, on 5 Oct. 1918, he led his battalion in the very successful attack and subsequent retention of the village of Montbrehain. To a large extent the great success of this operation was due to the skilful leadership displayed by him and to his gallant demeanour in the earlier stages of the attack. (D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

WATSON, CHARLES VINCENT, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, 58th Battn. Australian Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership during the attack on Hindenburg Line near Bellcourt, from 28 Sept. to 2 Oct. 1918. The prompt action of this officer under very heavy fire in personally reconnoitring and ascertaining the exact situation at a critical time enabled him to make dispositions restoring the situation. Throughout he commanded his battalion most ably, and captured a number of prisoners and machine guns. (D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1919.)

NEW ZEALAND FORCE.

ALLEN, ROBERT CANDLISH, D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel, Auckland Regt., attached 1st Battn. New Zealand Rifle Brigade. At Le Quesnoy, on the 4th Nov. 1918, he displayed great courage and skill in handling his battalion, and the success of his attack greatly assisted the storming of the town. After being wounded he continued to carry out his duties until all objectives were taken. He has previously done good work. (D.S.O. gazetted 16 Aug. 1917.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

ALLEN, WILLIAM BARNESLEY, V.C., M.C., M.B., Capt. (Acting Major), Royal Army Medical Corps, attached 1/3rd (West Riding) Field Ambulance, Royal Army Medical Corps, Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the fighting west of Saulz for the Selle River line between the 11th and 14th Oct. 1918. He showed a very high degree of fearless initiative in organizing the collection of wounded from ground under continuous hostile shell fire, and by his inspiring example, untiring energy and contempt of danger, he was able to move large numbers of helpless wounded from positions of danger before he was himself gassed.

ALSTON, LLEWELYN ARTHUR AUGUSTUS, Capt. (Acting Major), M.C., 1st Battn. Royal Welsh Fusiliers (Italy). He was in command of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers in the attack on Papadopoli Island on the 23rd Oct. 1918, and showed great coolness and daring under heavy gun, rifle and machine-gun fire. He personally led his men into action, and by skilful handling of his battalion contributed largely to the success. He later on in the night collected a party of men and rounded up a team of enemy machine gunners who had crept up in the dark and were firing at 60 yards' range into the huts in which brigade and battalion headquarters were situated. He did fine work.

AMY, ARCHIBALD CRAIG, M.D., Major, Royal Army Medical Corps, attached 21st (Highland) Field Ambulance, Royal Army Medical Corps, Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 24 Oct. 1918, at Douchy, when in charge of the advanced dressing station there. The town was shelled with high-velocity guns for four hours, many shells bursting in the vicinity of the advanced dressing station, one shell causing 21 casualties. A large number of wounded were brought in, and by his coolness and energy he prevented any confusion resulting, and cleared his advanced dressing station successfully.

ATKIN, BENJAMIN GEORGE, M.C., Capt. (Temporary Major), 1st Battn. Manchester Regt., attached 22nd Battn. (Italy). During the night advance on Vazzola on the 28th-29th Oct. 1918, in command of a battalion, he carried out an exceedingly difficult operation with conspicuous courage and skill. Owing largely to his leadership the operation was completely successful. The following day his battalion was detailed for flank guard to the brigade in the advance on Cimetta. In very close and difficult country the enemy was found strongly posted on the banks of the Monticiana River. The advance guard was held up, but Major Atkin, with admirable dash and skill, led his battalion forward under extremely heavy shell and machine-gun fire and captured the south bank of the river, taking several hundred prisoners and relieving the pressure on the advanced guard, which was then able to effect a crossing. His gallant and fearless bearing throughout the day had a most inspiring effect on all around him.

BAYLISS, HERBERT VICTOR, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), East Surrey Regt., attached 7th Battn. Wiltshire Regt. He was ordered with his battalion to make good the two crossings of the Grandhelle on 4 Nov. 1918. Thanks to his gallant and able leadership the crossings were established and the bridges repaired, enabling our troops and two 18-pounders attached to them to continue the advance next day without delay.

BENYON, HUGH SAM, M.C., Capt., Northamptonshire Yeomanry (Italy). For leading his squadron with great gallantry and ability on 29 Oct. 1918, against the enemy on the Monticane River, where, thanks to his dash and good leading, his men overcame the garrison of 500 to 600 strong, and prevented the bridge over the river between Vazzola and Cimetta from being blown up. Again on 30 Oct. 1918, when the corps mounted troops were attacking Sacile and his squadron was sent round the right flank, by his sound leading and his own personal disregard of danger his squadron inflicted severe casualties on the enemy; and when he got orders to retire he brought back one officer and over 100 other ranks prisoners under very difficult circumstances.

BOMFORD, LESLIE RAYMOND, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 1/8th Battn. Worcestershire Regt., Territorial Force. In the attack on Landrecies on 4 Nov. 1918, he led his company with marked gallantry and initiative. During the early stage of the advance machine-gun fire was encountered, coming from a house on the flank, and, summoning a tank, he led it personally to attack the house, supported by his company, and captured there four officers and 35 men. Later he made a daring reconnaissance of the bridge over the canal, finally getting his company across and capturing the town. He did splendid work.

BRIERLY, SIDNEY CLIFFORD, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 5th Battn. West Riding Regt., attached 1/4th Battn. Yorkshire Light Infantry, Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Valenciennes on the night of 1 Nov. 1918, when, under circumstances of great difficulty, he relieved a battalion in the front line, and advanced at dawn. The same afternoon his battalion attacked and captured all its objectives. Two days later his battalion again made a successful attack, wheeling to the right during the operation. His skilful leadership was a great asset.

CAMPBELL, KEIR ARTHUR, Lieut., 3rd Battn. Grenadier Guards (Special Reserve). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Preux-au-Sart on 4 Nov. 1918. He commanded the right front company, which came under heavy machine-gun fire the moment it advanced. He was continually with his leading sections, directing and controlling the platoons against an organized line of machine guns commanding an open slope. Towards dusk all his officers were lost, and he was wounded, but he remained until consolidation was complete, showing splendid endurance.

CARLTON, HERBERT DUDLEY, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Scots, attached Royal West Surrey Regt. (Italy). In the attack across the Pieve on 27 Oct. 1918, and following days he handled his battalion with remarkable coolness and skill and showed conspicuous gallantry. On 29 Oct. he was in command of the advanced guard of the 91st Brigade, consisting of the 2nd Queen's and a battery of Italian Mountain Artillery. The enemy made a determined stand on the River Monticane, but owing to his able handling of the advanced guard the passage of the river was forced and the village of Cimetta taken. He handled an exceedingly difficult situation with marked skill and courage and showed a soldierly spirit and ability of the highest order.

CLARKSON, ALFRED BAIRSTOW, M.C., Major, 1/6th Battn. West Riding Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in command of his battalion near Valenciennes on 1 Nov. 1918. The attack over bare open slopes was partly held up, but by his personal example in visiting every part of his front line, exposed to intense fire, he was largely responsible for its successful accomplishment.

COLAM, STANLEY D'ENCOURT, M.C., Capt., Gordon Highlanders, Special Reserve (Brigade Major 145th Infantry Brigade) (Italy). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as brigade major during the attack on enemy positions north of Asiago on 1 and 2 Nov. 1918, and the subsequent advance. At a critical time he was sent forward to clear up the situation, and in spite of very heavy fire worked his way to the most advanced positions reached by our troops and returned with accurate reports of the positions held. This daring reconnaissance proved of the utmost value to his commander, and throughout the whole of the operations he kept in the closest personal touch with the attacking troops, visiting each unit and inspiring all by his courage and example.

COOKE, RONALD CAMPBELL, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), 134th Field Ambulance, Royal Army Medical Corps. He was always equal to the occasion when, owing to considerable advances made by our troops, fresh organization and alteration of schemes of evacuation were demanded to meet the conditions, and his unit was short-handed. His skill and fine devotion to duty over a difficult period were admirable.

CRAMPTON, JAMES, M.C., Temporary Major, 8th Battn. York and Lancaster Regt., attached 9th Battn. (Italy). For conspicuous ability and gallantry on 31 Oct. 1918, during the Pieve battle in organizing a crossing of the River Livenza into Sacile. After several unsuccessful attempts had been made to improvise a bridge and effect a crossing owing to intense enemy machine-gun fire, he organized a party of pioneers, constructed a bridge, and bringing up six-inch mortars, Stokes mortars and machine guns, succeeded in getting three companies across the river. This result was entirely due to his remarkably clear grip of the situation, and the skilful manner in which he superintended the work. Throughout the bridging, the organization of the mortar and machine-gun fire and the crossing of the infantry, he was moving about exposed to heavy machine-gun and rifle fire from the houses. His determination, resource, and complete disregard of his personal safety were admirable.

CROW, PERCY, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), A/161st Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. He was in command of the battery, which closely supported the advance of the infantry on 7 and 8 Nov. 1918, near Avesnes. During these two days he acted with the greatest vigour and determination, kept his guns close up behind the infantry, and fired at many machine guns with open sights. He showed great courage and initiative, and materially assisted the advance.

CURELL, WILLIAM BROWN, Major, 2nd Battn. Lancashire Fusiliers. For gallantry and capable leadership of a battalion during operations east of Verchain, near Arras, on 26 Oct. 1918. At zero hour he followed the support companies to the attack with an orderly, and established a battle headquarters in a chateau on the outskirts of Arras, from which, under heavy fire, he observed magnificent targets for the artillery, and twice spotted and informed them of an impending counter-attack by the enemy, which was immediately engaged. His excellent dispositions and initiative throughout were greatly responsible for the success obtained.

DALE, FRANCIS RICHARD, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), 19th Battn. Welsh Regt., attached 16th Battn. Royal Welsh Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in command of his battalion at the crossing of the River Selle, near Le Cateau, on the 20th Oct. 1918. The operation was extremely difficult, but, after daring reconnaissances, his orders, combined with his splendid leadership and example, were responsible for the complete success of the operation. On two occasions later he led his battalion through heavy barrages and intricate country, with the greatest courage, gaining the objectives and capturing four .77 guns.

DRIVER, ARTHUR, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Major and Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 6th Battn. West Riding Regt., Territorial Force, attached 9th Battn. For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership when in command of his battalion during active operations, especially on the 12th Oct. 1918, in the attack on Neuville, when he very ably led his battalion, and, although himself wounded, reorganized it under heavy shell and machine-gun fire at a critical stage of the battle. He also distinguished himself on 4 Nov. 1918, at the capture of Futoy.

DUDLEY-WARD, CHARLES HUMBLE, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), 1st Battn. Welsh Guards. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in command of his battalion in the attack south of Baval, 8 Nov. 1918. By his untiring efforts the battalion advanced, step by step, for nearly two miles with an exposed flank. He took risks at the right place and time, and showed himself to be a real leader of men.

DUNN, JOHN BRUCE, M.C., Temporary Capt., 15th Battn. Highland Light Infantry. In the attack on the Olse-Sambre Canal, on the 4th Nov. 1918, when the Commanding Officer was killed, he took command of the remnants of the battalion. In face of heavy fire, he led them across the canal, causing the enemy heavy casualties, and gaining his objective. It was due to his example of courage and initiative that the battalion succeeded in capturing six field guns, 16 machine guns, and many prisoners.

EDDOWES, HUGH MORTIMER, Temporary Lieut., 185th Tunnelling Coy., Royal Engineers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Flines Station on 20 Nov. 1918. Information having been received from the enemy that a delay action mine had been laid, and was timed to explode five days before, he located and fired it. The work was exceptionally dangerous, as the mine might have exploded at any moment.

ELLIS, LIONEL FREDERIC, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), Welsh Guards, Special Reserve, attached 1st Battn. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the advance south of Baval on 6 Nov. 1918. When the whole battalion was held up at the railway, he brought his company headquarters up to reinforce his company, and, calling on his men to follow him, rushed across the railway bank, surprising and routing the enemy, whom he followed up a spur, until held up by a fresh machine-gun position. His energy and resource encouraged his men to overcome all difficulties, and resulted in the capture of Prihart Farm. He subsequently reorganized the company on his left, which was in difficulties, and finally brought up and posted a support company, securing the left flank of the division.

ENGLISH-MURPHY, WILLIAM RICHARD, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1st Battn. South Staffordshire Regt. (Italy). In the attack across the Pieve on 27 Oct. 1918, and following days, he handled his battalion with conspicuous gallantry and skill. Seeing the leading battalion in difficulties owing to the swiftness of the river and the wire on the river bank, he on his own initiative moved his battalion up on the flank of the leading battalion, and gave most valuable assistance in the capture of the first objective at a somewhat critical period. He then reorganized his battalion and led them rapidly forward, capturing the villages of Smichele Di Pieve and Tezze, with hundreds of prisoners and several guns. Throughout the operations he set his men a splendid example of fearlessness and dash, which materially helped to ensure the great success achieved.

FAWKES, ROWLAND BEATTIE, M.C., Temporary Capt., 6th Battn. Northamptonshire Regt. For great gallantry and fine leadership during operations near Preux on 4 Nov. 1918. He commanded the company, taking the first of the battalion's objectives in face of strong enemy opposition. The company won its way by rifle and machine-gun fire and captured a number of machine guns and took over 100 prisoners.

FYERS, HARRY AMELIUS BEAUCLERK, Temporary Lieut., 179th Tunnelling Coy., Royal Engineers. For conspicuous gallantry and good work between 25 Oct. and 17 Nov. 1918, in detecting and removing enemy acid delay action and other mines from the railway. On 12 Nov. he superintended the removal of three mines at Monchecourt Station, himself removing the fuse from one mine, which was reported to be six days overdue and liable to go off at any moment. His section removed over 8,000 lb. of explosives during the above period.

GARRARD, FREDERICK BLAKE, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2nd Battn. Honourable Artillery Company (Italy). For conspicuous gallantry during the attack carried out by the battalion on the Grave Di Papadopoli on the night of the 23rd-24th Oct. 1918. He showed the most consummate coolness and skill in collecting and forming up his company under the most intense shell fire. Again, particularly on the night of the 25th-26th Oct., during the attack on the southern portion of the island, he showed fine powers of leadership and complete disregard of danger, and was greatly responsible for the large capture of prisoners. During the final operations, when the enemy was offering a most stubborn resistance, he was severely wounded, but still continued to direct and command his company until the enemy resistance was finally overcome.

GIBBONS, CHARLES, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), D.C.M., Durham Light Infantry, attached 12th Battn. (Italy). For most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. At the forcing of the River Pieve on 27 Oct. 1918, near the Island of Papadopoli, the battalion, after passing the most northerly stream under very heavy fire, was held up by uncut wire. He with four N.C.O.'s and men ran forward from his own company and through the leading company to cut the wire, which was swept from end to end with shell fire and by machine-gun fire from the front and in enfilade. All the party except himself were killed and he was wounded. In spite of his wound he continued until a lane had been cut, helped only by one other rank, who had already been wounded and who came up to his assistance. But for this act of devoted heroism the attack must have failed and the battalion been repulsed. Suffering from a most painful wound, he continued to lead his company until they had taken the third and final objective.

GRIERSON, KENNETH MACIVER, M.C., Second Lieut. (Temporary Lieut. and Acting Capt.), Manchester Regt., attached 22nd Battn. (Italy). He was in command of one of the leading companies in the attack on the 27th Oct. 1918. He led his men across the Pieve in a magnificent manner. When the enemy bank had been reached he crawled forward and helped to cut a gap in the wire to within 15 yards of the enemy; all this time he was under observation and fire from the embankment, which was still held by the enemy. The splendid example he set to his men contributed in a large extent to the successful capture of the first objective. Later, in the taking of all objectives, he showed himself to be a fine leader both in skill and courage. All the houses and strong points were tackled under his direction in a systematic and dashing way.

GRIFFITH-WILLIAMS, ERIC LEWELLYN GRIFFITH, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 135th Battery, 32nd Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry in action near Villers on Cauchies, on the 13th Oct. 1918. His battalion occupied a very forward and exposed position in support of an attack, and came under heavy shell fire throughout the day. It was owing to the fearlessness and skilful way in which he handled the battalion and arranged shelter for the men that he was able to keep up an uninterrupted fire with great effect. He also went forward under heavy fire to ascertain the progress of the battle, and later, when ordered to withdraw, displayed the greatest skill and courage in carrying out this difficult manoeuvre.

HEDLEY, JOHN CYPRIAN, M.C., Second Lieut. (Acting Capt.), Royal West Surrey Regt., attached 11th Batta. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion on the night of the 8th-9th Nov. 1918, during and after the crossing of the Scheldt at Neersche, when, although opposed by thick belts of wire and water-logged marshes, and finally by a very deep ditch 15 yards wide and full of water, he led his company, under heavy and direct fire, with the greatest courage and determination, and, surmounting all obstacles, forced his way into the village, capturing it with many prisoners and machine guns. The forcing of the river was entirely due to his splendid personal gallantry and energy.

HENNESSY, RICHARD GEORGE, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2nd Batta. Border Regt. (Italy). For conspicuous gallantry and initiative. On the 27th Oct. 1918, he was sent forward to ascertain the situation in front of the battalion on the eastern bank of the Piave, and found a portion of the brigade front held up by machine-gun nests. He quickly had the situation in hand, organizing parties, and led them forward to the final objective. His quick appreciation of the situation and fine display of leadership inspired all ranks. Again, on the 28th Oct., when the battalion was ordered to advance from the "Red dotted line" to the "Blue dotted line," his grip of the situation on the left and the speed with which he got the two left companies going, clearing several machine-gun nests, enabled the advance to the "Blue dotted line" to be carried out.

HODNETT, HARRY, Temporary Second Lieut., Liverpool Regt., attached 1/5th Batta., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Ere on 6 Nov. 1918, when he led his platoon in a silent raid in broad daylight, capturing one officer, 34 men and two machine guns, rushing three posts in succession. The total strength of his platoon was only 18, and after providing covering party, escorts, and allowing for casualties, his final party consisted only of himself and three men, operating some 500 yards in advance of the line. His determination and dash took the enemy by surprise.

HOGAN, GUY STEWART, Temporary Second Lieut., 16th Batta. King's Royal Rifle Corps. For most conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the night 24-25 Sept. 1918. During a minor operation south of Villers Guislain, he was in charge of a platoon detailed to carry out a bombing attack along a trench. After being twice wounded he rallied his platoon, again led them to the attack, and succeeded in gaining the objective. Shortly afterwards he was hit by a bomb, which blew off his right foot, and rendered him unconscious. When he came to, he refused to be taken away, and continued to direct his men until he fainted again. He behaved magnificently.

HOLT, GEOFFREY WILSON, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), A/74th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and inspiring leadership at Flaque Farm on 4 Nov. 1918. When the infantry were held up by machine guns and 77 mm. guns, firing at close range, he led a section at full gallop over the crest, down the slope, through a hall of fire, losing several horses, and came into action out of view just west of Preux au Sart, 100 yards behind the advanced infantry posts, sweeping the valley and the reverse slope of the crest. His quick grasp of the situation assisted the infantry to advance.

HOWATSON, GEORGE, Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 185th Tunnelling Coy., Royal Engineers. For conspicuous gallantry and resource in searching for and removing enemy traps and mines, especially on 12 and 13 of Nov., in removing delay action mines indicated by the enemy. He spent 36 hours in excavating a shaft and gallery approaching the large delay action mine in Douai Station, due to explode on 7 Nov. 1918.

KAY, WILLIAM, M.C. Second Lieut. (Acting Capt.), Manchester Regt., Special Reserve, attached 2nd Batta. On 4 Nov. 1918, during the attack on the Oise-Sambre Canal, he displayed marked courage and able leadership when his battalion was temporarily held up. Under intense machine-gun fire he went back to brigade headquarters and reported the situation. Later, his leadership materially contributed to the success of the day's operations.

KEMBLE, ALAN EDWARD, Capt., 2nd Batta. Yorkshire Light Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and leadership when suddenly called upon to command the battalion during the advance from the Sambre Canal to the capture of Avesnes from 4 to 8 Nov. 1918. Throughout the whole five days he kept his battalion well in hand, being continuously with the leading platoons, under intense fire, directing and co-ordinating the advance. On 7 Nov. 1918, when the attack on Avesnes was checked, he personally advanced and reconnoitred, clearing up the situation. On 8 Nov. 1918, he led his company through the town, and formed up some two kilometres beyond, after exercising 27 hours' unrelenting pressure. Here he was badly wounded by a sniper, which resulted in the loss of a leg.

KENDRICK, FREDERICK ARTHUR, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 1st Batta. South Staffordshire Regt. (Italy). During the operations 27-29 Oct. 1918, he showed the greatest gallantry, coolness and devotion to duty. On the 27th he pushed forward rapidly with his company, and captured the village of Tezze, three field guns and 240 prisoners. Again, on the 28th, his company was first to reach the objective, and he organized the battalion front for defence. On the 29th, at Cimetta, he was given charge of the two front-line companies of the battalion. At the beginning of this operation he had one arm broken by a machine-gun bullet, but continued to lead the attack through very difficult country and under heavy machine-gun fire. Before reaching his objective he was again hit in the other arm, but insisted on continuing to lead the advance, finally clearing the village and capturing a large number of prisoners and machine guns. He only consented to leave after consolidation was complete. By his absolute fearlessness, disregard of his wounds and skilful leadership he ensured the success of a difficult operation and set a splendid example.

LAWSON, LIONEL HALL, M.C., Temporary Capt., 11th Batta. West Yorkshire Regt. (Italy). For most conspicuous gallantry and able leadership. Throughout a most exhausting period of three days on the Island of Lido, from night 23-24 to night 26-27 Oct. 1918, under heavy shelling, he so animated all ranks with his own spirit of determination that under his leadership his company took a most conspicuous share in the operations of 27-29 Oct. On the 27th, after reaching the north bank of the Piave, he found the situation on the extreme right unsatisfactory; he at once led a small party to this flank and pushed on, himself killing and capturing many of the enemy, until he had obtained touch with the division on the right, and so cleared up the situation. On the 28th, with one platoon, he patrolled forward, and taking Borgo Villa in rear, cleared this large village of a number of the enemy. Later on the same night he captured Soffratta, and thus at small cost brought his line forward over a kilometre. On the 29th, in very difficult country, with a small party he pushed forward after the crossing of the Monticano, and by his personal dash mopped up large bodies of the enemy, and destroyed or captured several machine guns which were holding out.

LEACHMAN, GERARD EVELYN, C.I.E., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel, Royal Sussex Regt., attached Political Department (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Huwailah on 28 Oct. 1918, and again at Qalyarah on 30 Oct. 1918. He displayed marked courage in personally reconnoitring in his own unarmoured car, under heavy fire, ground over which the heavier armoured cars could not move. He then returned to guide them to the attack. The success attained by these cars during the operations was largely due to his intimate knowledge of the country and fearless leading over a trackless desert.

LEMAN, JOHN FREDERICK, Capt. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Worcester-shire Regt., attached 13th Batta. Royal Welsh Fusiliers. During the operations of the 8th Oct. 1918, at Mortho Wood, he displayed great gallantry and energy in pressing the attack of his battalion on the left of the brigade front. On the 4th Nov., in the Forest of Mormal, he led his battalion under one of the heaviest barrages experienced since the commencement of the advance straight to their objective, and captured four .77 guns and a 5.9 gun. His thoroughness in his work has been largely responsible for the unvarying success obtained by his battalion.

LENNON, JOHN ALFRED, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), West Riding Regt., Special Reserve, attached 2nd Batta. During the operations on the 24th Oct. 1918, against the high ground east of Verchain, he, owing to casualties amongst the company commanders, took command of two companies, and showed marked courage and determined leadership. He rushed a machine-gun post with his sergeant-major, and although the latter was killed, he completed the work, killing or capturing the whole crew single-handed. He then led his companies on, and captured and consolidated his objective.

LLOYD, RODERICK CROLL, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major) 1/1st Denbighshire Yeomanry, attached 24th Batta. Royal Welsh Fusiliers. During the successful operations of 31 Oct. 1918, in the vicinity of Tiegheem, he showed great gallantry and able leadership in command of his battalion. At one period of the operations he went forward to the leading company commander, and with him so effectively reorganized the company under heavy fire that he was able to order it forward to the attack on the second objective. He then found the supporting company, who had lost direction, reorganized it and placed it in position.

LOWTHER, JOHN GEORGE, M.C., Capt., 11th Hussars, attached Northamptonshire Yeomanry (Italy). During the advance of the Corps Mounted Troops on Sacile on 30 Oct. 1918, he led his squadron, which was advance guard, with great gallantry and dash, and by maintaining such a rapid pace of advance in the face of much opposition he prevented the main body from being held up. Later in the day he made a daring attack on Sacile from the north, and when heavily counter-attacked he held on, inflicting very heavy casualties to the enemy until almost surrounded, when by his sound leading he got all his men away under their officers to a position just in rear.

MACILWAINE, ALFRED HERBERT, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), "W" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Huwailah 27-29 Oct. 1918. His battery was continuously in action for three days, and during this strenuous time he directed the fire from an advanced outpost in the front line. Under heavy fire he exposed himself fearlessly to obtain good observation, and contributed largely to repelling all enemy attempts to break through. His tactical handling of his own and another battery was admirable, and his coolness and determination inspired all ranks with confidence.

MACMILLAN, ROBERT JAMES ALAN, Major, Royal Garrison Artillery, Territorial Force, attached 337th Siege Battery, Royal Garrison Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Herin on 1 Nov. 1918, in support of an early morning attack by the infantry on Valenciennes. His battery came under heavy fire, and although knocked down by the explosion of a shell and slightly gassed, he refused to leave, and remained in charge until the barrage was completed and Valenciennes captured.

MAITLAND, ARTHUR EDWARD, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2nd Batta. Essex Regt. For courage and good leadership whilst in command of a battalion during the operations east of Verchain from 25 to 28 Oct. 1918. His battalion carried out attacks on two successive days, the 25th and 28th, and it was largely due to his personal reconnaissance beforehand, followed by his excellent dispositions, that each attack was successful.

MARTIN, GEORGE NOEL CHADWICK, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), B/74th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and brilliant leadership at Les Mottes on 8 Nov. 1918. He led a gun at a gallop through the foremost infantry, coming into action at 700 yards, silencing several machine guns which were holding up the advance. He remained in action in the open for several hours, keeping down hostile fire and denying the ridge 600 yards distant to the enemy. He also silenced two 77 mm. guns, which were firing on the troops at about 1,500 yards range. His intrepid behaviour set a fine example.

MATHESON, NEAL WILLIAM, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), Royal Engineers, Territorial Force, attached 54th Field Coy., Royal Engineers (Italy). At Saletuol throughout the bridging operations of 26-28 Oct. 1918, his services stood out pre-eminently. He took part in the preliminary reconnaissances across channels of unknown depth to determine the site of the bridge, and when this had been done was entrusted with the task of co-ordinating the work of the different units engaged on the work. When shelling and bombing interrupted the work he displayed the greatest coolness and disregard of danger. Though wounded he refused to leave the work. He did much to ensure the success of the operations.

MOIR, JOHN HAY, M.C., M.D., Temporary Capt., Royal Army Medical Corps, attached 17th Batta. Royal Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 27, 28 and 29 Sept. 1918, near Noyelles. On the 27th, while a stretcher-party moving to the rear received a direct hit, he rushed out to its assistance and attended to the survivors under intense shell fire, carrying them to a place of safety. On the 28th he worked his aid-post under concentrated fire, dressing the wounded in the open after the cellar was full. He was very badly shaken by a shell burst, but carried on his work into the night, and assisted to pick up wounded in a counter-attack. Although utterly exhausted on the 29th he continued attending the wounded with energy and determination.

MOWAT, ALFRED LAW, M.C., Capt. (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 1/4th Batta. West Riding Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion during operations east of Naues, lasting from the 11th to the 17th Oct. 1918. Always regardless of personal danger, he continually moved about his battalion area by day and night during every phase of the action, and on one occasion, when the enemy attacked with tanks and the line withdrew, he rallied the men, and led them forward again. Throughout the whole operations his gallantry and coolness set a magnificent example to all ranks under his command.

MUIR, ARTHUR WILLIAM, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), 2nd Batta. Northumberland Fusiliers. During the phase of operations on the 4th, 5th and 6th Nov. 1918, he was in command of his battalion. Throughout the operations he displayed great skill and gallantry in the leading of his men, especially on the evening of the 6th. It was due to his untiring efforts and personal reconnaissances under heavy fire that he was able to report his battalion on their objective that night.

NICHOLLS, FRANK, M.C., Temporary Capt., 20th Batta. Manchester Regt. On the 6th Nov. 1918, the battalion was detailed as advanced guard during the advance from Marolles to Dompiere; he was placed in command of the two companies forming the point and vanguard. He carried out his duties in a most masterly and efficient manner, outflanking an enemy position, inflicting casualties, and taking several prisoners. Throughout he did excellent work.

PAGET-TOMLINSON, WILLIAM, Capt. (Acting Major), 7th Hussars (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Huwailah on 28 Oct. 1918. When his regiment was attacking superior enemy numbers he showed most marked coolness and disregard of danger under fire. Though early wounded he remained at duty, and by his leadership and fine example in a brilliant attack, which caused heavy casualties on the enemy and was only checked within point-blank range of their guns, he inspired all ranks near him. Later, in spite of his wounds, he again went into action. He behaved most pluckily.

PARSONS, BERNARD EDWARD THOMAS, Major, 2/4th Batta. Hampshire Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and valuable services. On 4 Nov. 1918, near Le Quesnoy, he went forward through the open fire-swept zone to co-ordinate the attack of his battalion, and went forward with the leading waves to the final objectives, capturing 250 prisoners and many machine guns and trench mortars. Again, on 6 Nov. 1918, near Le Timon, when the left flank was in the air and being heavily enfiladed, he went forward and cleared up the situation, reorganizing the attack and enabling the companies to reach their objectives.

PEMBERTON, HAROLD CHARLES, Temporary Capt., 20th Batta. Lancashire Fusiliers, attached 16th Batta. During the attack on the Oise-Sambre Canal on 4 Nov. 1918, he attempted to cross the bridge as soon as it was ready. As he was crossing, the floats at the enemy's end of the bridge broke loose. Under heavy machine-gun fire he succeeded in repairing it, thus enabling one officer and three men to cross before it was again broken by shell fire. In the advance he rendered excellent service.

PEPYS, CHRISTOPHER, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Major), Devonshire Regt., attached 8th Batta. (Italy). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the attack on the left bank of the Piave on 27 Oct. 1918. In command of the battalion, which was in brigade support, he led his troops across the Piave under very heavy fire, and hearing there was a gap between the front-line battalion and troops on the right, he at once pushed forward to fill the gap, and pushed his advance until held up in front of C. Palacina, a formidable strong point. Hearing that the troops on his left were held up and the commanding officer killed, he went to them under heavy fire, reorganized them, and supervised consolidation until reinforcements arrived. During the further advance next day into villages occupied by the enemy he showed great initiative and courage in directing attacks on strong positions.

RICHARDS, FREDERICK WILLIAM, M.C., Temporary Capt. (Acting Major), 105th Field Coy., Royal Engineers. On the 4th Nov. 1918, during the successful attack on Landrecies, the Field Coy., Royal Engineers, commanded by him, carried out the bridging operations, assisted by a pioneer company. He elaborated the design of a most practical petrol tin bridging equipment. He accompanied the advance, and supervised the bridging operations under fire. He materially assisted the exceptional success of the attack that day.

RODERICK, WILLIAM DAVID, M.C., Temporary Second Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 14th Batta. Royal Welsh Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the attack on Mormal Forest on 4 Nov. 1918. Whilst moving his company to the assembly position he was twice wounded by shell fire, and in the attack he was again wounded, but with indomitable pluck he led his men to their final objective. Later on, when all battalion headquarters officers had become casualties, he assumed command of the battalion, and made dispositions for a further advance before handing over and being evacuated to hospital.

ROWLANDS, HUGH, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 2nd Batta. London Regt. At the Bois de Beaufort, near Angreaux, on 6 Nov. 1918, for determined courage and leadership. Having lost all his platoon commanders and being held up by heavy machine-gun fire, he reorganized his company and the remnants of another company and got his force across a swollen river up to within 500 yards of the first objective, under very heavy fire. Though surrounded on three sides by the enemy, he eventually succeeded in fighting his way back across the river, bringing back with him all his wounded.

SALE, GEORGE GEOFFREY, M.C., Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 179th Tunnelling Coy., Royal Engineers. For conspicuous gallantry and good work in locating and removing acid-fused delay action and other mines from the railway at Waller's yard and Somain yard between 25 Oct. and 17 Nov. 1918. During this period his section removed eight delay-action and 42 other mines, two of which were due to explode on the day they were removed. He showed remarkable energy and skill.

SHAW, JOSEPH TAYLOR, Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), Yorkshire Regt., attached 8th Batta. (Italy). In the Piave battle, 27-29 Oct. 1918, he commanded his company with great skill and conspicuous gallantry during the entire operations. On the 27th his company led the attack of his battalion, and, in spite of darkness and the difficult crossings of the river, he led his company straight to the battalion objective, and captured it, although out of touch with troops on right and left. On the night of 28th his company was sent forward to seize the bridge over Monticano river. Although unable to reach his objective owing to much superior enemy forces, he established himself just south of the river, capturing two guns and prisoners. His action enabled his battalion to deploy successfully next morning. On the 29th, when sent up to support, his right flank was in the air, and was being enfiladed from the right rear; he, however, held on, and largely assisted in breaking off a counter-attack.

SLINGSBY, THOMAS WILLIAM, Major, 22nd Cavalry, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Tuz Khurmatli on 29 April, 1918. He boldly led his squadron at a gallop against two guns, which he captured, and, going through them, charged to the top of the ridge and caused the enemy to surrender.

SMITH, WILLIAM GEORGE, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), 23rd Field Coy., Royal Engineers. For great gallantry and devotion to duty during the forcing of the Sambre-Oise Canal south of Catillon, on 4 Nov. 1918. He, with his company, was in charge of the bridging operations at the canal bend, including the preparation and assembly of all material; the rapidity of the crossing was largely due to his good organization and example to those under him.

SOMERSET, THE HON. NIGEL FITZROY, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), Gloucestershire Regt. and Motor Machine Gun Corps (Mesopotamia). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Qaiyarah on 30 Oct. 1918. Owing to the bold and skilful handling of his armoured cars under heavy fire a retreating force of 500 of the enemy, with 10 machine guns, were forced to halt, thus giving an opportunity for a successful attack by a cavalry regiment, to whom he had sent information. As a result of this encounter the entire hostile force was captured. He displayed marked coolness and initiative throughout the operations.

SPENCER, JOHN, M.M., Temporary Second Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 17th Batta. Royal Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and leadership on 28 and 29 Sept. 1918, near Noyelles sur l'Escaut. He was acting adjutant and in charge of a report centre during an attack across the canal. During the night the enemy counter-attacked, and, realizing the situation was critical, he went out under heavy shell fire and rallied the men, being twice wounded, but refusing to leave the line. The next day, when helping to establish the line, he was again twice wounded, and, after having his wounds dressed, reported at battalion headquarters to hand over all the papers.

SPIER, FRANK FITZROY FANE, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 12th Lancers. On the 9th Nov. 1918, east of the Avesnes-Maubeuge Road, for brilliant and skilful leadership when in command of an advanced squadron. When the infantry had broken down the enemy resistance, he pushed boldly through to a depth of more than eight miles, capturing prisoners, guns and an immense amount of material and rolling stock, and clearing one large town and several villages. He continued pushing on until checked by a strongly held defensive line, which he reconnoitred, sending back an accurate report.

STEELE, JULIAN MCCARTY, C.B., C.M.G., Lieut.-Colonel and Brevet Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General), Coldstream Guards (General Officer Commanding 22nd Infantry Brigade) (Italy). For marked ability and gallantry during the battle of the Piave, 24 Oct. 1918. During the second phase of the capture of Papadopoli Island, he assumed direct command of all troops on the island. He crossed at Lido, under heavy machine-gun fire. On the first attempt his boat was riddled with bullets, and he was wounded in the head. Though suffering from severe concussion, which for a time had rendered him unconscious, he succeeded in reaching the island on his second attempt, and joined his troops. He was present in the front line during the subsequent Austrian counter-attack. Though suffering from his wound he refused to leave his brigade, and remained in command of it until the termination of operations on 4 Nov. He set a fine soldierly example of grit and commanded his brigade throughout with conspicuous success.

STICKNEY, JOSEPH EDWARD DANTHORPE, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 2/4th Batta. York and Lancaster Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and leadership in command of a battalion on 4 Nov. 1918, in front of Fresnoy. After a personal reconnaissance under enemy barrage of the assembly position, he led his battalion up, in spite of fog and smoke barrage. During the attack, when the position was obscure, he controlled the direction under heavy machine-gun fire. Again, on 7 Nov. 1918, he formed his battalion up in the darkness, and successfully launched the attack on Neuf Nesnil, reorganizing and consolidating under intense fire. His energy and close personal supervision greatly encouraged his men.

TANNER, GILBERT, Major, 1/7th Batta. West Riding Regt., Territorial Force. For conspicuous gallantry and resource in command of a unit other than his own east of Naves on 11 Oct. 1918. The success of the operations carried out by the brigade was largely due to his excellent arrangements for the hurried assembly of his battalion, and his courage and energy in leading his men, and reorganizing them, after an enemy counter-attack with tanks, were worthy of high praise.

TEMPEST, EWART VINCENT, M.C., Lieut., 1/6th Batta. West Yorkshire Regt., Territorial Force (Intelligence Officer, 146th Infantry Brigade). During the operations south-east of Iwuy, on 11 and 12 Oct. 1918, this officer carried out his duties as Brigade Intelligence Officer with the utmost zeal and gallantry. He made a daring reconnaissance, sending back valuable information, and, later, when a hostile counter-attack, with tanks, had driven our forces off high ground just captured, he rallied the men, collected stragglers and led them forward through heavy artillery and machine-gun fire, thus restoring the situation at a most critical time.

WEDGEUR, EDMUND, M.C., D.C.M., M.M., Temporary Second Lieut., Gloucestershire Regt., attached 1/8th Batta. Worcestershire Regt. (Territorial Force). For conspicuous gallantry and leadership in command of a company forming a defensive flank along north-west edge of Eveque Wood, on 25 Oct. 1918. He advanced three miles through country held by the enemy, picking up two platoons which had lost direction and reached Tilleuls Farm, two miles in rear of the enemy's main line of resistance. Here, with only 17 men, he charged and captured three 4.2 howitzers, killing the battery commander himself and capturing two other officers and the crews. Thanks to his determination and coolness, the defensive flank was successfully formed, with a total capture of five officers and 156 men.

WETHERILL, WILLIAM ALFRED, Temporary Second Lieut., Royal Berkshire Regt., attached 1/4th Batta. Territorial Force (Italy). For conspicuous gallantry and able leadership as platoon commander during an attack on enemy positions in the neighbourhood of Asiago on 29 Oct. to 1 Nov. 1918. On the 29th he captured the enemy front-line trenches at Sec, and pushed on to the Winter Stelling at Costa, under very heavy machine-gun and shell fire. On 1 Nov. he cleared Costa and led the attack up Mt. Catry, where prisoners and machine guns were captured; he finally forced his way through most difficult country to the final objective on Mt. Moslach, capturing numerous guns and consolidating his position. Throughout he set a splendid example of fearlessness and determination.

WHITEHOUSE, PHILIP HENRY, Lieut.-Colonel, 1/8th Batta. Royal Warwickshire Regt., Territorial Force. For gallant leadership during the crossing of the Somme-Oise Canal and the capture of Landrecies on 4 Nov. 1918. His battalion fought their way down to and crossed the canal against heavy opposition and helped to take Landrecies, capturing over 200 prisoners, some guns, and many minenwerfer and machine guns. He did fine work.

WILLIAMS, CHARLES REGINALD, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 2nd Batta. Royal Munster Fusiliers. For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership near Monceau St. Waast. On 6 Nov. 1918, towards evening, when the advance was held up by heavy fire, he pushed on, and by his personal reconnaissances and sound dispositions was able to establish his battalion on their final objective that evening. Throughout the operations from 4 to 6 Nov. he carried out all tasks allotted to him with marked skill and determination.

WILSON, NEIL YOUNG, M.C., Temporary Capt., 11th Batta. Northumberland Fusiliers (Italy). For most conspicuous gallantry and initiative during the attacks on the enemy's lines on the north bank of the Piave on the 27th and 29th Oct. 1918. He was in command of a company on both days, and by his skilful leadership strong positions of the enemy were captured. During the attack on the 27th his company captured one battery of field guns and two batteries of heavy guns, which were in action during the attack. He was the senior officer of the battalion in the actual attack on the third objective, which he personally led with the greatest gallantry and skill. In the flank attack on the north bank of the Monticano River on 29 Oct. he displayed most brilliant leadership and resource, capturing his objective and a large number of prisoners and machine guns with a minimum of casualties.

WRIGHTON, EDWARD, Lieut., 4th Batta. Northumberland Fusiliers, Territorial Force, attached 10th Batta. (Italy). On the Piave, 27 Oct. 1918, in the initial attack, he was left in command of the company, all other officers being killed or wounded. This company had orders to form a defensive flank, but Lieut. Wrighton, seeing that the attack in front was held up by uncut wire, led his company forward, cut a belt of wire by hand under severe machine-gun fire and assisted in taking the first objective. He personally shot down an enemy machine gunner who was causing many casualties. Ultimately his company formed a defensive flank to the brigade, and though losing over 50 in casualties he maintained and even improved his position by enterprise and patrols. On 29 Oct. he led his company again in an attack over several kilometres, capturing many prisoners and machine guns. Throughout the entire operations he showed exceptional gallantry and marked powers of leadership.

YOUNG, JAMES HAROLD BIRMINGHAM, M.C., Temporary Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 10th Batta. Cheshire Regt., attached 9th Batta. For marked gallantry and dashing leadership near Jemlain, on 3 and 4 Nov. 1918. He led his company into a gap against determined opposition, capturing prisoners and securing the safety of his battalion. He then reorganized his company and led them in attack, securing his objective and beyond, capturing prisoners, machine guns, and a field gun, and mopping up Wargnies-le-Grand.

CANADIAN FORCE.

BLAIR, JOHN FREEMAN, Major, Canadian Army Dental Corps, attached 4th Field Ambulance, Canadian Army Medical Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty from 5 to 11 Nov. 1918, in the Valenciennes-Mons area, as liaison officer between regimental aid posts and forward collecting posts. Keeping in close touch with the rapidly advancing infantry, he was continuously under fire, but ensured the rapid evacuation of the wounded. On several occasions he dressed the wounded in the open under fire, remaining to superintend their removal on the arrival of the stretcher-bearers.

GYLES, RICHARD WALTER, M.C., Capt., 46th Batta. Canadian Infantry, Saskatchewan Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the attack on Mount Huoy on 1 Nov. 1918, when he successfully led his company, with magnificent courage and determination, against points of resistance held by the enemy in great strength. On reaching an objective, the company was reduced to 15 men, but meeting a party of 50 of the enemy, he at once attacked, killing many and taking the survivors prisoners. In the advance his company captured three field guns, many machine guns, and a trench mortar, besides about 300 prisoners.

KELLY, BURNET ELMER, Major, 9th Field Ambulance, Canadian Army Medical Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty from 22 to 30 Oct. 1918, between Ralsmes and Bruay. In charge of the evacuation of wounded of the 9th Canadian Infantry Brigade, he personally went over the field, night and day, with his stretcher-bearers, collecting wounded, most of the time under machine-gun and shell fire. His energy was an outstanding example to all ranks.

KEMP, FREDERICK GARFIELD, Lieut. (Acting Capt.), 4th Batta. Canadian Infantry, 1st Central Ontario Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and presence of mind at critical times. During the assault on the Canal du Nord, on 27 Sept. 1918, he did excellent work. Upon reaching the Canal du Nord line his men came under heavy machine-gun fire from the left. He rushed enemy posts in the trench with two men, killing and wounding three or four himself, and scattering the others with a bomb. In the advance he, by fearless leadership, captured two field guns and killed all of the enemy machine gunners holding the emplacements. Throughout these operations he did excellently.

MACLEOD, JOHN PHEE GORDON, Lieut., 46th Batta. Canadian Infantry, Saskatchewan Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in the attack before Valenciennes on 1 Nov. 1918. He led his platoon forward in face of heavy opposition, and, reaching his objective, he established an advanced post of eight men, taking four more forward. He encountered a large enemy party, and, attacking at once, forced them to surrender. But before they could be disarmed the Bosche officer, realizing the weakness of his opponents, shot the N.C.O. and opened fire. With utter disregard of danger, and in face of enormous odds, Lieut. MacLeod and one man gallantly stood their ground, covering the withdrawal. Later, in face of direct machine-gun fire, he made his way out, and succeeded in carrying the wounded N.C.O. to safety.

MCLEAN, CHARLES HENRY (name Henry corrected to Herbert), Major, 4th Canadian Mounted Rifle Batta., 1st Central Ontario Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Valenciennes on 1 Nov. 1918. With a view to locating points for bridging the Escout Canal, he and one man crossed it on an improvised bridge of a plank, raft and boat. Here he was immediately engaged by a machine gun, which he at once attacked, killing one man, and holding the remainder at bay until assistance arrived, when he captured the machine gun and ten men. A post was thus established, which enabled a crossing to be effected on the entire battalion frontage without a casualty.

MILLAR, JOHN MACINTOSH, M.C., Major, 85th Batta. Canadian Infantry, Nova Scotia Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and fine leadership in command of his battalion in the operations near Valenciennes from 24 Oct. to 6 Nov. 1918. In the attempts to cross the Canal de L'Escaut on the 25th and 26th Oct., he displayed the greatest courage and perseverance under intense machine-gun fire in securing information, which ultimately proved of the utmost value in the final crossing on 1 Nov. His work throughout that period was of the highest order, and his pluck and endurance were an inspiration to all ranks.

PLUMMER, MAURICE VERNON, Major, 51st (Howitzer) Battery, 13th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Valenciennes on 2 Nov. 1918, and preceding days, while acting in command of an artillery brigade in support of infantry, when his courage and untiring efforts materially assisted in the capture of the city. By a daring reconnaissance on 1 Nov. he so placed his forward batteries that they were able to engage hostile machine guns so effectually as to enable the infantry to cross the canal with slight casualties.

PURVIS, EDSON RUSSELL, Major, 47th Batta. Canadian Infantry, Western Ontario Regt. For conspicuous gallantry and fine leadership during operations near Valenciennes from the 17th to 21st Oct. 1918, when acting as second in command, and in charge of the advanced headquarters of the battalion. Throughout that period he made several daring reconnaissances, and carried out most valuable liaison work, during much of which he was obliged to cross open ground swept by machine-gun fire and rifle fire from snipers. Later he assumed command of the battalion, and handled the attack with the greatest courage and ability.

TRELEAVEN, GEORGE WILLARD, M.C., Major, 4th Field Ambulance, Canadian Army Medical Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty from 5 to 10 Nov. 1918, in the Valenciennes-Mons area, in charge of the evacuation of casualties from the forward area of the division. For five days he was continuously under fire in the open, selecting aid posts and superintending the evacuation of the wounded. He frequently led stretcher parties forward across open ground fully exposed to enemy fire, and his disregard of danger was a splendid example to all ranks.

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

HOUGHTON, SYDNEY ROBERT, M.C., Capt., 12th Batta. Australian Infantry. Near Jeancourt, on 18 Sept. 1918, his company had to advance over 2,500 yards before attaining their objective. SOUTH AFRICAN FORCE.

CHRISTIAN, EWAN, D.S.O., M.C., Temporary Lieut.-Colonel, 2nd Battn. South African Infantry (France). He commanded his battalion during the operations 21-24 March, 1918, in a most able and courageous manner. Though very heavily attacked on the 21st and 22nd, he held his ground until ordered to withdraw. On the 22nd, when the enemy were within a few hundred yards of battalion headquarters, he sent back the majority of the brigade staff, and stayed behind to extricate the remains of his battalion, which was pressed very heavily from the front and flank. This he succeeded in doing. On the 24th also he did excellent work.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1 Jan. 1918.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

FRASER, JAMES DONALD, Capt. (Acting Major), 32nd Lancers, Indian Army (Mesopotamia). For marked gallantry and good leadership when in command of a small force heavily attacked for 24 hours, on 30-31 May, 1919, at Qarah Anjir. He inspired all ranks to greater efforts, and maintained a stout defence until the arrival of reinforcements.

SOUTH AFRICAN FORCE.

BEVERLEY, ROBERT, M.C., Temporary Capt., 2nd Battn. South African Infantry (France). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when, as acting Brigade Major, on the 22nd March, 1919, he conveyed important orders under heavy fire to all battalion headquarters, and by personal reconnaissance gained valuable information. On the 24th March he again displayed great courage in the performance of his duties under heavy machine-gun and shell fire.

London Gazette, 21 Jan. 1920.—" War Office, 21 Jan. 1920. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following immediate awards for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in North Russia conferred by Major-General C. C. M. Maynard, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. in pursuance of the powers vested in him by His Majesty."

MURMANSK COMMAND.

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

BLENNERHASSETT, WILLIAM LEWIS ROWLAND PAUL SEBASTIAN, Temporary Capt., Special List, Intelligence Department. For conspicuous gallantry near Siding on 11 June, 1919, when doing intelligence duties. On the advance of the Russian troops being held up he collected three men and led an advance under heavy fire, thereby assisting greatly in re-establishing the situation. As intelligence officer in charge forward area he has rendered invaluable services in controlling an area of some 3,000 square miles.

BURROWS, MONTAGUE BROCAS, Lieut. (Acting Major), 5th Dragoon Guards. For gallant and able leadership of a landing party on the night of the 13th-14th Sept. 1919. He took his party of 120 men across 15 miles of Lake Omega, this part being in the hands of the enemy, landed them near Vate Navolok, 21 versts in rear of the enemy front line, and captured the garrison of this place. He then took his party on to the railway west of Vate Navolok, and by his skillful dispositions greatly assisted the column operating on the railway.

CHURCH, ARCHIBALD GEORGE, M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), Royal Garrison Artillery, Special Reserve, attached 434th Battery, 6th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery. For conspicuous gallantry and zeal during the operations from Medveja-gora to Unitsa, 8 June to 26 July, 1919. When the Russian infantry were driven back near Perguba he pushed his guns up to the front line and restored the situation by his accurate shooting. At Fedotova, on the 22nd June, under heavy shelling, he kept his guns in action, silencing the enemy and causing them to move their guns.

HAYHURST-FRANCE, GEORGE FREDERICK HAYHURST, Capt., M.C., King's Royal Rifle Corps. He has commanded the Special Service Coy., King's Royal Rifle Corps, with conspicuous success. During the various engagements in which the company took part, especially on 12 May, 12 June, and the 3-6 July, 1919, he carried out daring reconnaissances of the enemy positions, bringing information of great assistance to the column commander in his plan of attack. Many casualties were avoided owing to these reconnaissances.

MATHER, JAMES HENRY (Christian name corrected from James Henry to John Hugh [London Gazette, 5 March, 1920], Temporary Major, Royal Engineers (Lieut.-Commander, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty, on the 5th June, 1919, before Shunski Bor, Lake Omega. When in command of four motor boats he engaged four enemy steamers, carrying many heavy guns, in order to relieve the Russians who were being heavily attacked. Notwithstanding the disparity in armament he caused the enemy vessels to retire south and so enabled the Russians to counter-attack with success. He showed throughout great courage and devotion to duty and set a fine example to all.

SMALL, EDWARD ALFRED, Temporary Lieut., General List. He, with 37 partisans, gallantly penetrated into the rear of the Bolshevik lines and captured the complete brigade staff, including brigade commander, regimental commander and 50 prisoners, and took away the breach block of a 3 in. gun. On 23 June he penetrated further into the Bolshevik lines and burnt the Suna Bridge. At Suna Station they surprised the guards, capturing two machine guns.

CANADIAN FORCE.

STIBBARD, CLAUDE CHARLES, Lieut. (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), Canadian Infantry, Manitoba Regt. For valuable service, from 1 Feb. 1919, to 22 July, 1919, as D.A.D. of Railways, Syren Force. During May, June and July his work has been chiefly in the forward area of the Murmansk front, where he has shown untiring energy and a personal disregard of danger in connection with the work of repair of the railway at all possible speed.

ARCHANGEL COMMAND.

Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

GALE, HENRY JOHN GORDON, D.S.O., Major, Royal Artillery. Throughout the operations on the Kodish front between 28 and 30 Aug. 1919, he showed great gallantry. He carried out the duties of F.O.O., and without any regard to his personal safety, remained near the enemy's wire, so as to be able to ensure the accuracy of the artillery fire.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3 June, 1918.)

HARCOURT, HARRY GLADWIN, D.S.O., M.C., Lieut. (Acting Major), Royal Dublin Fusiliers, attached Machine Gun Corps. For great gallantry and good leadership in command of a company on 20 Aug. 1919. His guide led him to the wrong objective, and the company unexpectedly came under heavy fire. He showed great coolness and ability, and finally, with the assistance of another company, took the main battery position. He was wounded early in the action.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26 July, 1918.)

PERCIVAL, ARTHUR ERNEST, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major, Essex Regt., attached 45th Battn. Royal Fusiliers (Lieut.-Colonel, Bedfordshire Regt.). He commanded the Gorodok column on the 9th-10th Aug. 1919, with great gallantry and skill, and owing to the success of this column the force on the right bank of the Dvina were able to capture all its objectives. During the enemy counter-attack from Selmenga on Gorodok he handled his men excellently. The enemy were repulsed with great loss, leaving 400 prisoners in our hands.

(D.S.O. gazetted 16 Sept. 1918.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

HEATON, HARRY, M.C., Temporary Capt., 10th Battn. Durham Light Infantry, attached 45th Battn. Royal Fusiliers. On the 10th Aug. 1919, during attacks on Kochamika, Sludka and Lipovets, he was commanding the battalion. He personally led his troops in all these attacks, and showed conspicuous gallantry and efficiency throughout under heavy fire, taking all objectives.

LYLE, WILLIAM JAMES, M.C., Capt., 2nd Battn. Highland Light Infantry. On 31 Aug. 1919, and throughout the operations of the attack on Emtsa, he showed great gallantry. As liaison officer he led his Russian company in the attack on the redoubt system, and set a most inspiring example to his men.

NORTHCOTE, ARTHUR FREDERICK, Major, Devonshire Regt., attached 1st Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry. For gallant and able leadership in the attack on Ust Vaga, on the 1st Sept. 1919. Although his headquarters were surrounded, he organized the defence, took the offensive and cleared the village of the enemy. He also did good service in the raid on Ignatovskaya on 26-27 June, 1919.

ROLFE, CLIVE NEVILLE, D.S.O., Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy.

London Gazette, 1 April, 1920.—"Air Ministry, Kingsway, London, W.C.2. His Majesty the King has been pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards being conferred in recognition of gallant and distinguished services."

ROYAL AIR FORCE.

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order :

ANDERSON, WALTER FRASER, Flight-Lieut. (Pilot).

MITCHELL, JOHN, Observer Officer (Observer). "C" Flight, 47th Squadron.

On 30 July, 1919, near Cherni Yar (Volga), these officers were Pilot and Observer respectively on a D.H.9 machine, which descended to an altitude of 1,000 feet to take oblique photographs of the enemy's positions. A second machine of the same flight, which followed as escort, was completely disabled by machine-gun fire, and forced to land five miles behind the enemy's foremost troops. Parties of hostile cavalry which attempted to capture the pilot and observer of the crashed machine were kept away by the observer's Lewis gun whilst the pilot burnt the machine. Flight Lieut. Anderson, notwithstanding that his petrol tank had been pierced by a machine-gun bullet, landed alongside the wrecked aeroplane, picked up the pilot and observer, and got safely home. The risk involved in attempting this gallant rescue was very great, as had any accident occurred in landing, the fate of all four officers can only be conjectured. The difficult circumstances of the rescue will be fully appreciated when it is remembered that Observer Officer Mitchell had to mount the port plane to stop the holes in the petrol tank with his thumbs for a period of 50 minutes' flying on the return journey.

FROGLEY, GILBERT, D.F.C., Flying Officer, "A" Detachment (3/Royal Berkshire). A fleet of about 40 Bolshevik vessels, armed with all descriptions of guns, having broken through the defences of the Volunteer Army, commenced a bombardment of Tzaritzin. Flying Officer Frogley led a formation of machines on 15 Oct. 1919, and at a height of 1,000 feet dropped his bombs with such effect that the fleet was dispersed, several vessels having been destroyed. During a period of four months this officer has rendered invaluable services in South Russia. (The award of Distinguished Flying Cross is announced in this Gazette.)

KINKAD, SAMUEL MARCUS, Flying Officer, D.S.C., D.F.C. (late Highland Light Infantry and Royal Naval Air Service), "A" Detachment. On 12 Oct. 1919, near Koltuban, this officer led a formation of Camel machines and attacked the Cavalry Division of Damenko. By skilful tactics in low flying he dispersed this force, which had turned the left flank of the Caucasian Army and threatened to jeopardize the whole defence of Tzaritzin. Flying Officer Kinkad has carried out similar attacks on enemy troops, batteries, camps and transport with great success and at considerable personal risk.

Previous rewards: D.S. Cross, 22 Feb. 1918; Bar to D.S. Cross, 26 April, 1918; D.F. Cross, 3 Aug. 1918; Bar to D.F. Cross, 2 Nov. 1918 (201st Squadron, France).

To be dated 1 Jan. 1920. Awarded a Bar to the distinguished Service Order."

LEE, STANLAKE SWINTON, D.S.O., Capt. (Temporary Major), Royal Artillery. (D.S.O. gazetted 25 Aug. 1917.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order :

BARRETT, ARTHUR LENNARD, Lieut.-Colonel, 2/33rd Punjab, Indian Army.

COAKER, VERE ARTHUR, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 3rd Skinner's Horse, Indian Army.

COOPER, WILLIAM ROWLAND FREDERIC, M.C., Capt., 1st Dragoon Guards.

DODD, PERCY CHARLES RUSSELL, Major, 31st Lancers, Indian Army, Commanding Kurram Militia.

DOYLE, ERIC EDWARD, Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Major), Indian Medical Service.

FOX, EDWARD VIGOR, Lieut.-Colonel, 2nd Battn. North Staffordshire Regt.

GRIFFITH, LLEWELYN, Major, 107th Pioneers, Indian Army.

HOUSTON, ARTHUR MANSON, Lieut.-Colonel, 1/69th Punjab, Indian Army.

HUNT, WILLIAM MORGAN, M.C., Major, No. 8 Mountain Battery, No. 1 British Mountain Artillery Brigade, Royal Garrison Artillery.

JOHNSON, ALLEN EDWIN, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 2/1st, attached 1/11th, Gurkha Rifles, Indian Army.

KEOGH, JOHN HENRY, Lieut.-Colonel, No. 1 British Artillery Brigade, Royal Garrison Artillery.

MEIN, DESBRISAY BLUNDELL, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), 55th Coke's Rifles, Indian Army.

REILLY, NOEL EDMUND, Major, Chitral Scouts, Indian Army.

ROSS, HARRY, Lieut.-Colonel, 1/103rd Mahratta Light Infantry, Indian Army.

RUSSELL, GUY HAMILTON, Major, 126th Baluchistan Infantry, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 27 Sept. 1920.—"War Office, 27 Sept. 1920. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards for distinguished service in the field in South Russia. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

McPHERSON, ANGUS, M.C., D.C.M., Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and Machine Gun Corps. For gallantry and devotion to duty during the fighting round Odessa, at the end of Jan. 1920. Capt.

McPherson particularly distinguished himself by his excellent work with his Machine Gun School Cadets, who would follow him anywhere, and who were used in the defence of the town at the last moment. He set a fine example of courage and devotion to duty.

WILLIAMSON, HUDLESTON NOEL HEDWORTH, M.C., Major, Royal Field Artillery. For gallantry and devotion to duty at Celeschina, on 27 July, 1919, when he assisted a young Russian officer who was fighting an 18-pounder gun against an armoured train at 3,000 yards' range. The fire from the train was heavy, and it was entirely due to Major Williamson's advice and presence that the duel ended in favour of the single 18-pounder.

"His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the under-mentioned rewards for distinguished service in the field with the Waziristan Force, India. Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order."

JATAR, NILKANTH SHIRIRAM, D.S.O., Capt., Indian Med cal Service, attached 2/76th Punjabis, Indian Army. For gallantry near Kotkal, on 5 Jan. 1920, when, during a withdrawal under heavy fire, he rendered valuable assistance in bringing in wounded, and, whilst doing so, was himself severely wounded. (D.S.O. gazetted 4 June, 1917.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

CATTERSON-SMITH, THOMAS MERVYN OSBORNE, Capt., 1/12th Pioneers, attached 3/34th Sikh Pioneers, Indian Army. For gallantry at Pioneer Piquet, on 21 Dec. 1919. Owing to the retirement of the covering party, his working party was suddenly attacked in force and surrounded. By his coolness, sound leadership and example, he inspired his men and repulsed five assaults. Though twice wounded he remained in control, and did not withdraw his command till all ammunition had been expended.

EXHAM, HAROLD, O.B.E., Major, 2/7th, attached 2/9th, Gurkha Rifles, Indian Army. For cool courage and fine leadership. On the 14th Jan. 1920, when the Commanding Officer of the 2/5th Gurkha Rifles had been killed and the battalion and the accompanying troops had sustained very heavy casualties, Major Exham was ordered to take over command. By fine leadership and determination he succeeded in holding a position with very few troops against several strongly pressed enemy attacks. Again at Makin, on the 21st Feb. 1920, he commanded the 2/5th Gurkha Rifles, and carried out successfully a difficult operation under heavy fire, and subsequently extricated his advanced companies and a considerable number of wounded by skilful handling of his command.

FAGAN, HERBERT ARCHER, M.C., Lieut. (Temporary Capt.), 2/9th Gurkha Rifles, Indian Army. For gallantry and determination on several occasions, particularly at Sorarogha, on the 18th Jan., and at Makin, on the 19th Feb. 1920. In the first instance he was in charge of a company ordered to establish a piquet in a position which was much exposed and commanded by fire. He set a fine example in beating off attacks and in attempting to establish the piquet. Subsequently he withdrew his company with great skill. In the second instance he again showed gallantry and leadership, when troops on the left were ordered to withdraw.

"His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the under-mentioned reward for distinguished service in the field in Mesopotamia. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

ROBERTSON, DONALD ELPHINSTON, Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel, 11th Lancers, Indian Army. For gallantry and skilful leadership near Qutrayah, on the 9th June, 1920, when, having been attacked by superior forces, he was forced to retire. His dispositions were most judicious, and he inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy, and, when reinforced, his vigorous offensive was most effective.

London Gazette, 28 Oct. 1920.—"War Office, 28 Oct. 1920. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward for distinguished services in the field in Mesopotamia." Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

GORING, CHARLES HUBERT, M.C., Lieut., Royal Fusiliers, attached Motor Machine Gun Corps. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attack on a motor convoy near the Wadi Sefrah on the 12th May, 1920, when about 150 of the enemy opened fire on the convoy at very close range. By the skilful use of his cars and his determination the convoy was able to get through. Subsequently he returned three times and recovered the loads and wounded off four vans that had been destroyed by enemy fire. He set a magnificent example to all.

"His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the under-mentioned reward for distinguished service in connection with military service with the army in the Black Sea. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

LYELL, ALFRED GEORGE, Major, 2/30th Garhwal Rifles, Indian Army For consistent good work in the field as battalion commander in the recent operations against the Nationalist Forces, and, in particular, on the 21st June, 1920, near Beglik Dagh, when, his battalion coming under heavy fire from a concealed enemy, by skilful dispositions he inflicted considerable loss and caused them to retire. The efficient handling of his battalion on the 13th July, 1920, also contributed largely to the success of the action at Gebze.

London Gazette, 29 Nov. 1920.—"War Office, 29 Nov. 1920. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, Somaliland Protectorate, to approve of the undermentioned rewards in recognition of distinguished services rendered in connection with military operations in Somaliland. To be dated 1 Oct. 1920. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

GIBB, ALLAN, D.C.M., Capt., Tribal Levy, late Somaliland Camel Corps. ISMAY, HASTINGS LIONEL, Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Lieut.-Colonel), 21st Cavalry, Indian Army, attached Somaliland Camel Corps.

LAWRANCE, ARTHUR SALISBURY, Major, Reserve of Officers, retired Territorial Force, late Somaliland Camel Corps.

London Gazette, 14 Jan. 1921.—"Admiralty, S.W., 14 Jan. 1921. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following honours to the under-mentioned Officers. Honours for Services in Asia Minor, 1920. To be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order."

WELLS, LIONEL VICTOR, Commander, Royal Navy.

HYNES, WILLIAM BAYARD, Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy.

To receive a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order:

WILLIAMS-FREEMAN, FREDERICK ARTHUR PEERE, D.S.O., Lieut.-Commander, Royal Navy.

London Gazette, 20 Jan. 1921.—"War Office, 20 Jan. 1921. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward, on the recommendation of the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, for distinguished service in the field in Mesopotamia. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

MAINWARING, GUY ROWLAND, Major, 1/39th Garhwal Rifles, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 20 Jan. 1921.—"War Office, 20 Jan. 1921. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward, on the recommendation of the Government of India, in recognition of distinguished service in the field in connection with military operations in South Persia. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

MUNN, FREDERICK LEIGH RICHMOND, M.C., Capt., 46th Punjabis, Indian Army. For gallantry and good leadership at Tul Ashki on 22 July, 1920, when he fearlessly exposed himself to very heavy fire in order to encourage his command and to restore "moral" after an ambush. As a result, he was able to press home the attack, which ended in complete success.

London Gazette, 15 March, 1921.—"War Office, 15 March, 1921. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the under-mentioned award for distinguished services rendered in Palestine. To be dated 15 Dec. 1920. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

HUTCHISON, JOHN ROBERT, Major, 38th Central India Horse, Indian Army. On the 24th April, 1920, when Semakh was heavily attacked by Arab tribesmen and Bedouins, Major Hutchison displayed great ability in the organization of the few troops at his disposal for the defence of an extended area. The situation was for some time critical, and the small garrison in danger of being overcome. It was due to this officer's able handling of the situation that the attack was definitely repulsed before reinforcements could reach him.

London Gazette, 21 April, 1921.—"War Office, 21 April, 1921. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward for distinguished services in the field with the Waziristan Force, India. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

JONES, WALTER HENRY CLULEE, Lieut., 2/127th Baluchistan Light Infantry, Indian Army. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Sorarogha on the 14th Jan. 1921. When the road protection troops were attacked by Mahsuds, he continued to command his men for over three hours, although three times wounded.

London Gazette, 10 June, 1921.—"War Office, 10 June, 1921. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards, on the recommendation of the Government of India, for distinguished service in the field with the Waziristan Force. To be dated 1 August, 1920. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

BIRCH, VALENTINE KINGSTON, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 29th Lancers, Indian Army.

COLLINGRIDGE, HERBERT FREDERIC, Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 9th Gurkha Rifles, Indian Army.

MOLYNEUX, PHILIP LUCAS, Capt., Indian Army, attached 39th Garhwal Rifles.

WISE, ALAN DOUGLAS, Major, 27th Light Cavalry, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 17 June, 1921.—"War Office, 17 June, 1921. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward on the recommendation of the Government of India, for distinguished services rendered in connection with minor military operations within the Indian Empire (or in territories adjacent thereto). To be dated 14 Oct. 1920. Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order."

FRASER, WILLIAM ARCHIBALD KENNETH, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. and Brevet Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 39th Central India Horse, Indian Army. (D.S.O. awarded London Gazette dated 12 Sept. 1919.)

London Gazette, 10 Aug. 1921.—"War Office, 10 Aug. 1921. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards for distinguished services in the field in Mesopotamia. Awarded a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order."

GASKELL, HERBERT STUART, D.S.O., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), Royal Engineers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst commanding a column operating in the Qaraltu Qisil Robat area, between the 18th and 28th Aug. 1920. During this period the column relieved two isolated posts, and fought three actions against a determined and numerically superior enemy. Although his troops were mainly young and untrained soldiers, he inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy, and cleared the area effectively. His many successes were mainly due to his rapid appreciation of a situation and his total disregard of danger. (D.S.O. gazetted 14 Jan. 1916.)

SCOTT, HENRY LAWRENCE, D.S.O., M.C., Major and Brevet Lieut.-Colonel, 1/1st (with 1/10th) Gurkha Rifles, Indian Army. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 19th July, 1920, near Rumattha. On his own initiative he marched his column to the sound of the guns, and brought reinforcements at a critical moment. Later, by his capable handling of the battalion against a very superior enemy, he established a position across the river, and so enabled the whole force to get water which was urgently required. It was owing to his gallant example and bold leadership that the operations throughout the day were successful. (D.S.O. gazetted 25 Aug. 1917.)

Awarded the Distinguished Service Order:

BEALES, WILLIAM LEWIS, Capt., 1/94th Infantry, Indian Army. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 19/20 Aug. 1920, at Kifri. He was despatched from camp at night with two sections of his unit to reinforce a platoon which was being attacked by approximately 500 hostile tribesmen. Capt. Beales attempted to enter the village by the main street, but met with such opposition that he was compelled to withdraw. He then endeavoured to force an entrance by another route, and after two hours' heavy fighting reached the platoon. Though under close fire of the enemy, he so inspired his men by his determination and absolute disregard of danger that the insurgents were forced to retire. When the officer commanding the platoon was severely wounded he carried him under fire to a place of safety about 400 yards in rear, and then directed the retirement of his force. Had it not been for his pluck and the skilful handling of his men in face of overwhelming odds, it is doubtful whether the troops engaged would have been extricated.

BRADNEY, EDWARD, Capt. and Brevet Major, Royal Engineers. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at Tuwariz on the 12th Oct. 1920, whilst in command of a Field Company of Sappers and Miners, during an attempt to save a bridge from destruction by the insurgents, and in the saving of another. This officer, by his daring and coolness under heavy fire at close quarters, inspired his command to a rigid determination, which was rewarded by a success of considerable importance. On all occasions he has set a fine example of fearless leadership.

CAMPBELL, ROY NEIL BOYD, O.B.E., Major, 1/23rd Pioneers (with 3/23rd Infantry), Indian Army. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 11th Nov. 1920, during an attack on Falbah, when his men were becoming disheartened owing to the shortage of ammunition. They were in an unfavourable position, and being heavily counter-attacked at very close quarters. Regardless of danger, Major Campbell sprang out from cover, and, shouting the Sikhs' war cry, led a successful bayonet charge with the most beneficial results. The success of this operation was mainly due to his fine example.

CONNOP, HARRY ERNEST, Major, 35th Scinde Horse, Indian Army. For bold and skilful handling of two squadrons at Kufa, on the 17th Oct. 1920. He led two mounted attacks against the insurgents, sabreing three himself. He then seized an important tactical feature, from which considerable loss was inflicted on the enemy, and supported the main advance by machine-gun fire. Throughout his handling of the cavalry he showed marked ability and power of command.

HANNA, ARTHUR LESLIE, Lieut., 11th Lancers, Indian Army. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 11th Aug. 1920, at Shalk-Ibrahim. He was sent up with a troop to reinforce a squadron which was heavily engaged. While passing over the open he saw a dismounted man wave to him. He at once galloped over and found a wounded man who had been stripped of his clothing and equipment by the Arabs. While endeavouring to lift the man on to his horse the enemy opened heavy fire, one bullet passing through his coat. Lieut. Hanna got the man on to his horse and brought him safely in.

HAY, ARTHUR SIDNEY, Major, 31st Lancers, attached 114th Mahrattas, Indian Army. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the siege of Samawah, from July to Sept. 1920. The situation was often critical and the conditions under which the troops had to live were most trying, owing to the intense heat and shortage of rations. Major Hay, by his cheerful endurance and unremitting zeal, not only overcame the many difficulties with which he had to contend, but also set a fine example of courage and devotion to duty.

NORBURY, PAUL FITZGERALD, Major, 34th Poona Horse, Indian Army, attached Political Department. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the siege of Kufah, from the 20th July to 17th Oct. 1920. On one occasion, when a corner of the defences had been set on fire by the insurgents, Major Norbury and one other officer, with a small party, broke through the defences to discover the place from which the fire was originating. This party was heavily fired on by the enemy, and the other officer was killed, but Major Norbury remained outside until he had obtained the necessary information to enable the garrison to successfully extinguish the fire. Throughout the siege his cheerfulness and disregard of personal danger afforded a fine example to the garrison.

London Gazette, 9 Sept. 1921.—"War Office, 9 Sept. 1921. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards for distinguished service in connection with military operations in Mesopotamia. To be dated 7 Feb. 1921. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

BOYLE, CECIL ALEXANDER, Capt. and Brevet Major (Temporary Major), 11th Lancers, Indian Army.

KNIGHT, JOHN HERVEY, Major, Royal Garrison Artillery.

MITCHELL, HAY STEWART, Major, 1/32nd Sikh Pioneers, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 25 Nov. 1921.—"War Office, 25 Nov. 1921. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards for distinguished services in the field in Iraq. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

LUBBOCK, MERLIN GORDON, M.C., Major, Royal Field Artillery, employed Mesopotamian Railways. For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the period 30 July, 1920, to the 8th Aug. 1920, during the withdrawal from Diwaniyeh to Hillah, and especially for his daring reconnaissances, firstly, on the 1st Aug. 1920, when he rode ahead of a cavalry screen into Guchan, and having arranged for co-operation with the garrison at that place, returned with very valuable information, and secondly, on the 4th Aug. 1920, near Jerbuliyah, on which occasion he had to be called back owing to the danger of his being cut off by the enemy.

London Gazette, 19 Dec. 1922.—"War Office, 19 Dec. 1922. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned rewards for distinguished service in the field with the Waziristan Force, 1920-1921. To be dated 23 Oct. 1921. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

GRANT, JOHN DUNCAN, V.C., Lieut.-Colonel, 13th Rajputs, Indian Army.

HOGG, WILLOUGHBY LUGARD, Major, 3rd Brahmans, Indian Army.

LICKMAN, HARRY SYLVANUS, Capt. (Acting Major), Royal Garrison Artillery.

LOW, GORDON STEWART, Major, Royal Artillery.

MORROGH, WALTER FRANCIS, M.C., Capt. (Acting Major), Leinster Rifles and Machine Gun Corps.

PAIGE, CYRIL PENROSE, C.I.E., Major (Acting Lieut.-Colonel), 109th Infantry, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 3 April, 1923.—"War Office, 3 April, 1923. The King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward for distinguished service rendered in the field with the Waziristan Force, April, 1921, to December, 1921. To be dated 24 May, 1922. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

JACKSON, DAVID ROBERT HENRY, Major, 2/16th Gurkha Rifles, Indian Army.

London Gazette, 25 May, 1923.—"War Office, 25 May, 1923. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward for distinguished service in the field with the Waziristan Force. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

PARSONS, ARTHUR EDWARD BROADBENT, O.B.E., Major, 2nd Battn., 12th Frontier Force, Indian Army. As Political Officer he volunteered to fly as a passenger with the Royal Air Force Squadrons in bombing operations against the hostile Mahsuds, whose location in difficult country it was hardly possible to find except under his personal guidance. This he has done on several occasions with complete success, and has shown conspicuous daring and initiative in finding the targets. While guiding the raid on the Jelal Khel on 24th Dec. 1922, he was severely wounded in the arm while flying at a low altitude. His gallantry has been of the greatest value to the Royal Air Force in enabling them to find and deal with their objective.

London Gazette, 12 June, 1923.—"War Office, 12 June, 1923. His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the undermentioned reward for distinguished service in the field with the Razmak Force. Awarded the Distinguished Service Order."

DEED, LESLIE CHARLES BERTRAM, Major, Royal Engineers.

EXPLANATORY NOTE TO INDEX

The letters " L. G." mean " The London Gazette." The material extracts from all the Gazettes referred to which have been published since the 1st January, 1916, will be found in the first part of this volume.

A compound surname should be looked for in the different parts of the name, but it is believed that all such names have cross references.

Details are sometimes given in the Index of the deed for which the D.S.O. was awarded. In some cases this has been done because the London Gazette has not recorded it ; in others, to give additional information.

The words " served European War " have been omitted from some of the entries, but it may be taken generally that all who were decorated with the D.S.O. after the beginning of the War served in it in some form or other.

Fuller records of the holders of the D.S.O. who have also won the V.C. will be found in the volume " The Victoria Cross," published by the same publishers.

Sir W. B. Barttelot.

I. U. Battye.

Gazette says of Capt. Baxter: "At the engagement at Malangali on the 24th July, this officer was in command of part of the force which was attacked by the enemy in far superior numbers. He showed great ability in the disposition of his forces, and by his coolness under heavy and accurate maxim and rifle fire, maintained the confidence of his men and repulsed the enemy with considerable losses. He also assisted No. 108 Rifleman A. A. Vial (1st South African Rifles) to bring off 2nd Lieut. McKenzie, who was severely wounded, under a heavy and accurate machine-gun fire."

Sussex Pioneers; Despatches three times. He fell "mortally wounded by a shell at Iries about 5 p.m. on the 10th March, 1917, when carrying out a reconnaissance with Col. Henderson, R.E. Henderson was killed on the spot, and Chase succumbed the same evening, shortly after reaching hospital, and so died a hero of heroes. He was buried on the 11th in the military cemetery at Aveluy, a small village two miles from Albert" (extract from letter of Brig-Gen. Richard P. Lee, R.E.). The funeral service was conducted by the Chaplain to the Forces—the 8th Royal Sussex Pioneers—the Rev. R. Douglas Canadine, who wrote that he had laid to rest a "very gallant soldier and gentleman." The Commander of the Division with which Col. Chase was associated, Sir Ivor Maxse, also wrote: "I used to look upon Chase as the very best type of British officer in every respect. He was a real leader of men as well as a thoughtful and most capable Staff officer. . . . He possessed that quality which endeared him to all true soldiers, and did much for the division to which he was attached." Col. Chase was recommended for decoration by Col. Evans, and his grandfather, curiously, was decorated by Queen Isabella of Spain on the recommendation of an officer also named Evans.

GALLAUGHER, H. (D.S.O. L.G. 22.9.16); b. Ralleighan, Manorcunningham, Co. Donegal; s. of John Gallagher and Jane Park Gallagher (née Campbell); educ. The Model School, Londonderry; Dr. Moffat's Private Academy, Letterkenny; commissioned in the Donegal and Fermanagh Volunteers 21.9.14; Capt., 11th R. Innis. Fusiliers, 2.7.16; served Europ. War; Despatches twice; recommended for the V.C. and also for the Legion of Honour. He was a Company Commander in the Manorcunningham Ulster Volunteer Force when he volunteered his services on the outbreak of war. He was appointed Battalion Transport Officer. Before the fighting of July, 1916, he volunteered to take part in the attack and was given command of a platoon. The following was written of Capt. H. Gallagher: "This officer was the only officer of the Battalion to return unwounded of those who went forward in the attack on the German lines at R.19.d. and R.25.b. on 1.7.16. After Captain Sewell was killed he took charge and led the men to their objective—the Crucifix at R.19.d.9.3. On the way at R.19.b.2.1, he noticed Germans firing on our wounded, and got into a shell-hole with Private Toland and shot six German snipers with his orderly's rifle. When at the Crucifix he had only nine men, with which he erected barricades on the right flank. He then went back to the German front line and collected a number of men, some of which he placed under Corporal Porterfield on a barricade, the remainder he brought back again to the Crucifix. In carrying out these details he came in contact with several parties of Germans, which he killed or took prisoners. On arriving at the Crucifix he found Major Gaffkin, 9th Rl. Irish Rifles, in command, and he returned to 'B' line, where his Battalion was. He also carried in, with Lieut. Austin, 10th Rl. Innis. Fus., a wounded officer (2nd Lt. M. Jackson, of a Trench Mortar Battery) from the enemy's wire to our own lines. After the Battalion was relieved from Thiéval Wood and were stationed at Martinart Wood on the night of 3/4 in July, this officer, along with Captain Moore and 20 men, volunteered to proceed back to the trenches and rescue wounded from 'No Man's Land.' This party rescued 28 wounded men between the hours of 10 p.m. and 2.30 a.m." Capt. Gallagher was killed in action 7.6.17.

His D.S.O. was awarded for gallantry in France on 1.7.16. At the time of Captain Gallagher's death Lt.-Col. A. C. Pratt, commanding 11th Bn. R. Innis. Fus., wrote to Capt. Gallagher's father: "It is with heartfelt sympathy that I write to tell you that your son was killed at the head of his company while leading them on to victory on the Messines-Wytschaete ridge. He had been wounded in the shoulder soon after the attack started, but he gamely carried on until he was killed close to our objective. His loss is most keenly felt by us; he was universally beloved and was one of the finest characters I have ever met; he was a true soldier, and a great leader and organiser." The following is an extract from a letter written by Captain Gallagher to his father in July, 1916: "I am sorry some of our boys are missing. We all expected them to give a good account of themselves. I don't think Ulstermen have betrayed the trust, and I think the Inniskillings led the way. We are all proud of our old 100th Brigade; it was the first Brigade complimented by the Army Commander."

On leaving Cooper's Hill he took up an appointment in Madras (1899), but on being offered a commission in the R.A. joined the R.G.A. on 2.5.00. He served in India and Burma; was appointed to a British Mountain Battery, and saw service during the Kelat Expedition in 1908. He went to France, Sept. 1914; served for a time with the R.G.A., but was given command of 85th Bn. R.F.A., 11th Brigade, in April, 1915, and was present at most of the principal battles from that time, being continually in action, usually with the Australian and Canadian Forces in the neighbourhood of Ypres. For about 10 weeks in the Somme Battle, from early in Aug. 1916. On 7.4.17, after a very heavy close bombardment near Arras to prevent the Germans bringing up supplies on the Vimy Ridge, Major Hutton-Squire and three other officers being together in their hut, a shell burst in their midst, killing one officer instantaneously and mortally wounding Major Hutton-Squire and one other. Both of them died the following day (Easter Day), and all three lie in Barlin Cemetery.

R. H. E. Hutton-Squire.

His Colonel wrote of him: "He was beloved by all. He was such a good friend, and so absolutely indifferent to danger—nothing upset his nerves—and a sound gunner. He had wonderful patience and power of observation, and the reports he sent in were most valuable; he was my right hand and mainstay. We all mourn him as a real warm-hearted friend and most gallant soldier."

He was more than once mentioned in Despatches, and on 4.1.17 by General Sir Douglas (now F.M. Lord) Haig for gallant and distinguished service in the field. He was a keen sportsman and excellent shot, and during his Indian service he made two expeditions to Upper Cashmere and Ladakh in 1905 and 1908, bringing back many fine specimens of markhor, ovis ammon, ibex, etc.

JOHNSTON, CHARLES ERNEST (D.S.O. L.G. 2.12.18); 2nd s. of Col. C. T. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston; m. 1919, Irene Storey; three d.; educ. Malvern College; Recruiting Officer for Morayshire, Scotland, 1914; appointed to raise the 3/6th Batt. Seaforth's, 1915; Major, Seaforth Highrs.; sent to France as Second-in-Command of 6th Seaforth's, 1917; served Europ. War; Despatches twice; was reported missing 23.3.18; officially presumed killed in action on that date 10.2.19.

The following is an account of the deed for which the award of the D.S.O. was given: During the operations east of Bapaume this Officer was in command of his battalion in the Beaumont-Merches line, south-east of Beaumont, on 21-23.18, and also in a line behind Beaumont 23.3.18. Although subjected to a heavy hostile artillery and machine-gun barrage, he moved about, supervising his dispositions and encouraging his men to make a firm stand to the last. When the enemy broke through on the left of the battalion, he, with great skill and daring, organized a defensive flank on the Cambrai road, which prevented the enemy entering Beaumont. When the battalion received orders to withdraw to a new line behind Beaumont, this Officer personally organized and supervised this withdrawal and the taking up of the new position. He showed in the highest degree a great devotion to duty, remarkable organizing skill and most consummate bravery. It was largely owing to his splendid example that the battalion put up such an excellent defence and inflicted such heavy casualties on the enemy, and to him must be attributed in no small degree the stand made by this division on the Bapaume-Cambrai road, which did so much to save the situation on this part of the field. He commanded his battalion most gallantly till he fell wounded on 23rd March, when, owing to the proximity of the enemy, it was impossible to bring him back to our lines.

SELMES, J. C. (D.S.O. L.G. 18.1.18) (Details, L.G. 25.4.18.); Major, Aust. F.A.

SELOUS, F. C. (D.S.O. L.G. 26.9.16); m. Marie Catherine Gladys, d. of Rev. Canon Maddy, of Down Hatherley; educ. Rugby and abroad; was in the Rugby School Volunteers in 1868, and was present at a Review by Queen Victoria in Windsor Great Park. Before he was 20 he went to S. Africa, and in Matabeleland obtained from Lobengula the right to shoot elephants. His career as a Big Game Hunter is, of course, well known, and altogether he killed nearly 1,000 head of big game, 33 specimens of which are in the Natural History Museum at S. Kensington. His biggest lion stood 4 ft. 6 in. in height, but, owing to the difficulties of transport, he never succeeded in bringing a whole elephant to England. He spent several years in Mashonaland, helping to map the country, and in 1890 acted as Guide to the British South Africa Company's Expedition. In 1892 he returned to England and wrote "A Hunter's Wanderings in Africa." In 1893 he took part in the first Matabele War—he was a Guide in the expedition organized by Mr. Cecil Rhodes—and during the years that followed was chiefly occupied in shooting and hunting, extending his wanderings even to Asia. When nearly 60 years of age he joined Mr. Roosevelt in a big game hunting expedition, and later had a visit from Mr. Roosevelt at Worpleston. He wrote also "Travel and Adventure in South-East Africa," "Sunshine and Storm in Rhodesia," and "Sport and Travel East and West," and among his other works are "Recent Hunting Trips in British North America," 1907; "African Nature Notes and Reminiscences," 1908. In 1914 Mr. Selous joined a service battalion of the R. Fusiliers; became Lieut., Feb. 1915; Capt. Aug. 1915. With a draft of his regiment he joined the forces of General Smuts for the campaign in German E. Africa, quickly came under the observation of his Commanding Officer, was mentioned in Despatches, and awarded the D.S.O. He fell on 4.1.17, while leading the attack on Bhoheho. Though wounded he continued to encourage his men in the advance till he fell, shot dead. His elder son, Capt. F. H. B. Selous, M.C., R.W. Surrey Rgt., att. R.F.C., was reported missing on 4.1.18, and was later on reported killed in action on that date, aged 19.

He served in the Bechuanaland Expedition, 1884-85; in Zululand, 1888; was A.D.C. to the Governor of Natal, 1887-90. When the Inniskilling Dragoons went to S. Africa Capt. Yardley rejoined the Regiment from a shooting expedition in India, commanding A Squadron from 13.4.00 until 16 Oct. following, when he was wounded. On the night of 11 May Capt. Yardley commanded the escort when Major Hunter Weston attempted a raid on the railway communication, north of Kroonstadt. On 10 May Capt. Yardley took A Squadron with orders to reconnoitre the railway to Homing Spruit and report on its condition. This he accomplished after a good deal of fighting. When, during the advance on Johannesburg the Inniskillings seized Elandsfontein, Major (now Lord) Allenby and Capt. Yardley narrowly escaped being killed by one of our own shells. After he was wounded Captain Yardley wrote "With the Inniskilling Dragoons in South Africa," a book to which Major F. R. Burnham, the celebrated American Scout, referred when giving details of his own career for this work. Lieut.-Colonel Yardley served in the European War as D.D. Remounts with Cavalry Corps, 4th and 5th Armies; was mentioned in Despatches, and created a C.M.G. in 1918; subsequently he was District Remount Officer, Gloucestershire. A member of the National Hunt Committee, he was Sporting Editor of the Cavalry Journal; a well-known cross-country rider, polo player, and rider to hounds. He died on 28.11.20, greatly regretted by his countless friends.
